Arts, Crafts Project Slated

Charge for the eighth annual leadership training arts and crafts institute to start October 21 and continue through October 31 is small, it is announced by Bob Bonney, city recreation director. The registration fee for the course is $6 plus the cost of material used.

The institute, to be conducted by Frank A. Staples, nationally known arts and crafts instructor, is open to all interested persons. Mothers of children, from three years of age up, may take advantage of a nursery to be conducted at a cost of not more than 30 cents per session.

The institute will be held in the old armory building, entrance to be at the rear door on Spring Street.

Purpose of the institute is to train youth leaders, den mothers, Camp Fire Girl leaders, 4-H leaders, Girl Scout leaders, YMCA leaders, hobbyists, mothers wishing homecrafts for children, and anyone interested in learning crafts for themselves or as an instructor.

Entry blanks are available at the parks and recreation office, city hall, or information may be obtained by calling TU 2-3863. Registration should be made early since classes are filling up.

CF Leaders See Display

A clever and varied craft display suitable for all ages of Camp Fire highlighted the meeting of the central district of Camp Fire leaders held recently by the Klamath County Library.

Joan Aschenbach, who presented the display, also demonstrated and explained how to make the items shown. A very informative presentation of the birthday project "Meet The People" was made by Alice Galloway.

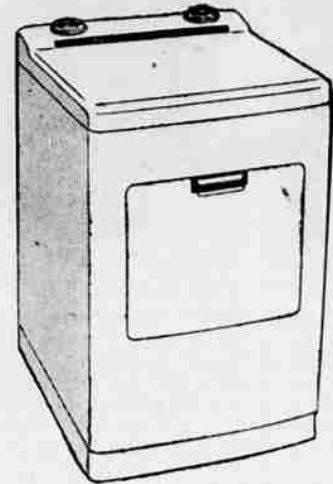

Louise Homer, vice president, presided over the business meeting in the absence of President Annis Fitzgerald, who was 111. Chairman Alice Galloway of the dad-daughter banquet to be held November 14, 6:30 p.m. in the Peace Memorial Presbyterian Church, announced her committee heads as follows: program, Jo Harris; equipment, Louise Homer; reservations, Madeline Gospodnetich; publicity, Mildred Clark; hospitality, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Ryan; kitchen, Mera Briggs and Eulalie Whitloch; seating, Joan Aschenbach. One person from the central district was given the opportunity to attend the craft school to be held in the armory later this month. Alice Galloway accepted.

A lovely fall bouquet of pink and lavender asters graced the tea table, and refreshments were served by Mildred Clark and Virginia Livesay.

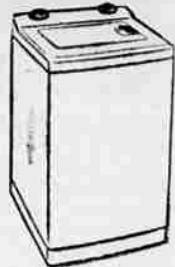

Some compound of every metallic element known—even uranium—is used in ceramic glass.
