

Oregon Tech Owls Host Eastern Oregon College

Thursday Drills Canceled As Flu Strikes Owl Squad

The depth shy Oregon Tech Owls received another rap on the chin yesterday in their preparations for Saturday night's game with Eastern Oregon College at Modoc Field. Game time is 7:30.

Nine gridders came down with the flu Wednesday, forcing coach Rex Hunsaker to cancel Thursday's practice session so the boys could be checked by the doctor.

Coach Hunsaker listed starters Jack Bitzer, Frank Wilson, Allen Jones, Charles Ganter, Belton Ollison, Gary Riley and Richard Pekala, as well as reserves Bill Edinger and Norman Kollen all down with the flu Thursday.

However, he said the doctor reported that only Riley will definitely miss Saturday's game with Eastern Oregon because of the flu.

Reported as being hit hard by the bug, but still should be able to play, were Pekala and Bitzer. It was a bad break for Riley, who has just recovered from an ankle injury that had plagued him since the season opener against Itasca J.C.

Both Bitzer and Pekala are key men in the Owls' offense and defense and should not be in condition to play it would be a very bad break for OTI's chances of picking up their second conference win.

Hunsaker said that end Dale McCullough will definitely miss action. This has forced Hunsaker to move Allen Jones from his regular guard position to end replacing McCullough.

Halfback Charles Wilson is the final man listed who will not be able to play Saturday night. Wilson suffered a hip injury last week against Portland State, but it was not known until yesterday whether it would prevent him from seeing action this week.

The Owls did get one break in that halfback Miles Boardman will be ready to go. Boardman was injured two weeks ago in the game with Boise J.C. and earlier in the week he was listed as questionable.

Boardman will be a big asset

KU Slight Underdogs In Game With Eagles

The KUHS Pelicans invade the home ground of the Hudson Bay Eagles in Vancouver, Washington tomorrow night in their last non-conference game before entering conference play with Medford next week.

The Pels will go into the fray as a slight underdog, although the Eagles have yet to post their first victory of the season.

The Whitebirds will again be without the services of their number one quarterback Frank Ballard, and although he will make the trip with the team, he will not suit up.

Also on the injury list is fullback Bill Shreeve who is suffering a leg ailment and will not make the journey to Vancouver.

The Pelicans were handed their worst defeat of the season last week by the Springfield Millers, who riddled the Klamath defense with their overpowering weight.

Coach Andy Knudsen said he has thrown the book at the boys this week, working on every phase of football and driving them hard during the practice sessions.

He added that the team has shown a lot of improvement and that their mental attitude toward Saturday's game is very good and that the spirit is high.

Although two of the regular starters are definitely out of the lineup, the Pels did receive a shot in the arm with the return of end Bob Drace, who will see defensive action and will again take over the punting duties.

The Pels have been very weak during the season on their punting. But Drace showed very well in his first appearance with the Pels against Redding after only two days practice. He was not able to play during the Springfield game as he was sidelined with the flu.

As in all of their previous games, with the exception of Redding, the KUHS gridders will be outweighed, this time by only 10 pounds, as compared to the 30 pound advantage they gave to Springfield.

Tom Ankeny will take over the signal calling assignments in the absence of Ballard. Ankeny had a tough time filling the quarterback slot in going against the Millers, but if the weather doesn't turn too wet at Vancouver, he will have a chance to show more promise against the Eagles.

Ankeny will be a definite offensive asset for the Pels after he picks up a little more game experience. He can throw the ball hard, and when the ground has been dry, he has shown good possibilities of turning into a time runner.

Sacred Heart	0	2	.000
St. Marys	0	2	.000
Jacksonville	0	3	.000

The Malin-Mustangs travel to Talent tonight in the top 5-B football league of the weekend as both teams are undefeated in league play.

The Mustangs so far have downed Jacksonville, squeezed by Chiloquin, and last weekend tripped the Bonanza Antlers. Malin has recuperated from its siege of the flu and should be in good enough condition to handle Talent unless unforeseeable circumstances arise.

On the home front, the Merrill Huskies will be a strong favorite to keep its undefeated string intact by downing the Bonanza Antlers at the Merrill Field tonight at 8 o'clock.

What shaped up to be the battle for the league leadership between Talent and Merrill was postponed last weekend because of the large number of flu cases on the Huskie squad.

Saturday night the Chiloquin Panthers play host to the Sacred Heart Trojans at Chiloquin, while over the mountain St. Marys of Medford and Jacksonville battle it out on the Medford High School field.

