MAJORS REICHENBERG

Eric Majors, who left the position of manager of the Klamath Falls municipal airport last spring after two and one-half years in that post, is now credit manager and sales representative for Jay Hawk Petroleum Co. . . . There are two local retail outlets, one at 2135 So. 6th and the other at Town & Country Shopping Center where Majors has his headquarters.

A man who wouldn't stay retired is Day Brockerman who came out here from Ohio a dozen years ago. . . . after being retired from railroad service, he joined the AAA Auto Assn. office, 219 Main, here last April. . . . Margaret Santo, manager of the office, is on vacation visiting her son at Provo, and Kathleen Ward has been taking her place at the office.

Her problems started the first day, too, when she had tourist visitors who phoned the rumor that a new flow had started at the Lava Beds. . . . she was equal to the emergency, however, and caught Hal Ogle of KPFA out in the street, who squelched the rumor.

CARL WOODS

In line with its program to increase the per capita consumption of beef, a former president of Klamath County Coo Belles, Mrs. Ted Hyde, calls attention to the contract meat plan for home freezers offered by Carl Woods who operates the meat department at Carters' Fine Foods Market, 1420 Esplanade. This branch of his meat business is operated under the name of Carl's Food Service.

It is essentially a plan to permit a family to get complete use of a home freezer and has been used successfully by a great many families in the Klamath Basin for more than five years.

In simple terms, Woods offers a half-side, a side or a whole beef for sale at only two cents a pound more than the wholesale price. The customer pays an additional five cents a pound for custom cutting and wrapping. Custom cutting means you get your steaks thick or thin as you prefer, shortribs and stew meat if you wish or the larger proportion of the lesser cuts ground up into hamburger. . . . the customer makes the decision. Meat, plus frozen vegetables, fruits and juices to suit the needs of the individual family over a period not to exceed four months are delivered upon the signing of a contract with specific monthly payments. The saving on meat averages out at about 17 per cent.

under meat counter prices at his market, Woods says. In U.S. Good and Choice grades, the meat is unconditionally guaranteed and the service includes consultations to determine the selection requirements under new contracts so that families who don't like spinach, for example, don't get loaded up with Popeye's favorite fruit.

Herman Ryser, 502 Plum Ave., Klamath Falls, was one of the prize winners in the recently concluded Win-A-House contest sponsored by White Satin Sugar and Wedgwood Homes, Inc., both of Portland. . . . his prize was 50 pounds of White Satin Sugar. . . . a Portland woman, Mrs. Joseph Farah, won the $16,500 Wedgwood home in the contest which was advertised in the Herald and News.

The building at 4710 So. 6th in which the Big Y Market is located has been sold to August Andrien, Lower Klamath Road, the deal being consummated by Bob Wright of Owens Realty Co.

Ron Phair and Dick Howard, owners of the Big Y Market, have a long term lease for continued operation of their supermarket at the same location.

Face-lifting is being completed at the James F. Stilwell & Co., realtors, offices, 517 Main St. . . . Herb Lane has put in a new flagstone front and the aluminum glass door has been installed by Fremont Glass. . . . Guy Mollitt is the contractor.

At the Klamath Falls branch of the U.S. National Bank of Portland, Robert L. Mason, chief clerk, has been transferred to the operations section of the head office in Portland, it is announced by Lester O'Hfield, local manager. Mason started working for the bank in July, 1946. . . . he entered military service in August, 1944, and returned to the local bank in September, 1956, where he has been continuously employed until the present promotion, effective Oct. 1.

Replacing Mason is Don Hancock, former Klamathite, who comes from First Western at Chico, Cal.

Larry Svengard, with Mason Ehrman & Co. for 19 years (starting at Lewiston, Idaho), the last 10 years of which with the Klamath Falls operation, moved to Bly six months ago to assume operation of the Sycan Store which he purchased from Bill Hatal who has moved to Medford. . . . Remodeling and expansion at the store included adding a complete new produce department and arrangements for daily delivery of fresh fruits and vegetables.

The public is invited to attend a meeting tonight at the Winema Hotel, from 8 to 10 p.m., when the State Legislative Interim Committee on Education will discuss Oregon Tech affairs and its future, according to Robert A. Kent, chairman of the chamber's OTI committee.

Driver Safety Classes Held

A driving safety class for employees of Humble Oil and Refining Company in this area was held in Klamath Falls October 3. Included in the group were members of four exploration crews operating near Klamath Falls. . . . A. Ross Rommel, Humble's chief safety engineer from Houston, Texas, presented an illustrated lecture on driving safety. . . . Later this month Bill Rogers, Humble's driver training instructor, will come to Klamath Falls to give employee drivers an opportunity to evaluate their driving skills and deficiencies and to receive free instruction. The driving safety program consists of four major parts: examining visual skills, checking driver knowledge of traffic laws and safe driving practices, evaluating driving skill, and a review to show where improvements can be made. Since the program was initiated in 1950, more than 11,000 employees have taken the course. "We hope that through this program we can make some contribution to highway and traffic safety," Rommel said.

Rod, Gun Club Plans Meeting

MOUNT SHASTA — The Mount Shasta Rod and Gun Club on its next regular meeting, Tuesday evening, October 8, will discuss plans for leasing a deer hunting range from a stockman. This practice is now being done with varying success but is gaining in favor. Stockmen are learning what deer hunters have known for many years; that people will pay more for the privilege of shooting a black-tail deer than to take delivery of a white-face beef animal. The Sportsmen's Club will also discuss plans for further improving their gunnery range near Spring Hill.
