

U.S. Gives Foreign Aid To Egypt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has quietly resumed foreign aid to Egypt after halting shipments briefly because of the Suez Canal crisis.

Responsible officials who reported this Saturday said locomotives, machinery, transportation equipment and newsprint have been moving forward to Egyptian ports during the past few weeks.

These supplies are part of a 20-million-dollar backlog whose delivery was stopped in mid-August by the State Department pending a ruling on whether to suspend all foreign aid until the Suez dispute was settled.

Without announcing it, the State Department and the government's foreign aid agency, the International Cooperation Administration, apparently decided several weeks ago to continue foreign aid deliveries previously promised the Egyptians.

The main items delivered since then have been eight to 10 American-built locomotives which are part of 32 earmarked for President Nasser's government.

Another 20 million dollars in aid funds, including machine tools, barges, and more transportation equipment, now also will move ahead as previously scheduled, informants said.

No new aid for Egypt from funds appropriated by Congress this summer is planned, however. The supplies now being delivered were bought with money provided by Congress in 1955.

The 102-man foreign aid mission in Cairo is reported still under standing instructions to begin no new aid projects but to go ahead with programs already drafted before the canal seizure.

Foreign aid authorities declined to discuss the backstage maneuvering on the problem of Egyptian foreign aid. They sought to confine their remarks to saying that at present there is no interruption in deliveries to Egypt.

Some officials took the position that there never was an actual stop order issued affecting Egyptian-bound cargo. A temporary delay came about, they contended, while the government checked up in detail on the status of shipments after Egypt suddenly seized the Suez Canal.

Without announcing it, the State Department and the government's foreign aid agency, the International Cooperation Administration, apparently decided several weeks ago to continue foreign aid deliveries previously promised the Egyptians.

The main items delivered since then have been eight to 10 American-built locomotives which are part of 32 earmarked for President Nasser's government.

Another 20 million dollars in aid funds, including machine tools, barges, and more transportation equipment, now also will move ahead as previously scheduled, informants said.

No new aid for Egypt from funds appropriated by Congress this summer is planned, however. The supplies now being delivered were bought with money provided by Congress in 1955.

The 102-man foreign aid mission in Cairo is reported still under standing instructions to begin no new aid projects but to go ahead with programs already drafted before the canal seizure.

Foreign aid authorities declined to discuss the backstage maneuvering on the problem of Egyptian foreign aid. They sought to confine their remarks to saying that at present there is no interruption in deliveries to Egypt.

Some officials took the position that there never was an actual stop order issued affecting Egyptian-bound cargo. A temporary delay came about, they contended, while the government checked up in detail on the status of shipments after Egypt suddenly seized the Suez Canal.

Without announcing it, the State Department and the government's foreign aid agency, the International Cooperation Administration, apparently decided several weeks ago to continue foreign aid deliveries previously promised the Egyptians.

The main items delivered since then have been eight to 10 American-built locomotives which are part of 32 earmarked for President Nasser's government.

Another 20 million dollars in aid funds, including machine tools, barges, and more transportation equipment, now also will move ahead as previously scheduled, informants said.

No new aid for Egypt from funds appropriated by Congress this summer is planned, however. The supplies now being delivered were bought with money provided by Congress in 1955.

The 102-man foreign aid mission in Cairo is reported still under standing instructions to begin no new aid projects but to go ahead with programs already drafted before the canal seizure.

Foreign aid authorities declined to discuss the backstage maneuvering on the problem of Egyptian foreign aid. They sought to confine their remarks to saying that at present there is no interruption in deliveries to Egypt.

Some officials took the position that there never was an actual stop order issued affecting Egyptian-bound cargo. A temporary delay came about, they contended, while the government checked up in detail on the status of shipments after Egypt suddenly seized the Suez Canal.

Without announcing it, the State Department and the government's foreign aid agency, the International Cooperation Administration, apparently decided several weeks ago to continue foreign aid deliveries previously promised the Egyptians.

