Tito Returns From Visit

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Tito returned Friday from an eight-day visit to the Soviet Union.

Authoritative sources here express the opinion that Tito and Soviet Communist Party boss Khrushchev failed to settle whatever policy row may exist between the two governments and Communist parties.

Yugoslav Communist circles continue to insist no concessions were made by Tito. They said Tito refused to retreat from his basic demands—freedom of action, independence, equal rights for all Communist parties and nonadherance to a Communist camp which might have the look of a power bloc.

European satellite Communist parties will now come under close observation for keys to future developments in Soviet-Yugoslav party relations. A halt, for example, to the campaign of downgrading Stalin and liberalizing Communist regimes would indicate clearly that Moscow felt the program had gone too far and was dangerous to Soviet security.

West Foreign Ministers Reach Suez Agreement

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Big Three Western foreign ministers have reached "complete agreement" on a Suez resolution for submission to the U.N. Security Council, a British spokesman said Friday.

Sir George Young, British Foreign Office spokesman, made the announcement after a long conference by Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau.

They had met amid growing reports of differences.

Dulles flew here from Washington a few hours before the 11-nation Security Council met to hear Lloyd and Pineau open the debate with a demand for U.N. endorsement of international control of the 103-mile waterway.

Young did not disclose the provisions of the resolution but said it would be sponsored by Britain and France.

While the United States is in complete support, he said, it is not a co-sponsor.

Meanwhile, Council members were reported to have agreed to defer consideration of formal bids by Israel and seven Arab countries for permission to take part in the debate.

This apparently averted for the time being a threatened procedural tangle.

Dulles declared in a speech last night that the Suez session "in many respects will be the most momentous" the Security Council has ever held.

Today's session was the first meeting of the three Western foreign ministers since the second London conference on the Suez problem ended Sept. 21.

STATEMENTS AVOIDED

U.S. spokesmen here have carefully avoided any definite statement as to whether or not the United States would support a British-French resolution calling for U.N. endorsement of the position taken in the first London conference in August. This provided for international control of the 103-mile waterway, a demand Egypt already has rejected.

While U.N. representatives of the three western powers have sought to minimize the differences between the United States and her main Western allies, criticism of Dulles' position has been growing in France and Britain.

In Paris the newly elected speaker of the French National Assembly, Andre Le Troquer, denounced what he called the "near impotence" of the U.S. Suez policy. He blamed it on the election campaign.

French and British newspapers also have been critical of Dulles' news conference statement earlier this week about differences between the United States and the British and French.

U. S. AGREES

A U.S. spokesman here said the United States agreed in principle with the British-French demands for international control of the Suez. He added, however, that the United States favored the establishment of some kind of U.N. negotiating machinery to seek a solution.

British sources made it clear that they didn't like this idea. They said: Britain is going to go ahead with her resolution, if Egypt has come plans Britain is prepared to listen, but Britain is not prepared to negociate about a negotiation.

Today's council meeting was the first in U.N. history to be attended by the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, Russia and France. Also present were the foreign ministers of Belgium, Yugoslavia and Egypt. Egypt is not a member of the council, but was invited to take part as an interested party.

In other words:

I think President Eisenhower is sincere in what he is advocating in this campaign. I DON'T think Mr. Stevenson is sincere.

I have great respect for Mr. Stevenson. I am sure he thinks much as I do. I'm quite certain he is a moderate conservative. I'm reasonably certain that if he is elected his administration will be on the conservative side.

I think he has fallen—on the advice of his associates—for the cynical political theory that ANY WAY TO GET ELECTED IS ALL RIGHT—that the end justifies the means.

Personally I prefer a SINCERE candidate.

Cynthia disappeared from her carriage left by Mrs. Ruotolo in a Sears Roebuck department store in Hamden on Sept. 1.

Preliminary Hearing Opens For Horse Theft Case

A preliminary hearing for Marvin J. Walker, 32-year-old Sprague River rancher, branded by livestock detectives as a horse thief, opened Friday in Circuit Judge David R. Vandenberg's court.

Walker has been charged on two counts of livestock theft. He is alleged to have stolen two horses belonging to neighboring ranchers, Hi R. Robbins and Theodore Crume.

The first witness called by the state was E. L. Wright, state livestock theft investigator, who signed the complaint against Walker.

Under questioning by Deputy District Attorney Robert Nichols, Wright told how he located two alleged stolen horses in a pasture owned by Robert M. Frank, livestock dealer at Silverton, Oregon.

Wright said he obtained a transportation certificate describing the horses which was delivered to Frank by the defendant.

Frank later took the witness stand and testified he got the alleged stolen horses in a trading deal which took place last August at Walker's ranch.

Judge Van Vactor called a recess after the hindquarter of a horse was brought into court by the prosecution. The exhibit was frozen and for that reason the purported brand on it could not be examined. The judge allowed time for thawing the exhibit.

One of the alleged victims of the purported horse stealing, Robbins, was on the witness stand at the time. He identified a registered brand — Double Rafter — as his property.

Walker, who is represented by attorneys Edwin E. Driscoll, Klamath Falls, and Herbert Welch, Lakeview, is at liberty on $7,000 bail. It was expected the hearing would conclude late Friday.

According to the district attorney's office, numerous complaints of livestock thefts in the Sprague River area have been made.

He is reported to have died of natural causes.
