Present Red Regime Cleaned Up Russia, Malenkov Claims

LONDON (AP) — Former Soviet Premier Georgi M. Malenkov says the present Kremlin command has "cleaned up" Russia and that a Stalin dictatorship can never rise again in his homeland. Malenkov, now Soviet minister of power stations, was a dinner guest of labor members of Parliament Monday night and the Laborites reported he gave his views on the Soviet situation in a two-hour question and answer period.

Richard Crossman, one of the hosts, told reporters Malenkov "repeatedly said, 'We have cleaned up Russia.'"

"He tried to impress on us that we need not worry," Crossman said. "That they had stopped the dictatorship. That they had stopped the wicked things."

"He said very, very clearly it could not happen again, that collective government now has been firmly established and that dictatorship could not return."

"I cannot say how many of us he convinced," Crossman added, "but he certainly tried hard."

Sidney Silverman, another Laborite who attended the dinner, said Malenkov told the group, "Collective leadership is now established, along with the right to dissent outside the collective leadership without being branded a traitor to the leadership and party and people."

"We did not ask him about his association with Stalin or his position in the Soviet hierarchy now," Silverman said, "but he gave us the impression he did not like Stalin." Malenkov succeeded to the premiership after Stalin's death. Since he resigned from that post last year, confessing inability to do the job, there has been considerable speculation about the security of his position in the Kremlin lineup. Malenkov now is visiting Britain as head of a delegation of Soviet power industry experts. In Moscow, the public campaign to deify the Stalin status continued with two first deputy premiers of the Soviet Union adding their voices to the mounting chorus. The Soviet news agency Tass said Anastas Mikoyan and Mikhail Peryukhin spoke at two big Moscow factories, leading "discussions of the directives of the 20th Congress of the Communist party."

Anglo-French Disarmament Plan Said Approved By U.S.

LONDON (AP) — First American reaction appeared generally favorable today to a comprehensive disarmament plan submitted by Britain and France.

The detailed plan, which was not made public, was being studied by the United States, Canada and the Soviet Union. It was presented at the opening yesterday of new talks here by the five-nation U. N. Disarmament subcommittee.

Harold Stassen, head of the U.S. delegation, made it clear that the United States had several reservations about the plan, but the American group seemed generally friendly toward it. The delegation referred the proposals to Washington.

The Soviet delegation expressed no opinion on the British-French plan. First Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko listened attentively as it was presented and said he needed time for a careful study.

The British-French proposal reportedly combines the most acceptable suggestions presented by both the East and West in years of negotiations. It sets out to limit conventional arms and armies and future production of nuclear weapons. It also would provide a global system of control and inspection.

Stassen read President Eisenhower's letter on disarmament sent to Soviet Premier Nikoiz Bulganin early this month and told the meeting the letter remains the basis of the U. S. view on disarmament. He said, however, the United States will have other suggestions to make. Eisenhower's letter urged ef-orts to end the atomic arms race by freezing stockpiles of atomic weapons under a "safeguarded" disarmament system.

It said the powers should be able to agree on measures dealing with the control and limitation of "major types of armaments" and that the United States would be prepared to make a disarmament supervision system apply to foreign bases of both the Soviet Union and the United States.

Officials said it also was aimed at showing how Eisenhower's open-skied aerial inspection proposal could be used to lead into substantial measures of weapons reduction and control.
