

Rogue Basin Project To Be Speeded

WASHINGTON (AP) — A strong effort in the next Congress to authorize construction of Oregon's Rogue River Basin project was predicted Wednesday by the reclamation consultant to the Senate Interior Committee.

Goodrich L. Linsaver, former acting reclamation commissioner, said the Bureau of Reclamation and Army Engineers are awaiting earlier studies of the project's potential.

Recent joint hearings in Portland by the Senate's Interior and Public Works committees, he said, received strong endorsement of the project's flood control benefits.

Authorization of the Western Oregon project was recommended by the Reclamation Bureau in 1954 but was delayed by controversy over possible damage to the basin's scenic values. Congress subsequently appropriated money to build non-structural portions of the overall project known as the Talent Division.

As proposed by the Reclamation Bureau in 1955—excluding the Talent Division which is now under

Police Hunt Missing Negro

WELWYN, Wis., (AP)—Investigation seeking James Woods, 26-year-old Negro who allegedly said "I hate them here" in a white neighborhood, began today, reports a police official. He was last seen at 10:30 p.m. in a group in which there had been a fight.

Woods has not yet been found. He was taken Sunday from a cell that had been made a residence, including blankets and a broken glass.

Two investigations were continuing that were apparently not the night's activities. One of the witnesses said Woods was dragged but was alive and that he was left in a little-remembered road near here.

Woods was placed in a jail cell at his own request, he is reported. He had been hooded earlier in charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, but had been released.

construction—the basin project would cost an estimated $1.5 billion, and provide full or supplemental water supply to nearly 200,000 acres.

The key structure in the project is a dam, reservoir and power plant, proposed at Lewis Creek, about 45 miles to the Rogue from Grants Pass.

The Lewis Creek dam site is one of three proposed power dams which would generate a total of about 50,000 kilowatts of electrical energy. It also would supply reclamation water and storage space for flood control.

Also included in the project would be storage reservoirs at Chase, Bridge, Meadows, Rock, Deer Creek and Indian Hill.

Hunters Ruin Ranch Lands

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—The Morris County Livestock Growers Association is grimly fighting a battle of attrition and frustration by deer hunters in Central Oregon.

The organization said the behavior of the hunters this season was one of the worst it recorded in its history. The hunters are trespassing on the rights of landowners, and it urged that the Oregon Game Commission take a stronger stand.

Commission and landowners complained that cattle, pigs and horses had been shot, fences and other improvements destroyed. In some cases, arguments and fights developed between hunters and property owners.

There were reports of a hunter shooting a cow at a farm near Princeton. He had been hooded earlier in charges of drunkenness and disorderly conduct, but had been released.

Reports that hundreds of hunters from other states were coming to the area in the last few days of the season, said C. C. Cannon, Mulvane, who said: "I think there should be a ban on trespassing."

Expansion Of Technical Training Theme Of Meet

By JOHN GUTTENBERG
The need for expanding the level of technical and scientific training in the American school system beyond the high school program was emphasized at a recent meeting of western state school officials in San Francisco.

Participants at the meeting, which was sponsored by the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education as part of the President's Committee on Higher Education and the framework for a regional educational meeting, to be attended next spring by approximately 200 educators, legislators, industrialists, businessmen and other persons in the western states, Hawaii, and Alaska.

The meeting was held for the first time in the San Francisco area, and the first time in the United States since 1951. The meeting was held for the first time in the United States since 1951.
