

Stevenson Lashes At GOP "Misconduct" As Campaign Tempo Gains

By TOM NELSON
HARTFORD, Conn. (UP)—Adlai E. Stevenson carried his campaign into New England today and warned that the Republicans cannot take a single state "for granted" in the November election.

The Democratic presidential nominee said in a talk prepared for delivery to a regional party conference that he finds "widespread and sober concern" about the policies of the Eisenhower administration, and "a warm response" to the vote appeals he has made.

"On the basis of our experience so far, I do not believe that there is a single state which the Republicans can take for granted in this election," Stevenson said.

The candidate arrived here from New York City, where he spent the night after attacking the GOP administration for "misconduct and corruption" at a Palisades Park, N.Y., rally.

Stevenson told New Jersey Democrats of scandals he said occurred under Republicans in the New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Illinois state governments, and said the same thing "has marked the Eisenhower administration from start to finish."

Stevenson gave as his only example the resignation of Air Force Secretary Harold Talbott last year, after Talbott was criticized for soliciting government business for his management consultant firm.

"This gentleman is only one of the cases of official misconduct among the crusaders," Stevenson said. "And even more serious than the confusion of public office with private business, has been the effort to despoil our great natural resources for private profit."

Party leaders from six New England states assembled here for the regional meeting, the seventh in a series of "precampaign" huddles planned by Stevenson and his running mate, Sen. Estes Kefauver.

Stevenson was scheduled to leave here by plane late today for Albany where he will address the New York State Democratic Convention tonight. He returns to New York City tonight.

Stevenson said that he and Kefauver had found "rather a widespread and sober concern" among the people "over the absence of leadership in Washington . . . in security and want that discolors our prosperity . . . the ugly disorders that warp the path of civilization . . . the deterioration of our political and military position in the cold war, and over much else."

Stevenson said there also is "growing concern" over the rising cost of living. A recent increase of three-fourths of 1 per cent in one month, he said, "signals the threat of inflation."
