

United Crusade Chairman Spotlights Youth Needs

Emphasizing the need for support of United Fund youth agencies, Carl O. Olsen, chairman of the East Bay United Crusade in Oakland, told United Fund-Red Cross campaign workers in Klamath Falls Wednesday that "there is nothing more dangerous than a guided missile or an unguided youth."

"The youth agencies get the majority of money collected through United Fund," Olsen said, "and the youth agencies have the best program to combat juvenile delinquency that has ever been proposed."

He pointed out that juvenile delinquents hit small businessmen first, and added that it costs $7 a year to support a Boy Scout; $2,100 a year to care for a juvenile delinquent.

Olsen, who is passenger agent and public relations director for Southern Pacific Railroad Company in Oakland, urged total support of this community effort.

"Minority groups may balk," he said, "but they should remember that we are all members of a minority group in some sense, and they should be conscious of the fact that a Bill of Responsibility goes before a Bill of Rights."

He pointed out that the united way of giving is the American way of giving.

"If we don't meet our community needs voluntarily," he said, "they will be met through taxes."

Olsen reminded the some 125 volunteer workers at the luncheon meeting in the Willard Hotel that "payroll sharing is the only way to meet a substantial goal and provide for year around needs. This isn't a Christmas package," he remarked, "it is a year around responsibility."

He urged a broad base organization for a united campaign—"one in which every participating agency and its board members take an active part in helping the total community."

Olsen was introduced by T. J. McCarty, district freight and passenger agent for Southern Pacific in Klamath Falls. McCarty is an associate campaign chairman with Jack Otterbein under Noel Flynn.

California To End DST

SACRAMENTO (UP)— Californians turn back their clocks one hour at 2 a.m., Sunday morning, thus picking up the hour they lost April 29 when the state sent on daylight saving time.

As usual, the one-hour time change will be met with mixed reactions. To the suburbanite, it means the end of after dinner gardening. The cafe society will gain an extra hour's drinking time Saturday night, hunters wishing to stalk their buck in predawn darkness will have to roll out of sleeping bags an hour earlier by the clock.

Farmers, especially dairymen, will have a bit more light for their early morning chores, and mothers should find it easier to put youngsters to bed, as earlier darkness will put an end to outdoor play.

Whatever the reactions to the five-month period of daylight saving time from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in September, it's apparently in California to stay. The time switch is officially on the lawbooks. While most sessions of the Legislature see attempts made to repeal it, these usually are half hearted and draw little support.

Six Youths Ride To Death

WASHINGTON (UP)— This is the story of seven jean-clad Washington youths, an automobile ride to an ice cream parlor and death.

Frank Poynton, 16, a high school student, called on his girl friend, Sharon Rafferty, 16, early Tuesday night. Charles Ford, 22, dropped by later.

Then they decided to go out for a "treat" at a soda fountain.

On the way in Charles' car they picked up Joyce Harper, 14, at her home. They met Weyman Coffield, 14, Allan Moore, 15, Sharon's brother, Michael 15, at the soda fountain or shortly afterwards.

They decided to take a ride.

About 9:30 p.m. the car, traveling according to police at about 75 miles an hour, spun out of control on a hilly winding road at the Ft. Washington Reservation in nearby Maryland.

The two-door sedan crashed against a big sycamore tree.

Charles and Sharon were dead when police arrived.

Frank died in an ambulance on the way to a hospital.

Joyce died early Wednesday morning.

Weyman died shortly after breakfast.

Allen died before noon.

Only Mike was alive today to remember.

Absent 'Recruit' Nabbed By FBI

J. F. Santolana, agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation office in Portland, announced Thursday that Harold Bell Wright, 23-year-old Chiloquin ranch worker, was held in Klamath County Jail for failing to report for induction into the armed services.

Wright was arrested Wednesday night in Chiloquin by FBI Agent William Crowder and Klamath County Deputy Sheriff Alvie Youngblood.