The main items delivered since then have been eight to 10 American-built locomotives which are part of 32 earmarked for President Nasser's government.

Another 20 million dollars in aid funds, including machine tools, barges, and more transportation equipment, now also will move ahead as previously scheduled, informants said.

No new aid for Egypt from funds appropriated by Congress this summer is planned, however. The supplies now being delivered were bought with money provided by Congress in 1955.

The 102-man foreign aid mission in Cairo is reported still under standing instructions to begin no new aid projects but to go ahead with programs already drafted before the canal seizure.

Foreign aid authorities declined to discuss the backstage maneuvering on the problem of Egyptian foreign aid. They sought to confine their remarks to saying that at present there is no interruption in deliveries to Egypt.

Some officials took the position that there never was an actual stop order issued affecting Egyptian-bound cargo. A temporary delay came about, they contended, while the government checked up in detail on the status of shipments after Egypt suddenly seized the Suez Canal.

Without announcing it, the State Department and the government's foreign aid agency, the International Cooperation Administration, apparently decided several weeks ago to continue foreign aid deliveries previously promised the Egyptians.

The main items delivered since then have been eight to 10 American-built locomotives which are part of 32 earmarked for President Nasser's government.

Another 20 million dollars in aid funds, including machine tools, barges, and more transportation equipment, now also will move ahead as previously scheduled, informants said.

No new aid for Egypt from funds appropriated by Congress this summer is planned, however. The supplies now being delivered were bought with money provided by Congress in 1955.

The 102-man foreign aid mission in Cairo is reported still under standing instructions to begin no new aid projects but to go ahead with programs already drafted before the canal seizure.

Foreign aid authorities declined to discuss the backstage maneuvering on the problem of Egyptian foreign aid. They sought to confine their remarks to saying that at present there is no interruption in deliveries to Egypt.

Some officials took the position that there never was an actual stop order issued affecting Egyptian-bound cargo. A temporary delay came about, they contended, while the government checked up in detail on the status of shipments after Egypt suddenly seized the Suez Canal.

Without announcing it, the State Department and the government's foreign aid agency, the International Cooperation Administration, apparently decided several weeks ago to continue foreign aid deliveries previously promised the Egyptians.

The main items delivered since then have been eight to 10 American-built locomotives which are part of 32 earmarked for President Nasser's government.

Another 20 million dollars in aid funds, including machine tools, barges, and more transportation equipment, now also will move ahead as previously scheduled, informants said.

No new aid for Egypt from funds appropriated by Congress this summer is planned, however. The supplies now being delivered were bought with money provided by Congress in 1955.

The 102-man foreign aid mission in Cairo is reported still under standing instructions to begin no new aid projects but to go ahead with programs already drafted before the canal seizure.

Foreign aid authorities declined to discuss the backstage maneuvering on the problem of Egyptian foreign aid. They sought to confine their remarks to saying that at present there is no interruption in deliveries to Egypt.

Some officials took the position that there never was an actual stop order issued affecting Egyptian-bound cargo. A temporary delay came about, they contended, while the government checked up in detail on the status of shipments after Egypt suddenly seized the Suez Canal.

Without announcing it, the State Department and the government's foreign aid agency, the International Cooperation Administration, apparently decided several weeks ago to continue foreign aid deliveries previously promised the Egyptians.

The main items delivered since then have been eight to 10 American-built locomotives which are part of 32 earmarked for President Nasser's government.

Another 20 million dollars in aid funds, including machine tools, barges, and more transportation equipment, now also will move ahead as previously scheduled, informants said.

No new aid for Egypt from funds appropriated by Congress this summer is planned, however. The supplies now being delivered were bought with money provided by Congress in 1955.

The 102-man foreign aid mission in Cairo is reported still under standing instructions to begin no new aid projects but to go ahead with programs already drafted before the canal seizure.

