Peace Church Tells Pastor

Rev. James Overdorff, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will fill the pulpit of Peace Memorial Church at 8 a.m. Sunday in observance of Reformation Sunday. The service is being sponsored by the Klamath Council of Churches and the Oregon Council. The Peace Memorial Choir will sing. This is the second annual observance of the church date.

The congregation of Klamath Lutheran Church will also participate in the service. Until this year the major project of the Klamath Council of Churches has been with the migrant population each fall. This year activities of the council are being expanded and the public is invited to take part in this Reformation Service that is inherently a Protestant Church tradition.

Annual Bazaar Set By Church

TULELAKE—Holy Cross Parish is sponsoring the seventh annual bazaar and dinner in the Holy Cross Church, Saturday, November 3 at the grade school multipurpose room. A ham and turkey dinner with all the trimmings will be served from 6 to 8 p.m. Members of the Altar Society are in charge. Dinner tickets are $1.75 for adults, $1 for grade school children, preschool children free. Prizes, including a hope chest, case of shotgun shells and an Irish linen tablecloth will be given away. After-dinner attractions will include a variety of booths, a country store, parcel post office, story book dolls, fancy work, fish pond and food booths. General chairman is Aldo Giacomelli, assisted by Mrs. Richard Flynn as dinner chairman.

RIVAL POLITICIANS met on neutral ground in Klamath Falls Wednesday night. They were guests of the Klamath Falls Farm Bureau at a "know your candidates" meeting in the Community Lounge. Pictured above are the office seekers listening to a non-partisan explanation of measure on the November ballot by Senator Harry Boivin. Seated beside Boivin is John Kerns, president of the farm bureau. Boivin's Republican opponent, House Speaker E. A. Geary, also discussed ballot measures on a non-partisan basis with members of the bureau.

Dam To Have Quake Station

SACRAMENTO (UP)—The University of California plans to install a seismograph station in the vicinity of the proposed Oroville Dam, the Department of Water Resources said today. Department officials and their consulting seismologist, Dr. Perry Byerly of the university, have inspected the dam site. Theodore Neuman, engineer in charge of the Feather River Project, said the earthquake recording equipment would provide valuable data on earth movements near the dam both prior to and following construction. Such data will be necessary in design of the structure, the largest concrete dam in the world. The seismograph station also was expected to be valuable to the university in recording the passage of earthquake waves through the Sierra Nevada.

Jet Crashes In Orchard

SACRAMENTO (UP)—A flamed out P86 Sabre jet fighter crashed and burned near here at residential Fair Oaks Wednesday, plowing through 200 yards of orchard and barely missing a small child playing in front of his home. Officials said the pilot of the Hamilton Field jet, Col. William Bailey, bailed out and was uninjured.

Models File Damage Suit

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Three models today sought a total of $427.50 in damages on charges they were fired from hostess jobs at the American Bankers Assn. convention because they refused to commit illegal and immoral acts with delegates. The three red-haired models filed the suit Wednesday in Municipal Court against Diebold Inc., a vault manufacturing company. The firm had booths at the convention headquarters and allegedly hired the girls. The models charged in the complaint that they were informed they "would be expected to go out with the men of the convention to commit illegal and immoral acts." They said they refused to accept the jobs on that basis and were told not to report for work at convention headquarters. Filing the suit were Arline Hunter, 22, and Mary Erickson, 26, who sought $150 each and Donna Hunter, who asked $127.50 for the time they were hired. A Diebold spokesman denied the charges but said "the girls undoubtedly were entitled to some remuneration for the time loss due to the cancellation." The company claimed it hired the girls as receptionists for a display and arrangements for an adjustment had been worked out with an attorney for the models.

Mental Retardation Meet To Open Here Friday Night

The subject of mental retardation is to be discussed at an organizational meeting of the Klamath Falls Chapter of the Oregon Association for Retarded Children to be held Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Klamath County Library. In announcing plans for the local meeting, interested persons said that mental retardation can strike any family, regardless of race, creed, color, intelligence, economic or social standing. The exact number of people afflicted with mental retardation is not known. National authorities are coming to agree on 3 per cent. Based on the current U.S. birth rate it is estimated that 300 children born every day are destined to be mentally retarded, one every 15 minutes. In the state of Oregon alone there are more than 32,000 mentally retarded persons. Of this number approximately 12,000 are school age children. Mental deficiency has been frequently incorrectly identified with mental illness. The mentally ill have sound minds which have deteriorated, whereas the minds of the mentally retarded will never develop. Causes of the affliction are known only to a limited extent. Objectives of OARC is to promote the general welfare of the mentally retarded of all ages, everywhere, at home, in the community, in the institutions, and in schools; to develop a better public understanding; to further research and study which will point new ways to prevent mental retardation; to further training for work in the field of service; to help form parents groups in each community; to encourage legislation in behalf of the mentally retarded; to disseminate information on the subject and to solicit and receive funds for the accomplishment of those purposes.
