President of the club, Mrs. Harold Wimer, who also heads the local United Fund drive, appointed the following committees for the dance: Decorations, Mrs. Dan Brown, Mrs. Mike Beaulieu, Mrs. Gail Culver, Mrs. Gene A. Page, Mrs. John Bergstrom; refreshments, Mrs. Wilbur Hescock, Mrs. Norman Cramer, Mrs. Everett Morris; tickets, Mrs. Joanna Taylor, Mrs. William A. Page; advertising posters, Mrs. Elmore Nicholson, Mrs. Gene A. Page; music and publicity, Mrs. Harold Wimer. Entire proceeds from the dance will go to Fort Klamath's quota for the United Fund-Red Cross drive.

organizations helped by funds raised and explaining work done throughout Klamath County by volunteer workers. At the conclusion of his talk, a question and answer period was held. Each year the local woman's organization sponsors a special public event to raise funds for the drive, in addition to their cash contribution. This year it will be a "Hard Times" dance on Saturday evening, October 6, in the CI clubhouse when all attending are asked to don their shabbiest clothes. A prize will be given for "hardest looking" characters in the following categories: men, women, boys 12 and under, girls 12 and under. A special guest prize will be given during the dance. Music for modern dancing will be furnished by a quartet of musicians from Chiloquin and Klamath Agency.

Lower Wheat Surplus Seen

HELIIX—Rep. Sam Coon (R-Ore) said here Thursday night that a substantial increase in wheat exports this year should help to cut price-depressing surpluses and establish a stable market in the future. Speaking to the Helix Chamber of Commerce, Coon said that the movement of grain out of this area would be facilitated even more if the Columbia River channel is deepened to Bonneville to allow passage of ocean-going vessels. He pointed out that a ready market awaits in Japan, which already is receiving Oregon wheat. "I note that far less Oregon grain is going into government storage this year," said Coon. "This is a healthy sign and should mean the beginning of the end of government controls." He said that as exports and consumption increase, the wheat problem will decrease. Coon said that he still supports the two-price plan for wheat, and will work for it again in the next session if the wheat growers want it. "I helped get this passed in the House in 1954, but didn't notice Senator Morse doing anything for it in the Senate," he said. "I also voted for it again this year in spite of the many defects of the first farm bill. I, of course, did not vote to override the President's veto when the support price was raised to a national average of $2 per bushel."

FEMININE HATS IN RING WASHINGTON (UP)—Mrs. Harry S. Truman, Mrs. Estes Kefauver, and other prominent Democratic women tossed their old hats into the ring Friday night. They donated the hats for an auction held at a Democratic women's day program.

"It makes them nervous to be watched while they're working!"

Workmen Begin Big Job Of Building Desert Dam

By HOWARD S. BENEDICT

KANAB, Utah (AP)—A big, sun-blackened workman stopped his bulldozer and, stepping into an inch of dust, walked to a nearby water bag. He filled a cup and drank deeply. "Man, that tastes good!" he exclaimed. He wiped the sweat of the 100-degree heat from his face. A pickup truck bounced up with two other workers aboard. The truck traveled along a newly graded road, throwing up a screen of dust. Half an hour later, it pulled into a trailer camp and the tired men went to wash, eat and rest. Working men, bulldozers, desert heat, trailer camps and dust—these are the ingredients that are going into making a dam in north central Arizona. The dam is Glen Canyon, the key unit of the 760-million-dollar Upper Colorado River project—the largest reclamation authorization ever granted by Congress in a single piece of legislation. Most of the work today is on construction of access roads to the dam site in rugged Arizona country five miles south of the Utah border. It will be almost three years before the first concrete is poured for the dam itself. A year ago the Glen Canyon Gorge of the Colorado River was accessible only by horseback. The nearest highways were at Kanab, 60 miles to the northwest, and at Bitter Springs, Ariz., 40 miles to the south. Today, crude roads—forerunners of a major highway—reach from Kanab and Bitter Springs to the opposite edges of the 800-foot deep gorge. Both Utah and Arizona have thrown hundreds of men into the work of road building in an effort to complete by November a road adequate to carry equipment and material for a mammoth diversion tunnel to be built near the dam site. The diversion tunnel will be 2,600 feet long and 46 feet in diameter cut out of solid rock at the bottom of the gorge. It will take more than a year to build. Then huge coffer dams will be erected above and below Glen Canyon before actual work can start on the dam. When concrete for the big dam begins to pour, an estimated 4,000 will be employed at the site. Many will bring their families and a needed irrigation water for more than 366,000 acres of land and have an installed hydroelectric power capacity of 1,100,000 kilowatts. The entire project will take more than 50 years to complete. Eventually it will supply badly needed irrigation water for more than 366,000 acres of land and have an installed hydroelectric power capacity of 1,100,000 kilowatts.