Foreign aid authorities declined to discuss the backstage maneuvering on the problem of Egyptian foreign aid. They sought to confine their remarks to saying that at present there is no interruption in deliveries to Egypt.

Some officials took the position that there never was an actual stop order issued affecting Egyptian-bound cargo. A temporary delay came about, they contended, while the government checked up in detail on the status of shipments after Egypt suddenly seized the Suez Canal.

Without announcing it, the State Department and the government's foreign aid agency, the International Cooperation Administration, apparently decided several weeks ago to continue foreign aid deliveries previously promised the Egyptians.

The main items delivered since then have been eight to 10 American-built locomotives which are part of 32 earmarked for President Nasser's government.

Another 20 million dollars in aid funds, including machine tools, barges, and more transportation equipment, now also will move ahead as previously scheduled, informants said.

No new aid for Egypt from funds appropriated by Congress this summer is planned, however. The supplies now being delivered were bought with money provided by Congress in 1955.

The 102-man foreign aid mission in Cairo is reported still under standing instructions to begin no new aid projects but to go ahead with programs already drafted before the canal seizure.

Foreign aid authorities declined to discuss the backstage maneuvering on the problem of Egyptian foreign aid. They sought to confine their remarks to saying that at present there is no interruption in deliveries to Egypt.

Some officials took the position that there never was an actual stop order issued affecting Egyptian-bound cargo. A temporary delay came about, they contended, while the government checked up in detail on the status of shipments after Egypt suddenly seized the Suez Canal.

France Ends Saar Quarrel

LUXEMBOURG (UP) — France and West Germany Saturday ended their age-old quarrel over the resource-rich Saar.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano signed a treaty which eliminated the last major power-key issue from Western Europe.

The treaty restores the 900-square-mile coal and rich Saar and its 970,000 German-speaking inhabitants politically to Germany next Jan. 1. The economic return will take place Jan. 1, 1960, after a three year interim period during which the French-Saar economic, customs and currency union will be gradually scrapped.

The signing ceremony took place in the foreign office of this dual capital midway between Paris and Bonn.

It was in this city that French Premier Guy Mollet and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer broke through the logjam of disagreement and thrashed out the broad lines of the historic pact.

Mollet and Adenauer agreed that the treaty sweeps aside the last remaining barrier to close friendship between the two countries, once regarded as "traditional enemies," and reinforces European unity.

When the treaty is ratified by the parliaments of France and West Germany, the Saar will become the 10th state in the West German federal republic and send deputies to the Bonn Parliament.

LUXEMBOURG (UP) — France and West Germany Saturday ended their age-old quarrel over the resource-rich Saar.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano signed a treaty which eliminated the last major power-key issue from Western Europe.

The treaty restores the 900-square-mile coal and rich Saar and its 970,000 German-speaking inhabitants politically to Germany next Jan. 1. The economic return will take place Jan. 1, 1960, after a three year interim period during which the French-Saar economic, customs and currency union will be gradually scrapped.

The signing ceremony took place in the foreign office of this dual capital midway between Paris and Bonn.

It was in this city that French Premier Guy Mollet and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer broke through the logjam of disagreement and thrashed out the broad lines of the historic pact.

Mollet and Adenauer agreed that the treaty sweeps aside the last remaining barrier to close friendship between the two countries, once regarded as "traditional enemies," and reinforces European unity.

When the treaty is ratified by the parliaments of France and West Germany, the Saar will become the 10th state in the West German federal republic and send deputies to the Bonn Parliament.

LUXEMBOURG (UP) — France and West Germany Saturday ended their age-old quarrel over the resource-rich Saar.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano signed a treaty which eliminated the last major power-key issue from Western Europe.

The treaty restores the 900-square-mile coal and rich Saar and its 970,000 German-speaking inhabitants politically to Germany next Jan. 1. The economic return will take place Jan. 1, 1960, after a three year interim period during which the French-Saar economic, customs and currency union will be gradually scrapped.

The signing ceremony took place in the foreign office of this dual capital midway between Paris and Bonn.

