

YOUNG CHARM sets the tone for Halloween entertaining. It is a real chance for the young marrieds to show off their wedding silver in a charming modern way. Use a great silver bowl filled with jelly or taffy apples surrounded by leaves and blossoms. Black cut-out dots and broom-flying witches are easy to make yourself and are effective on a white cloth. Here, Reed and Barton's Autumn Leaves, delicate leaves incised on a slender sturdy handle, illustrates the perfect pattern for the fall theme of the party; the perfect pattern, simply sweet, for the young in heart at any season.

LET LOVELY SILVER SET THE PARTY TONE

What better time for the young marrieds to give a party than Halloween—with the new home fast becoming a real home, here's the first good excuse to show off the wedding presents in a truly young and high-spirited way. All you need is a little imagination and a little time to create a party atmosphere that really glows with the excitement and fun of Halloween plus—the charm and dignity of dress-up, at home entertaining.

For instance, as an idea for the centerpiece of your table... your great new silver bowl, filled with a cluster of jelly or taffy apples, each on a stick, surrounded by leaves and blossoms—the apples a real recollection of teen times, the bowl a gleaming symbol of elegance and grace. Make the rest of your table a black and white Halloween picture—large black cutout circles set in rows on the white cloth... black witches flying their brooms clear across the table—little things you can get at any novelty or stationery shop or have the extra fun of making them yourself as a pre-party project. Now's your chance to show your wedding silver to best advantage—here, Reed & Barton's new sterling flatware pattern, "Autumn Leaves." Its delicate leaf tracery incised on a and, as party favors, fill the little Halloween pumpkin faces you can buy anywhere with candies—for appetites that are strong and zesty as any youngster's.

Above all, remember that your table is the most important item in your Halloween party—and keep your glistening silver pitcher—another reminder of the wedding day—brim-full of cider, the plates piled high with good things to eat... then sit back and see how much everyone enjoys a Halloween party that's a nostalgic backward look to younger days as well as a vivid picture of present happiness and a joyful guidepost to years of gracious family living.

CHEESE

Cheese is a concentrated source of many of the nutrients of milk and because its protein is complete, ranks high on the list of important protein foods.

NALLEY'S Lumberjack Syrup is prepared from cane sugar and corn syrup, skillfully blended and flavored with imitation maple to produce an old time flavor. It is a fine table syrup of medium heavy consistency, a rich golden brown color and with a flavor that will make hot cakes and waffles taste "like more."

BACON WAFFLES

Make your favorite recipe for waffles. Sprinkle one tablespoon of partially cooked, diced, bacon over the top of batter just before closing the waffle iron. Cook until waffle iron stops steaming.

MILK

Milk stands out in the quality of its body-building proteins, in bone-building calcium, and in the health-promoting vitamin, riboflavin. Without milk it is almost impossible to plan meals that are satisfactory in these essentials.

When you buy milk, remember, Grade "A" means you can put your trust in its purity and richness. Fresh, loaded with vital dietary needs, you should drink 3 glasses each day.

BREAKFAST TREAT
Try sliced fresh fruit in a mode for a fine way to get youngsters to get full measure of the goodness of milk for breakfast. A scoop of ice cream on top of the sliced fruit such as peaches or pears is nutritious and appealing, particularly to the small fry.

FRUIT CAKES

If you are not of the brandy-soaking school of thought where fruit cakes are concerned, brush the cakes with apple cider from
