

Portland State Thumps Oregon Tech 39-14

Final Period Fatal In Conference Debut

By CLAYTON HANNON
Herald-News Sports Editor

The Oregon Tech Owls, striving to open their 1956 Oregon Collegiate Conference football season Saturday night at Modoc Field on a victorious note, ended up by playing a game of "give-away," they bowed 39-14 to the visiting Portland State Vikings.

Coach Rex Hunsaker's Owls from the Mile High Campus should have played their visitors from the "City of Roses" on about even terms in the conference opener for both teams, but the Techmen made several costly errors and miscues and the alert Vikings took advantage of the OTI bobbles to post the win.

After the Owls had played the Portlanders to a 20-14 score for three quarters of the fracas, all of Satan broke loose, and Portland State came up with a 39-14 margin in only three minutes of play in the final period. To sweep like the west winds into the lead, the Vikings took advantage of the final touches of an 80-yard down-

Sooners Register Ten TD's

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oklahoma made it 32 in a row and Penn one in a row yesterday as college football barged through its third big program of the season.

And while 42,000 homecomers roared through Oklahoma's ten touchdowns, 66-0 thrashing of Kansas State for a new record string of victories, it's doubtful if their enthusiasm approached that of the 15,569 at Franklin Field in Philadelphia who saw Penn's first victory in nearly three years.

Dartmouth was the Quakers' victim, 14-7, closing out a run of 23 games without a victory for one of the nation's oldest colleges.

The last time they listed Penn ahead of its opponent in the Saturday scores was "way back on Oct. 2, 1953, when Navy fell, 9-6."

RECORDS SHATTERED

The statisticians had as much work keeping up with the records shattered as the touchdowns scored as Oklahoma's top-rated Sooners rolled over Kansas State at Norman, Okla. The victory broke Oklahoma's own modern mark (1948-49-50) of 31 straight and enabled the Sooners to improve on two of their lesser records, most consecutive games without defeat in the Big 7 Conference (54), and scoring at least once in consecutive games (108).

Junior halfback Clendon Thomas barreled over for three quick touchdowns and Bud Wilkinson's live full teams took it from there.

Michigan State got going in the second half to defeat Michigan 9-0, Tennessee out-attacked Duke 33-20, Ohio State rallied in the fourth period to defeat Stanford 32-20, Southern California used Jop Arnett to defeat Wisconsin 13-6, and Notre Dame won its first of the season, 20-6 over Indiana and Pitt was knocked out of the unbeaten ranks by California 14-0.

KUSKERS SURPRISED

Washington surprised Illinois, 28-13.

A pass interception and a recovered fumble set up the scores for Michigan State after the two Big 10 powers had battled through a scoreless half before 101,001 at Ann Arbor. The Spartans, rated second behind Oklahoma in last week's Associated Press poll, scored first on John Matsko's 20-yard field goal, then added a fourth period touchdown by Dennis Mendyk to wrap it up. Michigan was ranked fifth nationally.

The running of Johnny Majors over Al Carter paced Tennessee's cover drive in the highest-scoring game in the history of the two Southern rivals. The same formula that worked for Michigan State, a fumble and a pass interception, enabled Ohio State, ranked fourth, to spill Stanford.

5-GAME EDICT

Arnett, who will play only twice more under the Pacific Coast Conference's "five games only" edict for those involved in the PCC shakeup, carried 25 times for a 7-yard average to lead the Trojans.

Notre Dame, beaten in its opener by SMU and idle last week, moved into a 7-0 lead in the first period and never trailed against Indiana. Paul Hornung ran for one touchdown and passed for another.

THE 1956 WORLD SERIES isn't over yet, but already there are some new records broken, some tied, and many moments that will go into the books and minds of baseball fans across the nation.

In the hair-raising unpredictable second game, won by Brooklyn 13-8, the Yankees and Dodgers were the first teams since the Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia A's to score 11 runs in a single inning. Chicago and the A's pushed 11 tallies across home plate in the fourth game of the 1929 series, and the Bums and Bombers did the same in the second inning of the second game.

The 21-run total was one of the highest recorded in series play, but it has been topped. The Giants and Yanks scored 22 times in their 18-4 game in 1936. Brooklyn of the Old American Association and New York of the National, battled to a 12-10 game in 1889 for another 22-run affair.

The best scoring effort of the series history is 25 runs in a single game. That rarity happened twice in the same series on two succeeding days. St. Louis of the AA, and New York of the National League, staged quite a show back in 1888, when the two teams tangled in 18-11 and 18-7 games.

And, of course, the seven pitchers used by New York in the second series' clash with Brooklyn is a new record. One thing you can say about "Casey," he gave every Yankee a try.

ON THE series side, it is interesting to notice how easy it is to second guess Stengel and Alston on managerial moves.

For example, when Alston and the Brooks ordered Mickey Mantle walked to load the bases for an opportunity at Yogi Berra. The New York catcher promptly banged the ball out of the lot for the fifth grand slam home run in series history. And by a note of coincidence, four of the five have been Yankees. And three of these are still playing — Mantle, McDougald and Berra.