It was in this city that French Premier Guy Mollet and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer broke through the logjam of disagreement and thrashed out the broad lines of the historic pact.

Mollet and Adenauer agreed that the treaty sweeps aside the last remaining barrier to close friendship between the two countries, once regarded as "traditional enemies," and reinforces European unity.

When the treaty is ratified by the parliaments of France and West Germany, the Saar will become the 10th state in the West German federal republic and send deputies to the Bonn Parliament.

LUXEMBOURG (UP) — France and West Germany Saturday ended their age-old quarrel over the resource-rich Saar.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano signed a treaty which eliminated the last major power-key issue from Western Europe.

The treaty restores the 900-square-mile coal and rich Saar and its 970,000 German-speaking inhabitants politically to Germany next Jan. 1. The economic return will take place Jan. 1, 1960, after a three year interim period during which the French-Saar economic, customs and currency union will be gradually scrapped.

The signing ceremony took place in the foreign office of this dual capital midway between Paris and Bonn.

It was in this city that French Premier Guy Mollet and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer broke through the logjam of disagreement and thrashed out the broad lines of the historic pact.

Mollet and Adenauer agreed that the treaty sweeps aside the last remaining barrier to close friendship between the two countries, once regarded as "traditional enemies," and reinforces European unity.

When the treaty is ratified by the parliaments of France and West Germany, the Saar will become the 10th state in the West German federal republic and send deputies to the Bonn Parliament.

LUXEMBOURG (UP) — France and West Germany Saturday ended their age-old quarrel over the resource-rich Saar.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano signed a treaty which eliminated the last major power-key issue from Western Europe.

The treaty restores the 900-square-mile coal and rich Saar and its 970,000 German-speaking inhabitants politically to Germany next Jan. 1. The economic return will take place Jan. 1, 1960, after a three year interim period during which the French-Saar economic, customs and currency union will be gradually scrapped.

The signing ceremony took place in the foreign office of this dual capital midway between Paris and Bonn.

It was in this city that French Premier Guy Mollet and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer broke through the logjam of disagreement and thrashed out the broad lines of the historic pact.

Mollet and Adenauer agreed that the treaty sweeps aside the last remaining barrier to close friendship between the two countries, once regarded as "traditional enemies," and reinforces European unity.

When the treaty is ratified by the parliaments of France and West Germany, the Saar will become the 10th state in the West German federal republic and send deputies to the Bonn Parliament.

LUXEMBOURG (UP) — France and West Germany Saturday ended their age-old quarrel over the resource-rich Saar.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano signed a treaty which eliminated the last major power-key issue from Western Europe.

The treaty restores the 900-square-mile coal and rich Saar and its 970,000 German-speaking inhabitants politically to Germany next Jan. 1. The economic return will take place Jan. 1, 1960, after a three year interim period during which the French-Saar economic, customs and currency union will be gradually scrapped.

The signing ceremony took place in the foreign office of this dual capital midway between Paris and Bonn.

It was in this city that French Premier Guy Mollet and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer broke through the logjam of disagreement and thrashed out the broad lines of the historic pact.

Mollet and Adenauer agreed that the treaty sweeps aside the last remaining barrier to close friendship between the two countries, once regarded as "traditional enemies," and reinforces European unity.

When the treaty is ratified by the parliaments of France and West Germany, the Saar will become the 10th state in the West German federal republic and send deputies to the Bonn Parliament.

LUXEMBOURG (UP) — France and West Germany Saturday ended their age-old quarrel over the resource-rich Saar.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano signed a treaty which eliminated the last major power-key issue from Western Europe.

The treaty restores the 900-square-mile coal and rich Saar and its 970,000 German-speaking inhabitants politically to Germany next Jan. 1. The economic return will take place Jan. 1, 1960, after a three year interim period during which the French-Saar economic, customs and currency union will be gradually scrapped.

The signing ceremony took place in the foreign office of this dual capital midway between Paris and Bonn.

