UO Sororities Pledge 69 Girls

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene—University of Oregon sororities pledged 69 university coeds during a four-day rushing period for upperclassmen and transfer students.

This special rushing period, used for the first time last year, permits the pledges to move directly into their sorority houses before registration and before formal freshman rush. Freshmen women pledged during the regular rushing periods are required to live in dormitories during their first year on the campus.

On the pledge list from Klamath Falls are Carolyn Boyd, pledged to Gamma Phi Beta; Carlene Braathen, pledged to Alpha Omicron Pi; Joan Hickman pledged to Sigma Kappa and Joyce Pretari, pledged to Alpha Gamma Delta.

BARNEY BARNSTABLE

Then Now

Speaking of chefs, New York has its Oscar of the Waldorf and Klamath Falls its Barney of the Chat-N-Nibble.

Although Christopher H. (Barney) Barnstable, who has been operating his food emporium next door to the Herald and News Building for the past eight years, doesn't claim he could top any of the fancy dishes put out by Gotham's most famous cook, he said he won't take a back seat when it comes to good old American cooking.

"When my old friends, Charlie McFarlan and Sam Neslin were cutting up capers at radio station KFLW a couple of years ago," he said, "they used to bring all the celebrities who passed through Klamath Falls into the Chat-N-Nibble. Several big shots in the entertainment world said to me: 'Barney, you put out the best ham an' eggs between the two Portlands!' "

BORN IN ILLINOIS

Barnstable, who has been a resident of Klamath Falls since 1921, was born September 29, 1892 in Edwardsville, Illinois. When he was five years old the family moved to Evanston, Illinois, where Barnstable's father was a divinity student.

The elder Barnstable was finally ordained as a minister of the Methodist Church and accepted a call to Blackfoot, Idaho.

"The main street of Blackfoot in those days," Barnstable said, "would have made a perfect set for a wild and wooly western movie. Blanketed Indians stood in front of the saloons and stores. Cowboys, many of them carrying plenty of hardware, sometimes shot up the town."

The future chef started his working career as a clerk in a Blackfoot grocery store. He might have been there yet if it hadn't been for World War I.

Barnstable enlisted in the United States Army Air Corps. He was sent to Kelley Field, San Antonio, Texas.

GOOD RUNNER

"I was attached to headquarters there," he explained. "I made sergeant first class. About the only thing exciting that happened to me was when I was in charge of a work detail. One of the boys tried to go over the hill. I chased him a mile and a half before I caught him."

Barnstable was at an Officers Training School in Jacksonville, Florida, when the Armistice was signed.

"The school closed down," he said. "I was discharged and went home with the idea that I hadn't done much to make the world safe for democracy."

Barnstable's first job in Klamath Falls was clerk and deliveryman for Houston & Phelps Grocery Store at Eighth and Main streets.

PLENTY OF MUD

"During the winter," he said, "I delivered groceries in the Mills Addition with a four-horse team. That many horses were needed to pull a load through the mud."

Later Barney opened the Hurry Cash Grocery and in 1940 switched to the restaurant business.

"I've made a lot of friends," he concluded. "If I had my life to live over again, I probably wouldn't change it much."

Barney was married while in the Air Corps to Mattie H. Hunzeker of Hastings, Nebraska. They have two children, Janice Hegler, Klamath Falls, and Cowell H. Barnstable, Salinas, California. Mrs. Barnstable is supervisor of cafeterias for the city schools.

(Listen to Barney Barnstable Sunday 10:15 p.m., Radio Station KFLW.)

Grange Meeting Held In Malin

MALIN—The Malin Grange held a regular business meeting on Tuesday, September 11 at the community hall with Master Dick Kruger presiding.

A report was given by Ray Drake, agricultural committee member, on the benefit and detriments to the local farmers of the soil bank program. D. P. Reid gave a report on the agricultural items in the grange labor paper. A $10 award was given to Ron Kalina by the grange for his fat lamb he entered as a FFA member in the county fair.

Refreshments were served to the 15 members present by Mrs. A. G. Scott. The next social meeting will be September 25 with T.E. Weatherby in charge.

OCF Opens New Offices

PORTLAND — Oregon Colleges Foundation Friday opened its new offices in the Education Center Building, 220 S. W. Alder Street.

The executive committee of the foundation recently announced the appointment of Grant Cosgrove as their 'first full-time executive director. Ralph C. Scott, who retired as part-time director, has left on an extended tour of the United States and Mexico.

Cosgrove came here from Oregon Technical Institute in Klamath Falls, where he was public relations director, and formerly was field secretary for the United States Chamber of Commerce in western Washington and Oregon. Miss Barbara Howard, formerly of Klamath Falls, is secretary for the organization.

Chairman of the foundation, which is made up of the 10 independent accredited colleges in the state of Oregon, is Charles Armstrong, president of Pacific University. Vice chairman is Milton Bell of Abbott, Kerns and Bell. Morgan S. Odell, president of Lewis and Clark College, is secretary, and John Griffith, president of Multnomah College, is treasurer. Other college members are Cascade, Linfield, Marylhurst, Mt. Angel, Reed, the University of Portland, and Williamette University.
