KF Council Hears Protests Against Television Antenna

Discussion of objections to a television antenna system and two condemnation proceedings highlighted action at Monday night's regular session of the city council in city hall.

Mrs. P. D. Mead, 2045 Huron and Mrs. A. H. Patterson Jr., 2074 Earle, appeared to voice a protest against an antenna installation being put up by Lloyd Derby on a lot immediately adjacent to and up the incline from Mrs. Mead's address.

Mrs. Mead objected to the installation as being "unsightly" and questioned whether or not the venture was a commercial rather than a non-profit affair.

A letter was read to the council from Lloyd Derby in which he explained that the antenna system had been arranged to bring Channel 5 to both his own residence at 1866 Huron and to other neighboring residences unable to receive TV signals from any other source. Derby reports that his new installation is to consolidate antennas to bring these people both Channel 5 and Channel 7 programs. He reports that while a small fee is being charged those who use the signals, the fee is merely to help repay the cost of installation and the necessary servicing to the system.

John Glubrecht, 701 North Eleventh, also present, stated it was his understanding that any time a service is connected to three or more residences, it comes under the regulations of the Public Utility Commission for the state.

Council President Oliver Spiker, acting mayor in the absence of Lawrence Slater, was requested to contact the state commission and determine whether or not this understanding is correct.

The council agreed it had little or no reason to enter the controversy unless the venture were a commercial one, and advised the persons to contact Derby directly on the matter.

Condemnation proceedings were begun against two residences that have been partially destroyed in recent months by fire, and left as burned hulks by their owners. First steps were taken to condemn the residence at 327 Upham Street, owned by Mrs. Vera Totten, address unknown, and another at 44 Fleishacker Street, registered to Virginia Cortez, General Delivery, Klamath Falls.

An ordinance to forbid the leaving of abandoned, unattended or discarded ice boxes or refrigerators which could not be opened from the inside without taking off the doors was given its first and second reading. The law provides for a fine of not more than $100, and a city jail term of not more than 30 days for such offense.

The measure is patterned after those of other cities which were designed to prevent the tragic death by suffocation of youngsters in the area who might use it in their play.

City Engineer E. A. Thomas pointed out the improvements that the Oregon State Highway Department had effected in the signs at the north entrance approach of U.S. 97 at the intersection with Alameda and Esplanade. They have changed the small four-inch red light to a large 12-inch flashing red light. Thomas pointed out, and have added an overhead sign in the approach with the dangerous curve sign on it.

In departmental reports, building inspector, Verne Shortt, reported that building permits issued during the month of September totaled $191,661.20. The police department reported that bailiffs and fines collected in the month of

Basin Groups To Sponsor Recreation Leader Classes

October 21 through October 31 are the dates set for the eighth annual Klamath Basin Recreation Leadership Training Institute, sponsored by the Young Men's Christian Association, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, the public schools, churches, Parks and Recreation Department and the National Recreation Association.

The institute will be held in the old armory building with entrance at the rear door on Spring Street, Frank A. Staples, nationally known arts and craft instructor will conduct the institute. A fee of $6 will be charged for each course taken and those interested can take more than one course. Cost of materials is extra.

Sessions will be held Monday through Thursday. Basic course No. 1, to be held from 9:15 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. is for the purpose of teaching methods and techniques in various crafts which will be useful for leaders of youth groups. The organization of this course is such that a great deal of material will be covered. Twelve to 16 different projects will be taught. The cost of materials will be considered in setting up these projects so the cost to large groups will be nominal. Students will learn how to use scrap material.

The special course, No. 2, to be taught from 7:30 to 10 p.m. deals with two crafts, giving the student time to develop these crafts to some degree of perfection and understanding. This will be particularly useful to people who either want to learn a hobby or teach crafts to teen-agers or adults. Those who have taken the basic course offered by Mr. Staples previously, should be interested in this course, he says. Classes are limited so that personal attention can be given. Anyone interested should register at once to be accommodated.