It was in this city that French Premier Guy Mollet and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer broke through the logjam of disagreement and thrashed out the broad lines of the historic pact.

Mollet and Adenauer agreed that the treaty sweeps aside the last remaining barrier to close friendship between the two countries, once regarded as "traditional enemies," and reinforces European unity.

When the treaty is ratified by the parliaments of France and West Germany, the Saar will become the 10th state in the West German federal republic and send deputies to the Bonn Parliament.

LUXEMBOURG (UP) — France and West Germany Saturday ended their age-old quarrel over the resource-rich Saar.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano signed a treaty which eliminated the last major power-key issue from Western Europe.

The treaty restores the 900-square-mile coal and rich Saar and its 970,000 German-speaking inhabitants politically to Germany next Jan. 1. The economic return will take place Jan. 1, 1960, after a three year interim period during which the French-Saar economic, customs and currency union will be gradually scrapped.

The signing ceremony took place in the foreign office of this dual capital midway between Paris and Bonn.

It was in this city that French Premier Guy Mollet and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer broke through the logjam of disagreement and thrashed out the broad lines of the historic pact.

Mollet and Adenauer agreed that the treaty sweeps aside the last remaining barrier to close friendship between the two countries, once regarded as "traditional enemies," and reinforces European unity.

When the treaty is ratified by the parliaments of France and West Germany, the Saar will become the 10th state in the West German federal republic and send deputies to the Bonn Parliament.

LUXEMBOURG (UP) — France and West Germany Saturday ended their age-old quarrel over the resource-rich Saar.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano signed a treaty which eliminated the last major power-key issue from Western Europe.

The treaty restores the 900-square-mile coal and rich Saar and its 970,000 German-speaking inhabitants politically to Germany next Jan. 1. The economic return will take place Jan. 1, 1960, after a three year interim period during which the French-Saar economic, customs and currency union will be gradually scrapped.

The signing ceremony took place in the foreign office of this dual capital midway between Paris and Bonn.

It was in this city that French Premier Guy Mollet and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer broke through the logjam of disagreement and thrashed out the broad lines of the historic pact.

Mollet and Adenauer agreed that the treaty sweeps aside the last remaining barrier to close friendship between the two countries, once regarded as "traditional enemies," and reinforces European unity.

When the treaty is ratified by the parliaments of France and West Germany, the Saar will become the 10th state in the West German federal republic and send deputies to the Bonn Parliament.

LUXEMBOURG (UP) — France and West Germany Saturday ended their age-old quarrel over the resource-rich Saar.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano signed a treaty which eliminated the last major power-key issue from Western Europe.

The treaty restores the 900-square-mile coal and rich Saar and its 970,000 German-speaking inhabitants politically to Germany next Jan. 1. The economic return will take place Jan. 1, 1960, after a three year interim period during which the French-Saar economic, customs and currency union will be gradually scrapped.

The signing ceremony took place in the foreign office of this dual capital midway between Paris and Bonn.

It was in this city that French Premier Guy Mollet and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer broke through the logjam of disagreement and thrashed out the broad lines of the historic pact.

Mollet and Adenauer agreed that the treaty sweeps aside the last remaining barrier to close friendship between the two countries, once regarded as "traditional enemies," and reinforces European unity.

When the treaty is ratified by the parliaments of France and West Germany, the Saar will become the 10th state in the West German federal republic and send deputies to the Bonn Parliament.

LUXEMBOURG (UP) — France and West Germany Saturday ended their age-old quarrel over the resource-rich Saar.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano signed a treaty which eliminated the last major power-key issue from Western Europe.

The treaty restores the 900-square-mile coal and rich Saar and its 970,000 German-speaking inhabitants politically to Germany next Jan. 1. The economic return will take place Jan. 1, 1960, after a three year interim period during which the French-Saar economic, customs and currency union will be gradually scrapped.

The signing ceremony took place in the foreign office of this dual capital midway between Paris and Bonn.

