A Host Of Friends And Relatives Congratulate Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Bogue On Their 50th Wedding Anniversary

Each Golden Wedding Anniversary is unique, although it seems that there are progressively more of them being celebrated. A 50th wedding year is something achieved only once in a lifetime. At least in occidental marriages. In the very rare instances of pre-arranged marriages, solemnized when the nuptial couples are of pre-kindergarten age, a century of wedded life might possibly be celebrated.

In Klamath Falls, a half-century of wedlock is a major event to be observed in a festive manner with family and friends.

Last Sunday, when Mr. and Mrs. N. H. "Dad" Bogue, 545 Pacific Terrace, celebrated their 50th anniversary, it was also a family reunion of members who live miles apart. As guests arrived they were greeted informally by the anniversary couple and Mr. and Mrs. George Clark, their son-in-law, and daughter, Ellen. Their son, Richard Bogue, a senior geologist, now on a government assignment in Iran, couldn't be here for his parents' Golden Wedding party.

On October 2, 1897, in Vancouver, B.C., Isabelle Robinson McVeigh became the bride of Nathan Herschel Bogue. He was a civil engineer and his profession brought him to Klamath Falls in 1917 as chief civil engineer with the OC&E Railroad.

In 1920, realizing the potential of agricultural development in Klamath County, the couple bought a ranch near Merrill. "Dad" Bogue continued as an engineer with OC&E and farmed until 1933, when he retired from the railroad and became a full time farmer. Out-of-town relatives who were here for the "big day" included Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Wylie, from San Francisco, Mrs. Bogue's sister, and brother-in-law, Horace; Mrs. Maria Van Wart, the 50th anniversary bride's sister, from Toronto, Canada; Mrs. A. C. Doerr, Mrs. Bogue's niece and children, Kathy and Doug, from Santa Rosa; and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zammitt, Mrs. Bogue's cousin and his wife from Felton, California.

Local relatives at the reception besides the Clarks were Mrs. Bogue's sister, Mrs. Mary R. Pierson, 545 Pacific Terrace, and her son Manville, with his wife Dorothy, and daughter, Audrey, who live at 3030 Bisbee.

"Dad," as he is known to friends and relatives in all age groups, and Mrs. Bogue, have six grandchildren, none of whom were able to be in Klamath Falls on the day of the reception. Dick and Nancy Clark, son and daughter of George and Ellen Clark, are, respectively, at Oregon State College and University of Oregon—have full school schedules that will keep them at Corvallis and Eugene until the Thanksgiving holidays.

Richard's wife, Kathryn, and their four children are in Tucson, Arizona, where the two oldest, Peter and Beverly, are students at University of Arizona. The two younger children, Barbara and Gerard, are in elementary school. Richard Bogue plans to be back in the States at Thanksgiving time, and he and his family and Dick and Nancy Clark will all be in Klamath Falls for the holidays.

The Bogue warmth and hospitality moved with them into town from the ranch home—and the
