

Khrushchev Experiment Blows Up In Russ Faces

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AIRMAN BASIC HAROLD L. ANDRUS, son of L. R. Andrus of Macdoel, California, has started basic training with the U.S. Air Force at Parks Air Force Base, California. Before his enlistment he attended Butte Valley High School.

emergence of Georgi M. Malenkov and a vindication—from the Soviet viewpoint—of former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

The Khrushchev experiment began early in 1955, and events in Poland and Hungary prove that the restless stirring which finally burgeoned into open anti-Russian revolt dates from that time.

Khrushchev's experiment was with relaxation of controls, not only over populations, but over the parties in the satellite nations. The experiment had two aims.

One was to secure the new post-Stalin regime at home by giving it the look of a regime which would be liberal in comparison with the iron rule of Stalin.

The second aim—and probably more important—was in the field of foreign policy. Relaxations inside the Soviet Union and in the satellite countries were intended to free the Soviet Union of the taint of colonialism—the weapon with which Khrushchev was going to belabor the West in a contest for influence in Asia and the Middle East.

The same relaxation aimed to lure Western Socialists into a united front with the Communists—an opening to the left which eventually was to divorce the United States from its allies for a great, bloodless Soviet victory.

Both goals have vanished in the explosions in Poland and Hungary.

The use of Soviet troops in Hungary—and the threat to use them in Poland—presents the U.S.S.R.

to the outside world as a nation of harsh colonialists keeping its control by armed force and political oppression.

The Russians themselves now have a taste of what they attempted to inspire against Americans abroad. The cry "Ami (American) go home" was a Communist slogan intended to picture Americans as economic and political oppressors. Now the cry in Eastern Europe goes up: "Russky, go home." The object lesson is

This is a costly propaganda defeat for the Russians, both at home and abroad. Even the little which has filtered through the Iron Curtain back to the people in the Soviet Union must have a shocking effect in view of the lurid promises of the Khrushchev regime.

A scapeboat will have to be found. The likely candidate is Khrushchev, since the whole thing can be pinned on him.

Home Extension SHASTA-HOMEDALE EXTENSION UNIT

By Leah Ferrell
The Shasta-Homedale Extension Unit met Friday, October 19, at the fairgrounds. The meeting was presided over by the chairman, Mrs. Bob Callagan. In the absence of the regular secretary, these duties were performed by Mrs. Fred Wolfrum. The roll call was answered by 18 members. Five new members had their names added to the roll. They were Mrs. T. W. Butler, Mrs. O. L. Story, Mrs. V. R. Harless, Mrs. E. T. Leech and Mrs. George Custer. There were guests for the day, Mrs. Tucker and Mrs. Fleming.

Mrs. Charley Thomas, reporting on ACWW, read a pamphlet from UNESCF. The County ACWW committee has decided to sell UNESCF Christmas cards this year and Mrs. Thomas showed a few sample cards which could be ordered.

Mrs. Fleming, county committee member, offered for sale the vanilla which the committee is selling to help get a silver service for use in the county extension work. Several bottles were bought to help out this worthwhile project.

The discussion for the day was "Good Weight for Good Health" led by the 4-H club agent, Lillian Hoffman. She pointed out that many men and women, particularly in middle life, would enjoy more buoyant health if excess weight were lost. Before dieting though, the dieter should consult a physician concerning the right diet to use.

Court To Eye Hells Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Court of Appeals will be asked to reconsider its decision in the Hells Canyon Dam case.

A three-judge panel of the court early this month upheld the legality of a license issued to Idaho Power Co. by the Federal Power Commission to build three dams in the Hells Canyon area of the Snake River. The dams would flood the site of a federal Hells Canyon dam proposed by public power groups.

Mrs. Evelyn Cooper, public power lawyer, said Wednesday she will ask within a week for a rehearing of the case before all nine judges of the court. If that is denied, she plans to appeal to the Supreme Court.