Asked at the county jail why he failed to report for induction, Wright said:

"I didn't think 'Uncle' wanted me very bad."

Wright was to be arraigned later today before U.S. Commissioner Bert Thomas and then transferred to Portland for prosecution.

Washington Spud Ruling Asked

MOSES LAKE (AP)— The Washington State Potato Committee recommended Wednesday night that the size of the No. 2 potato be increased from two inches or four ounces to a straight five ounces.

The committee estimated that under the proposed upgrading, 15 per cent of the state's potato crop would be withheld from the market, the smaller No. 2's becoming culls.

Traffic Violations

CINCINNATI (AP)— John C. Austin, 22, was fined $1,439 for 51 traffic violations by Judge Clarence Denning. He also lost his driver's license for a year. Judge Denning said Austin's "contempt of the law is fantastic."

Death Takes J. McCartie

Jerry McCartie, 62, well-known Klamath County sheepman, died at 11 p.m. Wednesday, September 26 at Hillsdale Hospital where he was taken for treatment shortly before his death. He had been in ill health for several months.

Mr. McCartie was a native of New Market, County Cork, Ireland, born January 19, 1894. He came to Lakeview when he was 16 years old and then to Bonanza where he has lived since that time. The family ranch was four miles east of Bonanza.

He was a member of St. Francis Cabrini Catholic Church, Bonanza and of the Klamath Falls Elk's Lodge, No. 1247.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Bernice McCartie, Bonanza; a daughter, Mrs. Leonard (Nora) Scholer, Klamath Falls; a grandson, Michael Scholer, and brothers Jack and Pat McCartie of Bonanza, Con and William of Ireland.

Funeral services will be announced by Ward's Klamath Funeral Home.

No Meet - Merry Mixers Square Dance Club will not meet Friday, September 26 because of the opening of the deer season.

CITY BRIEFS

Water Users To Appeal

Frank Z. Howard, president of the Klamath Water Users Protective Association, announced today the results of a meeting of the executive committee of that organization on Wednesday.

It was decided that a petition would be presented to the California Public Utilities Commission appealing the recent rejection of a request for a reduction in off-project pumping rates which was presented by the California Oregon Power Company.

Copco asked for the rate reduction on the grounds that off-project water users should not have to pay more than 7.5 mills per kilowatt hour so that their pumping expenses would bring them closer to the costs facing water users on the Klamath Reclamation Project.

The PUC rejected the request because they said it would discriminate against other Copco customers who would have to cover the deficit, since the reduced rate would not cover the cost of service.

Butte Valley and Tulelake Basin farmers would be effected by the new rate if it is approved.

Police Warn Children Of Dangerous Dynamite Caps

If you see a little copper cylinder about as round as a lead pencil and between two and three inches long don't fool with it, just call the city police at TU 4-3111 and one of the patrolmen will come out and pick it up.

That was the advice this morning of Police Chief Orville Hamilton when learning that some of the school children have dynamite caps in their possession and are believed to have been detonating the lethal instruments during the past two days.

Presence of the caps in the hands of students was discovered Wednesday afternoon when John Ginther, a teacher at Mills School, found a student trying to detonate a cap out on the recreation field. He took the cap away from the boy and notified police.

Questioning by the officers determined that the boy might have obtained the cap from one of the KUIHS students. Police are questioning the high school youths.

High School Principal Charles Carlson told police that detonations had been heard in the vicinity of the high school, but that faculty members thought the explosions to be large fire crackers.

A powder authority termed the type of cap found on the Mills recreation field to be one of the most dangerous of the blasting units. They are a concussion type cap which can be detonated by spark or impact, and powder workers handle them with extreme caution.

In an effort to help locate the source of the caps, Chief Hamilton said he would greatly appreciate it if persons and firms using such caps in their work would check their stocks to see if any have been stolen, and notify the police if it is determined that some caps are missing.

Butte Valley and Tulelake Basin farmers would be effected by the new rate if it is approved.
