Future Nurse Pins Awarded

Eight Klamath Union High School students received Future Nurse Club pins at the traditional pinning ceremony held Tuesday evening, March 20, in the school library. Those who earned pins are Alicia Ager, Shirley DeLonge, Jean Kloiber, Barbara Moore, Roberta Pruitt, Vera Smith, Barbara Rotrock, and Norma Brallier.

The Future Nurse Club is sponsored by the Woman's Auxiliary to the Klamath County Medical Society to introduce high school girls to the opportunities for service in nursing and to encourage interest in various nursing fields. Community service has been the keynote of the club's program for the year.

Members made stuffed toys and animals for distribution by the Christmas Bureau, took an active part in the Teens Against Polio drive, and staffed the nursery for the recent visit of the bloodmobile. The group performed so efficiently on the last task that they were invited by the Red Cross to make it a permanent project and it will go on the agenda for succeeding years as well.

Advisers are school nurse, Mrs. Howard Storde, and auxiliary nurse recruitment chairman, Mrs. John W. Christerson.

The formal candlelight ceremony, conducted by Peggy Brown, club president, is used throughout the United States by auxiliary sponsored clubs. Following the award of pins, Mrs. Raymond Tice, auxiliary president, served punch to the future nurses and their mothers assisted by auxiliary members who were hostesses for the event.

Supervisors Vote Against Sales Tax

YREKA — The Siskiyou County supervisors Tuesday voted unanimously against a county-wide uniform sales tax this year.

Supervisor W. A. Barr said some means of raising additional revenue was needed, however, and that in his opinion the sales tax offers the best possibilities.

Letters received from city officials and other interested civic groups indicated most of the county was against the tax, the supervisors reported. Mount Shasta, Dunsmuir and Fort Jones stood along as favoring the tax.

Yreka, Tulelake, Etna, Montague, Weed and Dorris were opposed to the tax.

Artifactors Name Committeemen

Committee members to head this year's activities were named at Monday evening's meeting of the Artifactors at the Klamath County Library by the recently elected president, James DeVore.

Named were: Program and refreshments, Mrs. Bill Carter, Mrs. Carrol Howe and Mrs. Lloyd Seely; publications, Mr. and Mrs. Lane Smith and Mrs. Roy Gieger; research, Geve Favell, Roy Gieger and Jerry Wolff.

Bob Montgomery was introduced as guest of the evening.

Among the displays brought to the meeting was a mounting of well preserved matting and rope found by Robert Wilson.

Humphrey Says Stevenson Must Exploit Defeat Lessons

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, who backed the loser in Minnesota, said today that Adlai E. Stevenson and his supporters should exploit the lessons learned from defeat in the Minnesota presidential primary.

The Minnesota Democrat belongs to that school of Stevenson backers who insist that their candidate was not hurt fatally by being upset in Minnesota Tuesday by Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

"Any defeat is a setback," Humphrey admitted in an interview. "But out of defeat we sometimes learn. Stevenson supporters must recognize that he is now the underdog and show the same dedicated zeal that Sen. Kefauver's have shown."

"CRUCIAL TEST"

Humphrey expressed the belief that the "crucial test" between Stevenson and Kefauver will come in the California primary June 5. The two candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination are also matched in Alaska April 24 and Florida May 29.

Kefauver already has resumed campaigning in California, and Humphrey said he expects both candidates to concentrate on that state.

He also said he believes Stevenson thinks that less campaign time should be devoted to addressing mass meetings and more to leisurely personal contacts—a technique which Kefauver has used so successfully.

Humphrey reiterated his belief that the big factor in the Minnesota primary was that farm state voters are in revolt against the farm policies of the Eisenhower administration.

He said Republicans may have "tricked" the Stevenson backers by getting their followers into the Democratic primary to vote for Kefauver in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area. But he said no such explanation could account for Kefauver's vote in the farm areas.