It was in this city that French Premier Guy Mollet and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer broke through the logjam of disagreement and thrashed out the broad lines of the historic pact.

Mollet and Adenauer agreed that the treaty sweeps aside the last remaining barrier to close friendship between the two countries, once regarded as "traditional enemies," and reinforces European unity.

When the treaty is ratified by the parliaments of France and West Germany, the Saar will become the 10th state in the West German federal republic and send deputies to the Bonn Parliament.

LUXEMBOURG (UP) — France and West Germany Saturday ended their age-old quarrel over the resource-rich Saar.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano signed a treaty which eliminated the last major power-key issue from Western Europe.

The treaty restores the 900-square-mile coal and rich Saar and its 970,000 German-speaking inhabitants politically to Germany next Jan. 1. The economic return will take place Jan. 1, 1960, after a three year interim period during which the French-Saar economic, customs and currency union will be gradually scrapped.

The signing ceremony took place in the foreign office of this dual capital midway between Paris and Bonn.

It was in this city that French Premier Guy Mollet and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer broke through the logjam of disagreement and thrashed out the broad lines of the historic pact.

Mollet and Adenauer agreed that the treaty sweeps aside the last remaining barrier to close friendship between the two countries, once regarded as "traditional enemies," and reinforces European unity.

When the treaty is ratified by the parliaments of France and West Germany, the Saar will become the 10th state in the West German federal republic and send deputies to the Bonn Parliament.

LUXEMBOURG (UP) — France and West Germany Saturday ended their age-old quarrel over the resource-rich Saar.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano signed a treaty which eliminated the last major power-key issue from Western Europe.

The treaty restores the 900-square-mile coal and rich Saar and its 970,000 German-speaking inhabitants politically to Germany next Jan. 1. The economic return will take place Jan. 1, 1960, after a three year interim period during which the French-Saar economic, customs and currency union will be gradually scrapped.

The signing ceremony took place in the foreign office of this dual capital midway between Paris and Bonn.

It was in this city that French Premier Guy Mollet and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer broke through the logjam of disagreement and thrashed out the broad lines of the historic pact.

Mollet and Adenauer agreed that the treaty sweeps aside the last remaining barrier to close friendship between the two countries, once regarded as "traditional enemies," and reinforces European unity.

When the treaty is ratified by the parliaments of France and West Germany, the Saar will become the 10th state in the West German federal republic and send deputies to the Bonn Parliament.

LUXEMBOURG (UP) — France and West Germany Saturday ended their age-old quarrel over the resource-rich Saar.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano signed a treaty which eliminated the last major power-key issue from Western Europe.

The treaty restores the 900-square-mile coal and rich Saar and its 970,000 German-speaking inhabitants politically to Germany next Jan. 1. The economic return will take place Jan. 1, 1960, after a three year interim period during which the French-Saar economic, customs and currency union will be gradually scrapped.

The signing ceremony took place in the foreign office of this dual capital midway between Paris and Bonn.

It was in this city that French Premier Guy Mollet and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer broke through the logjam of disagreement and thrashed out the broad lines of the historic pact.

Mollet and Adenauer agreed that the treaty sweeps aside the last remaining barrier to close friendship between the two countries, once regarded as "traditional enemies," and reinforces European unity.

When the treaty is ratified by the parliaments of France and West Germany, the Saar will become the 10th state in the West German federal republic and send deputies to the Bonn Parliament.

LUXEMBOURG (UP) — France and West Germany Saturday ended their age-old quarrel over the resource-rich Saar.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano signed a treaty which eliminated the last major power-key issue from Western Europe.

The treaty restores the 900-square-mile coal and rich Saar and its 970,000 German-speaking inhabitants politically to Germany next Jan. 1. The economic return will take place Jan. 1, 1960, after a three year interim period during which the French-Saar economic, customs and currency union will be gradually scrapped.