Another situation would be the question of whether or not Stengel yanked Don Larsen too quick in the Bombers 13-8 defeat Friday. It's for certain that Larsen wouldn't have done any worse.

But of course, that's the great thing about baseball — it could of happened this way.

OREGON TECH athletic director and head football coach Rex Hunsaker is soothing from a slow burn this week, and he has more than a good reason why.

Hunsaker was informed by athletic officials at Lassen Junior College that the school was dropping their game with the Owls on October 27 here. The reason was due to injuries and a small squad.

But look at Tech. They took a team of less than 30 football players down to Compton to meet the nation's number one junior college. Sure, the defeat was hung around the Owls' neck before they even took the field that night, but Hunsaker and his club still went through with the game.

Says Hunsaker, "We weren't too happy to risk the health of our boys in playing Compton, but we agreed to play them a few years ago, and our contract called for the game. Therefore, we played it like gentlemen regardless of what the outcome was."

As of a few days ago, Hunsaker reportedly was cutting off all athletic relations between the Mile High Campus school and Lassen. "If they don't want to play us, that's fine," Hunsaker explained, "we won't have to schedule them in any sport from now on out."

Tech has received the okay from the Oregon Collegiate Conference members to meet Humboldt State College's junior varsity team here on the night of October 27 in replacement of the Lassen game. And from all early indications, it will probably be a much better game for Owl grid fans to watch.

BAD NEWS came from Redding this week concerning Jim McGee, a 1956 graduate of KUNS, now playing football at Shasta Junior College. The ex-Pelican all-conference tackle is through for the season.

Jim suffered a knee injury last week and underwent surgery for the same the other day. Reports from Redding indicate that McGee is in good spirits at Mercy Hospital. It might be a nice gesture for McGee's friends to drop him a line in care of the hospital.

Another ex-Pel, who was a teammate of McGee, is doing right well for himself at Pacific University, according to coach

Duck Stamps Now On Sale

Postmaster Chet Langset announced this week that 1956-57 duck stamps are now on sale at several places in Klamath Falls including all of the sub-post offices and at the main post office in the federal building.

The stamps, which cost $2, are required by law for those hunters taking migratory waterfowl.

Places handling the stamp sale include Hendricks Drugs on South Sixth, the Buy-Low Food Center on Oregon Avenue and Schneider's Variety on South Sixth. Some sporting goods dealers are also selling the duck stamps again this season.

Mustangs Romp

Jack McGoldrick's Main Mustangs stampeeded Klamath Union High's junior varsity football team Saturday afternoon to romp by a 20-12 non-league triumph. The win, the Mustang's third of the current season, was led by Roland Harmon and Melvin Canyon. Harmon galloped for two 39-yard touchdown jaunts, and Canyon brought the crowd to its feet with a 90-yard kickoff return into pay-

Slaughter's Circuit Clout Provides Victory Margin As Dodgers Bow

By ED WILKS

NEW YORK — The "bad pitch caught up with Brooklyn for a change Saturday with the relieved New York Yankees gaining their first victory, 5-3, as the World Series shifted to Yankee Stadium.

The defeat cut Brooklyn's lead to 2-1 in the best-of-seven series, but the Dodgers still are favored, at 6-5, to win their second straight world championship. The odds for today's game at the stadium, however, favor the Yankees at 3 to 2.

Whitey Ford, the stubby south-paw who was battered in the opener at Ebbets Field Wednesday, came back to gam his fourth series victory, using a curve and improved control in an eight-hitter.

The loser was Roger Craig, a righthander who was bothered by lack of control in the late stages of the National League season. He had the same trouble against the Yankees.

"That ball (Billy) Martin hit to tie it in the second inning was a bad pitch," said Brooklyn manager Walt Alston. "It was a curve that hung."

"Craig just didn't have his control. He missed on that curve to (Enos) Slaughter in the sixth on a 2-1 pitch and he came back with a fast ball and that was it."

Slaughter, the Yankees answer to Sal Maglie, crashed the pitch into the lower right field seats for a three-run homer that overhauled a 2-1 Brooklyn lead.

From that point on, the Yankees — who complained of bad pitches in their two defeats — and Ford were home free, although Whitey said afterward "I didn't feel so good in the middle innings. I sagged. I didn't really feel confident until the eighth inning."

"That's when I finally got my curve working."

"I've made more mistakes with my fast ball in these two games than I have all season. (Peewee) Reese hit his single on a fast ball. (Roy) Campanella hit it over short for a single and (Carl) Furillo hit one for that double in the ninth."

None of the hits led to a run, but Furillo's was a scare.

Furillo's shot led off the ninth, but Carl running for a triple, was cut down at third on Martin's perfect strike relay from right fielder Hank Bauer to Andy Carey.

"When I was a step away from second," said Furillo, "the ball was still in the air. It hit the base of the wall and bounced straight up and Bauer was still waiting for it to come down. I said right then 'I make third.'"

"Then boom! The next thing I know there's Carey with the ball in his hand."

ALSTON AGREES

Alston said Furillo was wrong going for third and knew it. "We all know it. Carl pulled a rock. But we all have."

