Eisenhower To Give Talk Over Television Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP)—If folks who have been talking about a "new" Stevenson and a "new" Nixon look closely in the next few days, some of them may see signs of a "new" Eisenhower.

President Eisenhower bids for reelection tonight with a nationally televised talk in which he is expected to lay out a blueprint for a more secure peace and more widespread prosperity.

The CBS telecast, which is costing the Republican National Committee $75,000, has been billed as a program without gimmicks, during which Eisenhower will speak from a prepared text and without using any mechanical prompting device.

This speech will be his first broadcast in a campaign in which he has said he will not barnstorm. While he obviously plans to reply to Democratic contentions that his administration is losing the cold war with Russia, he probably won't mention the Democrats directly.

There may be some change made, however, when he starts out tomorrow for some folksy talks Friday in Iowa. He will speak that day at the National Field Days and Plowing Contest at Newton and later at the Des Moines airport.

Nobody expects him to engage in any roundhouse swinging at the opposition of the kind some observers profess to see coming from a "new" Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee.

But unless all the current signs are wrong, Eisenhower will be found doing a lot of things that mark the candidate who wants to win and feels he must get next to the people to do it.

Already there have been some changes. It isn't difficult to tell around the White House these days that this is an election year.

Photographers who found a lot of time on their hands in previous months now are being kept busy making pictures of Eisenhower with visiting politicians and citizens credited with having some influence upon various voting groups.

Annual Bull Sale Slated

LAKEVIEW — plans are being completed for the fourth annual bull sale sponsored by the Lake County Stockgrowers Association to be held at Lakeview on October 5 and 6, Friday and Saturday. Don Hotchkiss is chairman of the committee in charge.

Approximately 60 bulls have been lined up for the sale and it is hoped to have more before the end of the month. Grading will be done on Friday by a committee of William Farrell, county agent from John Day; Harry Stearns of Prineville, and Ray Stanfield, representative of the cattlemen from Lake County.

The sifting committee is made up of Dr. Vic Hill and Dr. R. B. Tangeman of Susanville, veterinarians; Con Fitzgerald Jr. of Lakeview, and Tom Jenkins, White of Ontario.

A social evening is being planned for Friday, but the place has not yet been decided upon, according to Jimmy Ogle, committee chairman. There are also tentative plans for a barbecue luncheon to be prepared and sold by the Lake County Cowbells, headed by Mrs. Osie Stanfield of Paisley.

Lake County Plans Drive

LAKEVIEW — Representatives of various city and county organizations met September 14 in the courthouse and unanimously elected Don Hotchkiss, Lake County stockman, to head the drive for a favorable vote on the extension service in the November election.

Hotchkiss will head a committee of workers who will endeavor to contact every voter in the county with brief evidence of the value of the 4-H and extension program to the county. The service, which has operated in the county for 38 years, is being maintained until January 1 on voluntary donations following defeat of a referendum measure in May which asked for money on a serial tax levy.

Gene Lear, state extension agent, spoke to the representatives and pointed out that 78 per cent of the extension service money comes from federal and state funds, with 22 per cent from the county. He stated that if the service is voted out again Lake County taxpayers would still be paying their part of the 78 per cent, with no service derived from it.

CAT BURNS DOWN BARN

BROMYARD, England (UP)—Peter Snatchford, 11, accidentally dropped a lit match Tuesday night. It landed upon his pet cat. The cat, its fur burning, streaked into a barn filled with hay. It charged out again, singed, but no longer flaming. The barn burned for nine hours.

Bonney Optimistic About KF Recreation, Park Programs

Klamath Falls Recreation Director Bob Bonney today reviewed the park and recreation picture with a definite degree of optimism. The city is growing, the park and recreation program is being concentrated on and a definite increased interest and participation in recreation is being reflected.

Bonney first points to the extensive use of Gem stadium since it has become an integral part of the city's recreation facilities.

During the just completed baseball season the Klamath Lakers played 33 games in the park, with the rental proceeds to the city being $2,008.44. The Lakers further utilized the park for 30 practice sessions.

In addition, the other baseball and softball units within the city played more than 84 games in the park and held 14 practice sessions, with the city realizing $228 in percentage gate fees. Participation by the latter groups included such as teams with the American Legion League, the Babe Ruth League, the Basinettes, the state softball tourney, the men's softball association and other clubs.

"But that isn't the important factor," Bonney stressed. "The meat on the bone is that Gem Stadium accommodated more than 10,000 spectators during the 1955-56 fiscal year and provided entertainment for approximately 20,000 during the just concluded summer. The future considers attendance at all ball games, including the 17,477 persons attracted by the Laker series.

"That is just the approximate number of spectators," he adds, "when you consider that there are just about 20 team members with each of the ball clubs which saw action on the field, the number of persons who took advantage of the facilities is considerably more."

In addition to the summer use, the stadium this fall will be utilized by some of the high school teams for night football games. Merrill and Henley are scheduled for the stadium on Friday night, September 21; the Henley-Chloquin game is scheduled there September 28; Bonanza and Chloquin will play there October 12, and Henley and Phoenix are tentatively scheduled for action in the park October 15.

Shifting his sites to other activities within the city's recreation structure, Bonney adds that increased participation in the playground programs was noted this year. With the addition of the Moore Park wading pool operation on a 33-day basis, more than 14,007 children made themselves available to the parks and play programs during the past summer.

The majority of the supervised play areas operated 40 half days during the summer, with the Kiwanis park being opened 52 full days.

Concerning the swim program, Bonney explains that more than 60,000 persons swam at the pool during the summer and early days of September. As a part of the Red Cross assisted water safety program, more than 860 youths were certified in the fields of life saving, aides, instructors, intermediate, beginning and seasoned swimmers.

Mrs. May Myers, Red Cross water safety chairman for the Klamath County chapter, recently informed Bonney and members of the park and recreation board that regional directors of the Red Cross Falls program compares favorably with those usually found in cities of 50,000 or more.

TENNIS PROGRAM
 A definite upswing was noted in participation in the Tennis instruction program. The classes were conducted for 63 days, with the average daily attendance being 43.

In addition to the other phases of the widespread city recreation program, approximately 53 baseball and softball clubs kept the grass from growing too high at Conger Field, Recreation Field, Gem Stadium and Kiwanis Park. The team entries represented slightly more than 1,000 players, with squads being from the bandman, pec-wee, midget and Babe Ruth leagues, as well as the Bas-
