"WHY DON'T WE JUST TELL HER THAT WE'RE NOT GONNA EAT PARSNIPS EVER AGAIN?"

MC Art Linkletter To Keep Emmy Ceremony 'Light'

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—When TV hands out its Emmy Awards Saturday night, master-of-ceremonies Art Linkletter will keep the event light and funny—so it won't be "pompous" like the Oscar rites.

Some 2,000 celebrities and workers of the TV industry will put on their best minks and black ties to watch the Emmy statuettes being handed out on a converted ice rink, the huge Pan-Pacific Auditorium.

The senior award-givers—the movies' Oscars—conduct their affair with seriousness. But Linkletter thinks, "the nicest thing about the TV Academy is it's a young group and has not yet become pompous."

The Emmy show has its emphasis on humor instead of on tearful acceptance speeches by serious stars as at the Oscar ceremony.

JOIN CAST

The Oscar crowd usually has serious actors and actresses to present the awards. But the Emmy group hopes to keep the TV audience smiling by having comics as presenters, including George Gobel, Jimmy Durante, Bob Cummings, Martha Raye and Sam Levenson.

Also unlike the Oscars, most of the Emmy nominees plan to show up for the show both here and in New York. Gracie Allen, Eve Arden, Walt Disney, Loretta Young, Barry Sullivan, Robert Young and Danny Thomas are among the 208 nominees who made reservations.

Linkletter offered to emcee the event after a spirited squabble over the Emmy nomination ballot. One group tried to cancel the event. Jerry Lewis and Dick Powell were among stars who turned down the emcee job.

GIVE ADVICE

"A lot of friends told me I shouldn't have taken it because it has been turned down by others," he grinned. "That's a fetish in this town—to keep face. I feel the TV Academy needed help."

Linkletter emceed the Emmy's second awards, but the evening was nearly catastrophic. The curtain failed to go up, the microphone conked out and a plaster column on the stage fell over and knocked a violinist unconscious.

Ike's Statement On Nixon Foreshadows Veep's Naming

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's statement that "I would be happy to be on any ticket" with Vice President Nixon was interpreted by senators of both parties today as foreshadowing Nixon's renomination.

"That ought to end any rumors the President might have another running mate," Sen. Mundt (R-SD) told an interviewer. He said the Republicans are now in a position to push ahead with their campaign "while the Democrats don't even know who their head man will be."

FRESH PRAISE

Eisenhower made the statement, and accompanied it with fresh praise for Nixon, in commenting at his news conference yesterday on the New Hampshire primary in which more than 22,000 Republican voters wrote in Nixon's name for GOP vice presidential candidate.

Eisenhower said the vote indicated "lots of people" in New Hampshire "agree with what I have told you about Dick Nixon."

Nixon didn't commit himself on running again, although friends said there is no doubt of his availability. He issued a statement saying:

"There could be no greater reward for a man in public life than to have the President speak so generously as he has of my work on several occasions during the past three years. All I can say is that I shall try to continue day by day to do the best job I can in behalf of the Eisenhower administration."

In another statement, Nixon said "no one could have been more surprised than I was" at the size of the write-in vote for him in New Hampshire.

NEW CHAIRMAN

Sen. Schoeppel of Kansas, new chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee, said, "I am glad to see the President make that statement because many of us on Capitol Hill feel the same way about it. ... The New Hampshire write-in demonstrates Nixon's popularity with the people."

Senate GOP Leader Knowland of California and Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) said Eisenhower's statement appeared to be an endorsement of Nixon for renomination.

TV Critic Recalls Early Days Of King Kong Film

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The other night I tuned in the TV set and there was my old pal King Kong, he of the flaming eyes and monstrous apelike breed. It gave me quite a turn.

There was a somewhat younger Bruce Cabot running around in puttees, and my old flame, Fay Wray, whom Kong coveled. I stuck right with it to that climactic scene, you remember, where Kong climbs the Empire State Building and those old World War I biplane Curtiss Hawks come slanting with that ah-ah-ah-ack of machine guns.

It all took me back to 1933 before Hollywood ever had heard of television and "King Kong" stalked the neighborhood movie houses, fascinating or horrifying us adolescents according to our natures. Personally I caught it at a movie house known as the Royal on a dark and rainy Saturday night—Alone.

Cursed by either cowardice or an overly active imagination, I made my way uneasily home through silent, rain-swept streets. The folks were out. I turned on a lot of lights and the radio and I was pretty brave for a while there until I heard the car in the driveway. Then I was ashamed of myself—and haven't mentioned it till now.

To be honest about it, I didn't just happen to tune the set to "King Kong." I heard people talking about it. The grassroots comment I heard on the reshowing of the old movie took two trurns.

First, many oldsters were interested that youngsters who weren't alive to see Kong in his original movie tour are just as excited by him as the oldsters were when they were young. It was quite heart-warming to some to find that kids are still kids after all—despite the warped notions of some adults that they're an entirely different breed these days.

I also heard one or two adults express the view that "King Kong" just ain't fittin' fun for young 'uns.

At first I was inclined to agree with him. And then I remembered my own experience with Kong and thought what a sanctimonious attitude to strike in my old age. True, Kong had frightened me. But not enough to send me into a decline or ever put me in the hands of a psychiatrist.

In a way an old movie like "King Kong" probably does more good than harm. It gives us oldsters the pleasure of that old nostalgia. And it gives youngsters the pleasure of something brand new.

Horn Tooting Becomes Luxury

NEW YORK (UP)—Horn tooting became an expensive luxury in New York City today. The price: $10 and up.

The luxury pricetag went on honking at 12:01 a.m. as part of a drive to bring quiet to the city's blaring, bustling streets.

Police had orders to hand out summonses to anyone caught tooting a horn. A summons automatically requires a trip to court and a fine ranging from $10 to $50.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner proclaimed March 15 "Q-Day" in celebration of the occasion and posed Wednesday with his forefinger to his lips while holding a sign with the legend:

"Don't be A Goose! Hold That Honk."

GRONCHI CONVINCED

NEW YORK (AP)—Italian President Giovanni Gronchi says his visit to this country "has confirmed my deep conviction that friendship with the United States must be strengthened and maintained in all its aspects" through the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Gronchi left by plane yesterday for his homeland.
