YOUR CONGRESSMAN SAYS

by Rep. Sam Coon
2nd District

My Wapinitia Bill has been passed by the House of Representatives. It authorizes construction of the Juniper Division of the Wapinitia Federal Reclamation Project near Maupin, and will bring irrigation water to 2,100 acres in Wasco County.

The main features of the project will be an earth and rockfill dam and a reservoir, on the headwaters of Clear Creek, which flows into the White River. Most of the irrigated land in this area will be put into alfalfa and pasture.

I find that congressional opinion on rigid or flexible farm price supports is not split strictly along party lines. An example of this is the Senate Agriculture Committee vote for rigid price supports at 90 per cent of parity on wheat and four other crops.

The committee left this rigid support provision in the Senate's farm bill by the close vote of eight to seven. In favor of it were five Democrats and three Republicans. Against it were four Republicans and three Democrats. You can hardly call this a straight partyline vote.

The House of Representatives has passed the appropriation bill for the 1937 fiscal year for the Interior Department and related agencies. It was for 416 million dollars. This is not such big spending when you consider that the United States Treasury gets back more than 350 million dollars a year in revenue from Interior Department income—from mineral leases, grazing rights and sales of timber, for instance.