The signing ceremony took place in the foreign office of this dual capital midway between Paris and Bonn.

It was in this city that French Premier Guy Mollet and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer broke through the logjam of disagreement and thrashed out the broad lines of the historic pact.

Mollet and Adenauer agreed that the treaty sweeps aside the last remaining barrier to close friendship between the two countries, once regarded as "traditional enemies," and reinforces European unity.

When the treaty is ratified by the parliaments of France and West Germany, the Saar will become the 10th state in the West German federal republic and send deputies to the Bonn Parliament.

P.T.A. FERGUSON PTA

Parents and Patrons of the Twyla Ferguson School met for the second time this school term on Thursday evening, October 18. A good crowd was in attendance. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mr. Warren. Boy Scout Troop No. 71 led the flag salute and Bill Foster gave a five minute talk on "How to become an Eagle Scout."

The "Meet Your Candidate" program was well received. Most of the dignitaries running for county offices and several running for state offices were present. They were introduced by the program chairman, Mrs. Donna Gibson.

CHARLIE MACK

Here's Your Candidate

Charlie Mack is a Democratic candidate for election to the post of Klamath County Judge. He is 48, a native of Klamath Falls, and was raised on farms in the Pine Grove and Spring Lake areas. He has spent most of his life in Klamath County, and is a graduate of KUHS and of Oregon State College.

He was on the editorial staff of the Herald and News for three years and was then elected to the post of county assessor where he served two terms. He was with the local Weyerhaeuser Timber Company in an administrative capacity for three years before buying the Klamath Flower Shop which he has owned and operated for the past 11 years.

He has been active in community and civic betterment programs, having in the past served as local and state president of the Jaycees. He is a former president of the Oregon State Assessors' Association, and has been a director and vice president of the Klamath County Chamber of Commerce. In 1939 he received the junior chamber's distinguished service award as outstanding young man of the year in Klamath County. He has served as president of the Camp Fire Council and is a current board member of the group. He was one of the organizers for payroll contributions in establishing the local United Fund-Red Cross campaign. He is affiliated with Kiwanis, Elks, Eagles, Moose, Scottish Rite, Shrine, Henley Grange, and is a member of the Presbyterian Church.

He is married and is the father of two daughters.

"I am qualified for the job of county judge and know that I can do the things we need done for Klamath County," Mack said.

Editor's Note: This candidate sketch is presented under sponsorship of the Klamath County Chapter of the League of Women Voters.

New Guided Missile Shown

MT. CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — A new guided missile, drawn toward enemy bombers by the heat of their engines and capable of destroying an air fleet with one blast, was described Friday night by an Air Force general.

Gen. Earle E. Partridge, chief of the Continental Air Defense Command, said that the missile, carrying an atomic warhead, would be operational in the near future.

Speaking to the Michigan Aero Club at nearby Selfridge Air Force Base, Gen. Partridge said:

"The missile will follow an infra-red beam instead of radar. In other words, it will be a heat-seeking device, a missile that will be attracted by the heat of an enemy bomber's engines.

However, he explained, the nature of the infra-red device makes it unable to distinguish between friendly and enemy aircraft.

When nearing the aircraft, he said, the missile's warhead would explode and the atomic blast would down any number of planes within range.

He told the Aero Club that routine air defense missions over the United States will be flown at better than 70,000 feet and defense craft will travel at twice the speed of sound.

TO OVERHAUL

BUENOS AIRES, (AP) — Provisional President Aramburu says his government plans to overhaul Argentina's constitution to bar the possibility of any more dictators. Aramburu said in a speech broadcast Friday night his regime will call a constituent assembly to reform the constitution in advance of the 1957 election—first since Juan D. Peron was thrown out as dictator-president.

Each responded with a short speech.

Room count was won by Mrs. Barker's third grade.

Refreshments were served by the third grade mothers at the close of the meeting.