The following basic course in crafts will be taught: Mosaic, asbestos modeling, sawdust modeling, stenciling on paper, cloth, wood or metal; Christmas ornaments, stick printing, potato printing, felt printing, spatter printing, blue printing of nature and photo; screen printing, marbelizing, book binding, tie dyeing.

Outline the dyeing, lacquer batik, tin craft, metal foil tooling, plaster of paris carving, bone carving, plaster of paris moulding and casting, braiding, cylinder weaving, finger weaving, weave knitting, box loom weaving (two harness) card weaving, knot weaving, twist-braid rug weaving, square knotting (single and multi units).

Various wood and paper tricks, candle making, finger painting, finger puppets, rhythm band instruments, paper mache objects and animals, games and puzzles, netting, mask making, simple wire jewelry, simple enameling on copper, button jewelry, rope belts, whistles, shepherd's pipes, weather instruments such as rain gauge, barometer, hygrometer and weather forecaster.

In the special course, enameling on copper, wire jewelry and plastics will be taught. This course is designed for hobbyists, professional teachers and particularly teachers of teen-agers and adults.

CPA Speaks At Session

Executive director of the Oregon Society of Certified Public Accountants, Melvin R. Freeman, told a recent meeting of the Southern Oregon Chapter of the society that "despite its youth, accounting is the fastest growing profession in the nation."

The executive director said that in the last 30 years, CPA members have increased by 800 per cent. Freeman, who spoke to the members in the Willard Hotel, said "Accounting has become of increased importance since 1900 because of three major trends."

They are great expansion of industrial activity accompanied by wider public ownership of corporate enterprise, increased government influence on business, especially tax wise, and the search for increased efficiency in the mass production system.

The speaker said there is a great shortage of certified public accountants and that many more are needed to serve the economy of the nation.

Kenneth Lambie, CPA, was in charge of the meeting.

Damaged Plane Returns To Base

HONOLULU (AP)—A Pan American Clipper with propeller trouble landed here safely last night after turning back from 2 1/2 hours out on its way to San Francisco.

Capt. Arthur O. Eichler, of Los Altos, Calif., turned his big craft, with 34 passengers aboard, around when one engine had an over-speeding propeller.

PLANNING for the coming 10-day eighth annual Klamath Basin Recreation Leadership Training Institute are standing, left to right, Mrs. Paul Campbell, Mrs. A. D. Burnett, Mrs. Polly Dixon, Mrs. Louis Holzgang, Mrs. Harold L. Catmull, and Mrs. Joe Schuh. Seated, same order are, Mrs. E. S. Casey, Mrs. Frank W. Johnson and Mrs. W. W. Dewing.

Quotarians Gather In KF For District Conference

During the coming weekend the Quota Club of Klamath County will be host, for the first time, to delegates attending the 14th district conference of Quota International. Quotarians will be arriving on Thursday and Friday in time for the opening event, a Friday night reception in the Camas Room of the Winema Hotel. Reception arrangements are in charge of Dorothy Pinniger, with past presidents of the Klamath club acting as hostesses.

The 14th district comprises Oregon, Washington, British Columbia and Alaska. It is expected that nearly 100 Quotarians will be in attendance from Eugene, Portland, Spokane, Tacoma and Seattle, Vancouver and Victoria, B.C., Fairbanks and Anchorage, Alaska, and Klamath Falls, according to Vera Chase, registration chairman.

Paying her official visit to the district will be the international president, Elsie Yarter of Cheyenne, Wyoming, and while in Oregon, Mrs. Yarter will charter a new Quota Club at Oswego, making the 11th for this district.

Lucille Larson of Tacoma, district governor, and Ardath Danielson of Eugene, lieutenant governor, will preside at the business sessions scheduled for Saturday morning and afternoon in the Winema's Empire Room.

Representing the Klamath club will be President Margaret Baillie and Vice President Eva Dickson. The big job of planning and coordinating this three-day conference has been under the direction of Laverne Slusser and Cardula Eells, with the assistance of eight committees.