AARON TOP SERIES BATTER

NEW YORK (UP)—Hank Aaron of the Milwaukee Braves, the National League's home run and runs batted in leader during the 1957 season, was the World Series' leading hitter in the three most important batting departments. The sleek outfielder hit the most home runs, three, batted in the most runs, 11, and had a .393 batting mark. He also handled 11 chances flawlessly in the field for a perfect 1.000 fielding average.

World Champions Could Prove To Be NL Perennial Champions

NEW YORK (UP)—Milwaukee's miracle is now complete. The miracle man is Fred Haney with Lew Burdette his magic wand.

Just five years after the franchise shift from Boston, the Braves rose from a frustrated, badly disorganized seventh-place team to a world championship outfit with a bright future.

Make no mistake about it. This was a standout team that came from behind repeatedly and overcame crippling handicaps to dethrone a good New York Yankee team in seven sizzling World Series games. This was a young team too. The starting Braves' nine that shut out the Yankees 5-0 yesterday behind the remarkable seven-hit pitching of Burdette averaged 26.4 years to 31.4 for the American League champions.

The confidence gained in defeating the Yankees, especially in their own back yard, is immeasurable. The Braves always had the horses. What they lacked was experience and confidence. They have both now.

In addition, the Braves are a highly efficient organization. They have one of the strongest minor league farm systems and own some of the outstanding young players in the country. No wonder Frank Lane, general manager of the runner-up St. Louis Cardinals, remarked ruefully yesterday:

"This was the year to beat the Braves. Next year I'm afraid they'll be unstoppable."

It is not difficult to view the Braves as a championship team for years to come.

How Burdette fared in the final game, and in the entire series, for that matter, is now one of the more glorious pages in World Series history.

The 30-year-old right-hander from Nitro, W.Va., who now makes his home in Sarasota, Fla., not only became the first starter since Cleveland's Stan Coveleski to win three games in one series, but he also became the first hurler in 32 years to turn in two shutouts. The last one? Christy Mathewson, who blanked the Philadelphia Athletics three times in 1905.

Cold figures don't tell half the story of Burdette's truly remarkable pitching performance. The tall, sinewy right-hander walked only one batter—and that was intentional. He was rarely behind the hitters as only four Yankees reached the three-ball count. Not until two out in the ninth inning did a Yankee runner reach third.

With the exception of Hank Bauer's leadoff double, no extra-base hit was made off him.

Burdette wound up with 24 consecutive scoreless innings against the American League champs. All this with only two days rest. No wonder his agent, Frank Scott, disclosed today that the rubber-arm redhead, whose 1957 salary was only $15,000, stands to earn around $20,000 in personal appearances and endorsements during the coming winter.

Burdette received magnificent fielding support from his teammates, especially Eddie Mathews at third base. He received timely hitting support from Hank Aaron, Bob Hazle, Del Crandall and Mathews.

Mathews, a batting bust in the first three games, delivered the key hit—a third-inning double to Logan off starter and loser Don Larsen which drove in the first two Milwaukee runs.

Aaron, hit safely in every game, drove in a run yesterday and wound up leading all hitters on both teams with .333.

Hazle started the crushing four-run rally in the third with a hit, his first of the series. Crandall, lumbered the coup de grace with a home run into the left field seats.

It was the staunch Braves' defense, however, that surprised the Yankees the most. The scouting reports had led them to believe that the Braves were a slow, clumsy, lack-luster outfit in the field, devoid of fire and imagination. The Braves proved they were anything but that.

Mathews played a spectacular third base from start to finish. Logan's short-fielding was not as sensational but equally effective.

Covington proved the defensive surprise of the series. Saddled with a good-hit, no-fielder reputation, the young left fielder left the Yankees gasping with two glittering catches and a tremendous throw that cut off at least four runs.

Crandall was the rock of Gibraltar behind the plate and his strong throwing arm mowed down all three would-be Yankee base stealers.

Frank Torre, a fancy dan around first base, saved his infield mates embarrassment with his dirt-scooping pickups of their sometimes errant throws.

Practically everybody expected the Braves' defense to crack. Instead it was the Yankee fielding that collapsed. The team as a whole made six errors, twice as many as Milwaukee did. Three of the miscues came yesterday and one of them opened the gates to the four Milwaukee runs in the third.

The culprit was Tony Kubek, the 20-year-old Milwaukee boy.

After Hazle had cracked a one-out single off Larsen in the third, Logan rapped a hard grounder to the versatile youngster at third base. Kubek, with an easy inning-ending double play in sight, threw too high to second, forcing Jerry Coleman off the bag. Coleman's throw from an awkward position was too late to get Logan at first.