ROOSEVELT PTA

The regular meeting of the Roosevelt PTA was held Tuesday, October 16 at 2 p.m. Incidental music was furnished by Linda and Sally Hanville. The flag salute was led by the Girl Scouts of Intermediate Troop 68. Mrs. Art Moore is the leader. Cecil Drew gave a report on the United Fund.

A science skit was presented by the sixth grade classes of Florence Howe and Mrs. Dorothea Beck. The students gave a demonstration of classroom procedure, which was followed by a film, "The Water Cycle."

Hiroto Zakoji, Oregon Department of Education coordinator for the Klamath Indian Information and Education Program, was the main speaker. His talk "Indian Education" discussed the history of the Klamath Indians, pointing out that they possessed a distinct culture with their own religion and language. He noted that education in such a culture was by observation from one generation to another and that such education provides "stability, continuity, integration of the society and regulation of behavior and attitudes."

Zakoji brought out that the first attempts to educate the Indians to a completely different way of life by the establishment of boarding schools were not too successful. Bringing their history up to date, he pointed out that with the passage of Public Law 587, and the impending termination of the reservation, the State Board of Education has initiated an educational program for the Indians. This program is designed to aid them in vocational training, and to provide them with an information service. He stressed that though 1958 means the end of the reservation it does not mean the end of education for the Indians.

The business meeting followed with Mrs. R. J. Brinegar, president, presiding. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Arthur Farr. Changes in the year book were explained and a short report on PTA workshop was given. Room count was won by Mrs. John Voth's first grade and Mr. Robert Johnson's seventh grade.

Mrs. Robert Veitch gave a report on the Roosevelt carnival held October 19. Mrs. Art Moore announced the PTA television program every Tuesday night from 5:45-6 o'clock. Questions were handled in for next month's meeting when Francis L. Mathews, Klamath County juvenile officer, will speak.

Tea was served by the seventh grade mothers with Mrs. Irving Burke as hostess.

Let it snow, let it sleet, your family's protected with safe warm feet...

for mother, for sister...

child's favorite one-strap Bette boot in red or white rubber... cotton-fleece lined. 5-12.

3.69

cuddly nylon fleece lined stadium boot... in brown. Shearling lamb cuffs. 5-9.

5.98

warm wool-trimmed boot in easy-to-wash insulated plastic... brown or black. 4-9.

4.79

for little ones, too...

smart plastic stadium boot for children with warm wool pile cuffs... white or red. 8-3.

3.98

lightweight plastic pull-on boot with easy one-button closing. White, yellow. 8-4.

3.59

Bring The Whole Family in Today - Outfit Them All Sears Easy Credit Coupon Way -- as for

Four buckle dress arctic is cotton fleece lined. Reinforced strain-points. In black. Sizes 7-11, 12, 13.

4.98

Boys' sizes: 2 1/2 to 6. 4.79
Youths' sizes: 11-2-4.59

boys cotton-fleece lined classic 2-buckle galosh in red, black. 8-12, 12 1/2-4.

3.98

father, for brother...

Here are dress rubbers that are easy to slip on! The stretchy black rubber is lightweight and long wearing. Buy in 6 to 12, 13; wide and extra wide sizes.

2.98

Why Sears rubber foot wear protects every shoe! (step in today, you'll find every style and size at Sears)

Insulated Boot

- Oil Tanned Uppers
- Neo-Prene Soles

17.95

Rubber Hip Boots

Crack Resistant

9.98

Top quality throughout. Traction treaded soles for safer, surer footing. Specially treated rubber resists cracking, adds years to the life of the boots. Marsh drab color. Buy a pair... today!

COME IN NOW WHILE STOCKS ARE COMPLETE

MENS LEATHER LINED Insulated BOOT

- Oil tanned uppers
- Wedge-type NeoPrene soles

18.95

JOHNNIE JARRELL, private, U.S. Marine Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jarrell, 1509 Derby Street, recently completed recruit and combat training at Camp Pendleton, California and is home on leave. Jarrell will report next to Jacksonville Naval Air Station, Florida for airman