

KLAMATH FALLS

KF FACULTY WIVES

Klamath Falls Faculty Wives met Monday evening, October 7, at the home of Mrs. Charles Carlson. The program for the evening was furnished by Mrs. L. B. (Edna) Bartholomew, who related some of the highlights of her recent world tour and two previous European tours. On display were many of the souvenirs Mrs. Bartholomew collected from each country she visited.

Especially interesting were saris from India, a cut work lace and linen tablecloth from Italy, a hand-knit sweater from Norway, a sheer black mantilla from Spain, a holy water jug from the Ganges River, a replica of Don Quixote, antique silver pieces, exquisitely made pieces of jewelry, cloisonne vases from Japan, cultured pearls and even a small Aladdin's lamp. Also displayed was a collection of dolls representing many countries. Mrs. Bartholomew wore a beautiful black dress which was made for her in Hong Kong. Given in a charming manner and with a delightful sense of humor, her experiences provided an extremely interesting program.

Refreshments were served by a committee consisting of Mrs. Gerald Bevans, chairman, Mrs. Charles McLin, Mrs. Floyd McLin and Mrs. Elton Geil.

The next meeting of the group on November 4 will feature a program on household gadgets to be given by Mrs. Ed Bell and Mrs. Rodney Bell of Bell's Hardware.

Buffet Supper For 500 Guests Follows Unruh-Kalina Nuptial Rites

MALIN — In a lovely fall setting featuring the colors, amber and green, Ruth Marie Kalina and Don W. Unruh were married on September 21 at 4 p.m. in the Malin Presbyterian Church.

The impressive double-ring ceremony was read by the Rev. Arthur Johnson of the Tulake Presbyterian Church. Ruth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vaclav Kalina, longtime residents of Malin, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Marie Kalina of Malin and A. Kalina of Portland. Ruth's grandparents were among the founders of Malin. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Unruh, also of Malin.

Forming the background for the candlelight ceremony were large basket arrangements of bronze and amber chrysanthemums and lighted tapers in floor candelabra. The center aisle pews were marked with amber satin ribbon bows.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. J. A. Bunnell who also accompanied Janet Elmore who sang "Golden Day of Promise," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage, Ruth wore an all white gown of pearly silk designed with a fitted bodice. The long sleeves were tapered at the wrists and the Sabrina neckline was bordered with a band of embroidered imported Venetian lace. The graceful skirt belled out from the dropped waistline in elegant fullness over several floor length petticoats and swept into a brief train.

A white lace mantilla, anchored to a small lace covered headpiece with seed pearl clasps, was worn as a veil and formed a striking frame for the bride's brunette beauty. Ruth carried a bouquet of stephanotis centered with a large white orchid.

Traditional touches—wearing a penny in her shoe—really a coin brought by the bridegroom from Germany, carrying a lace handkerchief which belonged to her grandmother, Mrs. Elsie Roberts, and a blue garter were included in her trousseau.

Maid of honor, Phyllis Unruh, the bridegroom's sister, wore a waltz length dress of amber iridescent tulle with a three-quarter length sleeves and a fitted bodice to which was gathered a full skirt. Bridesmaids, Joan Freitag and Mrs. Ronald McVay, are both cousins of the bride. Their sea foam green dresses were similar to the maid of honor's. The attendants all wore Mary Stuart type headbands dotted with rhinestones, in colors to match the dresses. Their bouquets were of amber and gold chrysanthemums on a heart shaped background covered with satin to match each dress.

Another cousin of the bride, Molly Kalina, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Kalina of Eugene, was flower girl. Her floor length dress of sea foam green tulle had been made by the bride, Jerry Kalina, also the bride's cousin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kalina, was the ringbearer.

Ron Kalina, brother of the bride, was best man and usher were Don Sarutski of Alturas, and Rodney Ottomann, Tulake. The ushers were also candlelighters.

Mrs. Kalina wore an afternoon dress of Alice-blue silk with a white satin hat and black accessories for her daughter's wedding. Her corsage was of tallman rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Unruh, chose an afternoon dress of rose-beige lace with which she wore brown accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

After the church ceremony about 500 guests were received in the Broadway Hall which had been decorated in bridal white with accents of fall flowers in the amber tones. The three-tiered wedding cake, encircled at the base with fern and bronze chrysanthemums, was served by Mrs. Clark Unruh and Betty Taylor. Mrs. Eddie McLaughlin presided at the coffee service; at the punch bowls were Mrs. Paul Kessler and uncles of the bride, Mervyn Wilde, Louis Kalina and Rudy Kalina.

Mrs. Gary Freitag registered the guests; and at the gift table were Mrs. John O'Connor and Mrs. Don Sarutski. Vernette Dokken helped