Mathews followed with his two-run double. Then Aaron and Covington singled and Torre drove in another run with a grounder and Milwaukee had a 4-0 lead. Milwaukee's other score came in the eighth when Crandall boomed a drive off left-hander Tommy Byrne over Enos Slaughter's head into the left field stands. Byrne was New York's fifth pitcher.

Stengel pulled out all the stops. Besides restoring the injured Bill Skowron to rest, he played Mickey Mantle the whole game in center field. Nothing helped, however. Mantle's best was a harmless single in the sixth. Bobby Shantz, Art Ditmar and Tom Sturdivant also saw action on the mound.

Question: A line drive off the first baseman's glove hits a runner leaving first base and is caught by the second baseman before the ball hits the ground. What gives?—Richard Andreanus.

Answer: No putout and the ball is alive.

Q. The batter hits a grounder which caroms off the second base umpire's leg and goes into short right field. Is the ball dead or in play?—Bob Levy.

A. It is in play.

Beaverton, Milwaukie Clash In Top State Prep Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Milwaukie, third-ranked team in the Associated Press poll, and Beaverton, No. 6, will clash Friday night in the top-interest game of Oregon high school football weekend action.

A big contest between Marshfield, defending state champion and No. 1 in the poll, and Grants Pass, No. 8, was postponed after influenza hit the Grants Pass team.

At stake in the Milwaukie-Beaverton game may be the Metropolitan League (district 3) championship in class A-1. Both are undefeated in league action. Milwaukie has a 4-0 record. That includes a victory over South Salem, which defeated Beaverton in the season opener when Beaverton was crippled by flu.

South Eugene, No. 2 in the poll, is the heavy favorite to down a flu-ridden Albany team. It will be a non-counting game for both schools. South Eugene and Marshfield will meet later this season in what is expected to be the deciding contest for the Midwestern League (district 5) championship.

Albany plays in the Valley League (district 8), where South Salem, ranked fifth in the state, is an overwhelming choice to sink Lebanon as it continues its drive to the title.

North Salem, No. 10, hopes to keep alive its district championship hope with a victory over Corvallis Saturday night.

McMinnville, No. 7, puts its perfect record on the line against Oswego in a Tualatin-Yamhill

Valley League (district 4) game. Jefferson, fourth-ranked in the state, and Grant, No. 9, are expected to keep their unblemished records in the Portland League. Jefferson plays Wilson and Grant meets Franklin Benson, defending city champion but loser to Grant last weekend, will clash with Washington.

The Marshfield-Grants Pass game has been rescheduled tentatively for Nov. 15.

In class A-2, the feature contest will be between Central Union of Monmouth-Independence and Willamina. Each has a perfect record in four games.

Powerful Vale stakes a 4-0 record against Weiser, Idaho. Serra Catholic of Salem, 3-0, will meet Silverton, Mount Angel, also 3-0, will be host to Woodburn. Elmira, another three-game winner without a loss, will go to Junction City.

NY Rangers Dump Red Wings, 3-2

By UNITED PRESS

The New York Rangers and the defending Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens began their National Hockey League seasons with impressive victories Thursday night.

The Rangers, who finished fourth last season, defeated the "new look" Detroit Red Wings, 3-2, and the Canadiens tallied three times in the final period to defeat the Chicago Black Hawks, 5-1.

Camille Henry, Larry Popein and Andy Hebertson scored the New York goals with Hebertson's coming in the third period to break a 2-2 tie. The Wings, playing without Ted Lindsay and goalie Glenn Hall, who were traded to Chicago during the off-season, tallied once in each of the first two periods. Altogether, seven new faces were in the Detroit lineup.

Big Jean Beliveau scored twice and Maurice and Henri Richard and Andre Promovost once to account for Montreal's easy win. Center Glen Skov tallied Chicago's lone goal.

Les Dye is in his ninth season as freshman football coach at Syracuse University.

Logart, Miceli TV Tiff Tonight

DETROIT (UP)—It will be a battle of speed against power tonight when second-ranked Isaac Logart steps into the Olympia ring with Joe Miceli in a nationally televised 10-round welterweight bout.

A 24-year-old Cuban who hails from Kid Gavilan's home town, began his pro boxing career at the ripe old age of 13. His hopes for a title shot in the near future could be shattered by one of Miceli's potent left hooks, acknowledged as one of the best in the ring.

Miceli said he plans to be the aggressor.

"Logart can't hit. He thinks he's another Gavilan but he'll never make it," the 28-year-old New Yorker said.