All registered Quotarians are invited to the Saturday noon luncheon in the Camas Room, in charge of Helen Majors. This is an occasion for fun and laughter, with skits presented by the various clubs.

Reames Country Club will be the setting for the Saturday evening banquet, preceded by a social hour at 6:30 p.m. James Martin Pihman, an exchange instructor from Hawaii, teaching at Oregon Technical Institute this year, will be guest speaker on the topic "Sharing Educational Services."

Ninon Nyback is banquet chairman, and Dorothea Poole has headed the committee for the final conference event, a cowboy breakfast to be held at the Klamath Yacht Club on Sunday morning, with members of the Eugene club presenting the program.

Meeting of trains, planes and buses and providing transportation for Quotarians during their stay in this city is under the direction of Nadine Colvin. Alice Vitus has had the responsibility for budgeting and finances, and Lou Hoelton of publicity.

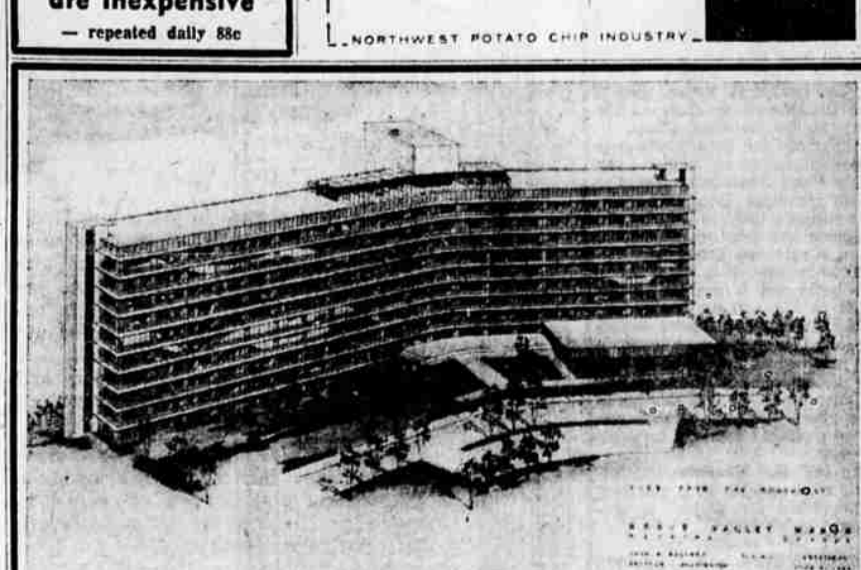

DISTRICT GOVERNOR of the 14th district of Quota International, Lucille F. Larson, left, and the district's lieutenant governor, Ardath L. Danielson, right, will be among the officers attending the 14th district conference of Quota International here on October 11-13. Miss Larson is with the Clinical Laboratories at Tacoma General Hospital and Mrs. Danielson has been a high school teacher, co-owner of a market and since 1948 has been owner-manager of Eugene Greeting Service.

PROGRESS REPORT ROGUE VALLEY MANOR

MEDFORD, OREGON

More than one million dollars in sales of life occupancy rights in the Rogue Valley Manor have been made so far, trustees of the non-profit retirement Manor were told Friday (Sept. 27, 1957).

The trustees at an evening meeting in Ashland, Oregon, heard a report from officers which announced that purchase contracts in the amount of $1,003,316 have been made by men and women who plan to live in the $5,500,000 building. The initial payments have been made and the balance will be paid in installments spread over the construction period.

The sale of Memberships is progressing very satisfactorily and already some of the styles of apartments are in short supply with regard to certain locations.

The Manor Trustees recently completed payment on the 15-acre site on top of Barnegut Hill. Water and Sewage mains are more than 90% completed to the Manor property. 7/8ths of a mile of road has been graded up to the site and is ready for the rock ballast to be spread. At the same meeting, the trustees voted unanimously to increase by 5% the rates of life-occupancy rights, effective December 1st of this year. Inflationary trends in prices were cited as the reason for the increase. Plans call for construction to begin as early as possible next year.