Alston named Carl Erskine, who hasn't pitched in 15 days, as today's starting pitcher and added he'd have Sandy Amoros back in the lineup. Stengel picked Tom Sturdivant, one of six Yankee relievers Friday, with the 40-year-old Slaughter "balting fifth; you bet." He said he'd keep Carey, who fanned three times, at third. "He's been hitting up at the ball. He's batin' upside down. But I'll keep him in and maybe use a quick pinch-hitter."

There was little to distinguish between the two post-game dressing rooms. The Yankees took the victory in stride, even though it had been a "must." The Dodgers, with no gloom at all, were genial and talkative.

"What did I tell you the other day?" asked Furillo. "Didn't I say we'd win this in five games?"

"Course, I could be wrong. 'I was wrong out there today.'"

California 11 Surprises Pitt

BERKELEY, Calif. — California's bulls-eye passing attack surprised the previously undefeated Pittsburgh Panthers 14-0 in an inter-collegiate football upset here Saturday.

A crowd of 31,000 saw the Bears score in the second period after four pass completions by quarterback Gus Gianulis. The payoff was a 19-yard toss to end Norm Becker.

The 188-pound senior end previously had taken three- and eight- and nine yards in the 54-yard drive, all of it through the air.

California scored again in the third quarter after fullback Herb Jackson smashed 35 yards to the Panther one, after four straight pass plays opened up the Pitt defenses. Jackson dived over center for the final yard.

Darrell Roberts' conversion made it 14-0 and there the score remained through a scoreless fourth period.

RATED 7H

Beating the Panthers, rated 7th in the Associated Press poll, gave California its first victory in three 1956 attempts. The Bears had lost to Baylor and Illinois while Pitt scored wins over West Virginia and Syracuse.

The shutout was the first by a California team since its second game of 1954 and the credit goes to a hard-charging line led by 240-pound tackles Proverb Jacobs and Harley Martin.

The tackles, with center Frank Matterocci and a quartet of stubborn guards, stopped the vaunted "grind 'em down" Pitt running attack. Jacobs and Matterocci displayed all but three minutes of the game.

Becker, in addition to his six pass receptions, proved a bulwark on defense, and in the fourth period the California defenders twice took over in Pitt territory when fourth down gambles failed.

California 0 7 0 14

Layne Tosses Subdue Colts As Lions Win

BALTIMORE — Quarterback Bobby Layne's passes sailed through the mist as though directed by radar for two touchdowns Saturday night and led to a couple more for a 31-14 victory by the Detroit Lions over the Baltimore Colts.

The National Football League veterans' first three passes hit for 80 yards, the last going 11 yards over the goal to halfback Don McMillenny. His next one found Dorne Dibble all alone for a 25-yard scoring play before the 42,822 fans, who had braved showers, barely settled down.

Layne passed the Lions 36 yards down the field on three rife shots and took the honor of running the last seven yards to score for a 21-7 lead at halftime.

When the Colts threatened again by pulling up to 21-14 in the third quarter, Layne's 20-yard pass to David Middleton set up a 2-yard touchdown plunge by Gene Gorman. Jim Martin's field goal from the 37-yard line left no doubt of Detroit's second straight victory.

The Colts were shackled for two long distant aerials by quarterback George Shaw. Ray Berry caught for 46 yards on the 2-yard line and L. G. Dupre took it over in the first quarter.

Goal Post Fight Ends "In Tears"

MOSCOW, Idaho — Hundreds of excited students staged a pitched battle for the goal posts after the Washington State-Idaho football game Saturday and police used tear gas to break it up.

No serious injuries were reported. One student was taken to the infirmary with head cuts and bruises.

The gas sent the students to the exits, breaking up a number of free-swinging fist fights. The gas also drifted into the press box and sent reporters into temporary retreat.

There was no panic and the participating students, and many in the crowd of 16,000 who stayed in the stands to watch, appeared to take it all as part of the post-game fun.

Arnett Sparks USC Triumph

MADISON, Wis. — Jon Arnett, as consistent a runner as there is in college football this season, averaged seven yards on 25 carries and scored the deciding touchdown Saturday as Southern California defeated Wisconsin, 13-6.

A capacity crowd of 52,979 at windswept Camp Randall Stadium watched the Trojans score in the first and last quarters for their third straight victory of the season and third in a row over Wisconsin.

The 21-year-old Arnett, a senior who is permitted to play only five games this year because of Pacific Coast Conference regulations in the wake of an athletic aid scandal, netted 182 yards.

The 5-11, 190-pound halfback, moving up steadily on USC's all-time list of rushing leaders and now No. 4, plowed six yards for the winning touchdown with a pitch-out from reserve quarterback Wayne Kuslak early in the final quarter to give the Trojans a 13-0 lead.

Earlier end Bob Rosendahl caught a 35-yard touchdown pass thrown by Frank Hall to get the Trojans off to a one-touchdown edge in the opening period.

The Dodgers netted their only score on a seven-yard pass from Dick Simonson to Dave Howard late in the last quarter.

Southern California 6 0 0 7-13
Wisconsin 0 0 0 6-6
