UN Studies Meeting On Middle East

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. conferred Wednesday with Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold on possible steps the U.N. may take in the Middle East

C. N. delegates, dismissed by the vetoes cast by Britain and France in the Security Council Tuesday night, talked of a possible extraordinary meeting of the 76-nation General Assembly

Such a meeting was suggested by Yugoslavia. It was expected to be discussed when the 11-nation council resumed debate later Wednesday on Egypt's demand for action against Britain and France

The U. S. delegation said Lodge had given the State Department a full report, and had asked for instructions

The main purpose in calling the assembly would be to get around the veto power, which Britain, France, Russia, the United States and Nationalist China have in the Security Council

Full session of the assembly is scheduled for Nov. 12

TWO VETOS: The British and French used the veto twice Tuesday night to block the hands of the council as their ultimatum to Egypt and Israel expired

Their actions drew a deep wedge into their alliance with the United States

The vetoes were viewed as a hard blow to the 12-nation council's prestige, already lowered by 76 Soviet vetoes in 11 years

The council adjourned only 27 minutes before the 11:30 p.m. deadline set by Britain and France for Egyptian-Israeli agreement to their proposal to land troops along the waterway nationalized by Egypt July 26

DEADLINE: The two Western powers gave Egypt and Israel 2 hours to stop fighting and draw back 10 miles from the 100-mile canal so that British and French forces could move "temporarily" into Port Said, Ismailia and Suez "to separate the belligerents and to guarantee freedom of transit through the canal"

They said if Egypt and Israel did not consent, they would move in anyway

Israel agreed but Egypt refused

Another council meeting was scheduled this afternoon to take up an Egyptian charge that Britain and France were committing aggression

Egypt said that until the council took "necessary measures," Egypt has no choice but to defend itself

Fluoridation

have been as higher in fluoridated cities than in comparative low-fluoridated cities. In fact, the records show that death rates from these diseases in fluoridated cities are lower than in non-fluoridated cities, the health service has reported

Probably the most comprehensive test of fluoridation was accomplished in Kingston and Newburgh, New York. Ten years ago the water of Newburgh (both cities are about the same size and are 30 miles apart) was fluoridated and that of Kingston left unfluoridated

At the end of 10 years, the children of Newburgh, who had been drinking the fluoridated water, were found to have 60 per cent less tooth decay than the children of Kingston. A similar 10-year test was conducted at two Michigan cities with much the same result

The history of another chemical designed to protect public health—chlorination—shows much the same opposition. In the 1920s, when chlorination came into general use, it was opposed. But, after dispassionate studies of the use of chlorine were made opposition quickly died down

The American Medical Association states that not one authenticated case of fluorine poisoning has been reported to it or the U. S. Public Health Service. Several "cases" have been reported, however, in Newburgh, New York, when fluoridation was first announced

Local health and water officials had many calls. Every young child from a case of cracked dentures was blamed on the fluoridated water. Even some commercial users of the water complained of the change

After receiving these complaints for some time, the water officials announced that due to a delay the fluoridated had not been added to the water supply and would be delayed a month. The people of that community had been drinking the same old water. Needless to say, the complaints ceased immediately

A similar occurrence was reported in Astoria, Oregon in recent years. Complaints were registered for a week and then the water officials of Astoria told the people that the chemical had not yet been added to the supply

As for the charges of "mass medication," fluoridation is not considered any more of a mass medication by medical authorities than is chlorination, or the use of vitamins and iodine which are added to many foods now. Some 1,200 communities with a total population of 21,500,000 now use fluoridated water

Locally, only the people of the city of Klamath Falls will be able to vote on fluoridation in the general election. And, 42 per cent of the Oregon Water Corporation's customers live outside the city limits

However, several women's groups consisting of housewives and mothers living outside the city limits have urged fluoridation of the water

The Oregon Water Corporation has stated that it has the equipment to fluoridate the water if the vote on the measure is affirmative and at no extra cost to its customers
