

WEYERHAEUSER

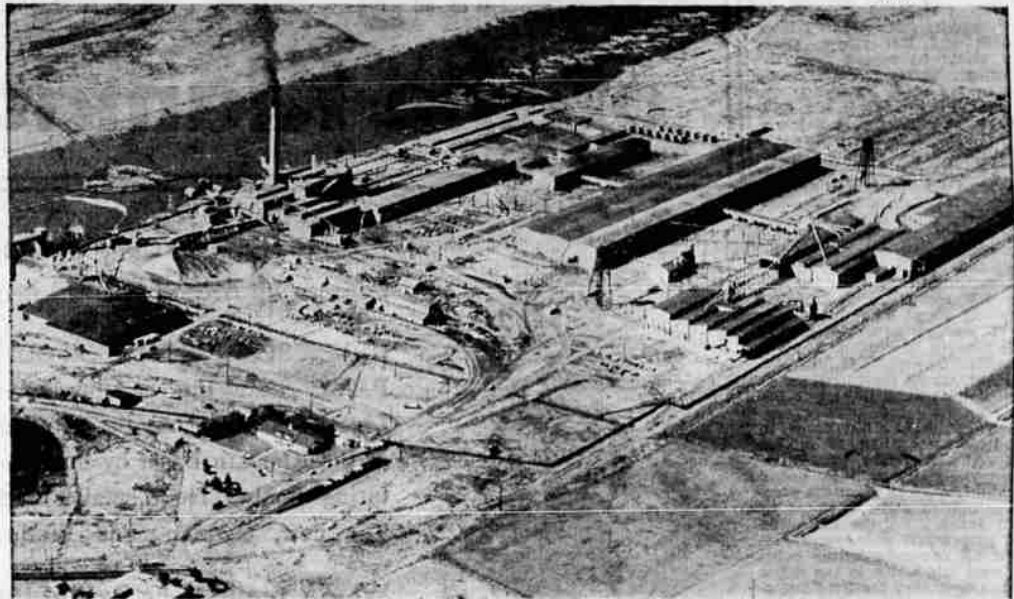

From this...

1927 - Weyerhaeuser Timber Company built this small Tie Mill to manufacture railroad ties and construction lumber in order to build the present mill.

Grew this...

Weyerhaeuser Timber Company is one of the leading lumber manufacturers in the nation. The Klamath Falls Branch carries an average yearly employee list of 1,100 men. The mill has four headribs, producing along with a gang saw, 375,000 board feet of lumber in an eight-hour shift. Many of the logs utilized at the Klamath Falls Branch come from Weyerhaeuser's 500,000-acre Klamath tree farm, where selective logging assures the Basin perpetual timber production and a sound economy!
