

11 Reclamation Bureau Members Given Award

TULELAKE — Eleven employees of the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation were awarded a group citation for meritorious service, accompanied by the Department of the Interior's silver medal. The presentation of the award took place at an informal ceremony at the Tule Lake office of the bureau, with U. J. Gendron, assistant to the regional director in Sacramento, acting for Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton. Gendron was accompanied by Martin H. Blote, regional supervisor of irrigation and power, under whose direction the operating forces of the Bureau of Reclamation in this region function.

KFLW Receives Letter To Santa

Two little sisters who live in the Klamath Basin got their letter off to Santa Claus, care of the North Pole, so early this year that it was received at radio station KFLW, Santa Claus' substation October 16.

Quite an impressive list of requests was included in the letter. Harmony prevailed in that they each asked for the same type of doll, bassinet, doll bath, stroller and luggage.

Apparently the older sister undertook the task of addressing the envelope, because the return address was in her name.

Santa's office at KFLW is wondering if she feared their list was too long and chances would be better if it were halved because a penciled note on the back of the sealed envelope read:

"Leave out sister's things."

tion system serving 89,000 acres of private and government-owned land, coupled with his capacity for leadership and judgment, "is credited with the prevention of hundreds of thousands of dollars damage."

The group award was made in recognition of the employees' "outstanding concept of good citizenship and devotion to duty in their activities to alleviate and contain the damage of the major flood disaster in California and Southern Oregon during the winter 1955-56." Individual employees were awarded single citations, while the group citation and medal were presented to them as a unit. The employees thus honored are L. V. Forrester, Daniel L. Green, Jasper L. Guthrie, Herbert D. Jackson, Andrew N. Johnson, Harold L. Kniskern, Luther McAnulty, James A. Mullins, Ernest F. Novotny, Clarence W. Schroeder and Grady A. Spencer of the Tule Lake Unit.

The manner in which these employees responded to the emergency is described in the text of the citation as follows: "Beginning on December 15th and reaching its peak December 23 and 24, a rainstorm of unprecedented intensity enveloped Southern Oregon and the entire Central Valley Project of California. The widespread and intense flood-producing precipitation resulted in record shattering runoff, followed by the most disastrous floods in the area's history of recorded streamflow. The employees of reclamation met the threat to reclamation works and danger to bordering communities with complete selflessness. They voluntarily returned from leave to report for emergency duty at threatened points, working day and night patrolling and clearing canals, repairing breaks, and using their special skills and knowledge in the interest of saving government and private property. They earned the credit, and commendation of the people of California and Oregon, for preventing additional millions of dollars damage."

Dunsmuir-Black Butte Microwave Job About Set

DUNSMUIR—A $125,000 microwave installation insuring swifter and more dependable communication between Dunsmuir and Black Butte is nearing completion, Shasta Division offices of Southern Pacific Company announced today.

Use of this beamed radio transmission is designed to supplement wire communication in this 20-mile stretch frequently plagued by winter snow and gales.

Work on the project has been underway during the summer months under the supervision of Joseph Foster of Dunsmuir, division communications supervisor.

With the erection of the microwave tower near division offices in Dunsmuir this week, it is expected to go into service in advance of winter weather.

The installation consists of terminals and towers at Black Butte and Dunsmuir with a repeater station and tower at the city of Mount Shasta, midway between the terminals. Two large reflectors mounted in concrete on adjacent hillsides "bounce" the waves at almost 90 degree angles to provide line-of-sight points in this mountainous area.

Engineering of the project required provisions for the radio beam to climb in and out of the Sacramento River canyon and dodge around the spectacular cinder cone north of Mount Shasta, known as Black Butte.

The installation will have a capacity of 24 voice channels with each channel capable of carrying 16 teletype channels at a time. This provides for simultaneous transmission of 384 teletype messages—if needed—in the overall communication system between Northern California and Oregon.

The Dunsmuir-Black Butte microwave is one of the first of its kind in the county. It is licensed by the Federal Communications Commission.

County Chamber Slates Hawaii Tour Next Year

You'll learn new hospitality if you're one of the Oregon vacationers joining the second Klamath County Chamber of Commerce Hawaiian Tour next February 15. For the Hawaiian Islands, the exotic American islands out in the Pacific, are traditionally the land of happiness, of music, laughter and friendly hospitality.

The tour, sponsored by the Klamath County Chamber of Commerce and arranged by McIntyre Travel Service offers an unparalleled low-cost package vacation which not only includes round trip air transportation from Klamath Falls and 10 days accommodations at one of Honolulu's finest hotels, The Reef, but planned events which have proven in the past to be the most interesting and desirable to "mahlinis" or newcomers.

For instance, on your first full day in Honolulu you will be invited to an authentic Hawaiian "luau" or native feast, which is held in the gardens of Queen's Surf, a millionaire's former palatial estate overlooking Waikiki Bay, and now turned into a show place specializing in fine foods and entertainment. If you're a camera hound you'll want to be there at 3:15 p.m. to watch the attendants prepare the pig and place it in the "imu" or underground stone-heated oven. In the evening, everybody dons Hawaiian clothing and enters the friendly "luau" spirit, the gathering of friends to eat, just as though they had been doing it for years. There is leisurely feasting on the many exotic South Seas foods, and delightful native music and dancing those hulas!

Another day you will take the circle tour of the island of Oahu, with its pineapple plantations, acres of waving sugar cane, see the beautiful Mormon Temple, orchards of papaya trees and get the unforgettable view from the windy Nuuanu Pal.

Another planned trip while in the Islands is the fascinating motor drive to Mt. Tantalus for the breathtaking view of the city from Diamond Head to Pearl Harbor, with a stop at the University of Hawaii, the Punchbowl and the Waikiki Aquarium.

There is plenty of time for lounging around, swimming or doing

KLAMATH CHAMBER TOUR PASSENGERS will stay in the luxurious Reef Hotel during the forthcoming second Hawaiian tour in Honolulu, February 15 to 26, 1957. This beautiful hotel is located in the heart of Waikiki Beach, having only been opened a few months ago. It has its own beach and beach terrace in addition to a lovely swimming pool and sunlani.

the all important shopping for friends and relatives for the six full days. And this is the time for those who wish to see the Outer Islands to make use of the optional tours and visit those of your choosing.

You'll travel together in one of United Air Line's pressurized Convairs to San Francisco, then proceed to Honolulu in their pressurized DC-6B. Two pretty stewardesses will serve delicious hot meals and snacks en route, supply the magazines and pillows, and the 11 other attentions which make the Hawaii vacation flights such a pleasure.

The tour conductor, Mr. Stan Randolph, local manager of United Air Lines, will be aboard to help you enjoy your leisure hours there and on the islands. The huge aircraft will be fitted with wide aisle, two abreast seating so that tour members may relax in utmost comfort. The captain and crew, of course, will be one of United's expert teams, well seasoned by hundreds of Pacific over-water crossings.

Brochures outlining the exact itinerary will be available at the chamber of commerce office and McIntyre Travel Service immediately and those interested are invited to write or phone at their earliest convenience. Reservations should be made early, however, in order to assure seats on the aircraft.
