Pacific Coast Football Briefs

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UP) — San Jose State coach Bob Titchener, who had been ill with the flu for two days, got out of bed long enough to direct Wednesday's rain-soaked practice session.

The Spartans drilled on offensive maneuvers. They play North Texas State Saturday.

STANFORD, Calif. (UP) — Stanford's third and fourth teams ran UCLA's offense against the first-liners Wednesday, and the Indians first-stringers had a rough time stopping the scrubs' passes.

Coach Chuck Taylor said he hoped he could sharpen the Indians defense during remaining practice sessions this week.

STOCKTON, Calif. (UP) — College of Pacific's 36-man traveling squad headed east Thursday for their game Saturday with Cincinnati.

Coach Jack (Moose) Myers held a 30-minute workout Wednesday on the rain-drenched Tiger practice field. He concentrated on a defense against pass patterns expected to be used by Cincinnati.

MOSCOW, Idaho (UP) — Perennially pessimistic coach Skip Stahley watched a healthy Idaho football team run through passing and offensive drills Wednesday and refused to comment on their chances against Fresno State Saturday.

There wasn't a Vandal on the sick list with the return to practice of guard Jerry Smythe, quarterback Howard Willis, flanker back Bob Dahlinger and halfback Paul Wagar.

EUGENE, Ore. (UP) — Several Oregon players sat out Wednesday's practice with minor injuries or the flu, but coach Len Casanova was hopeful they would be ready for Saturday's "crucial" with California.

Regular center Norm Chapman definitely won't be in the game and may not be available the rest of the season. He dislocated an ankle last week against Washington State.

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UP) — Oregon State coach Tommy Prothro and his staff are drilling the Beavers on fundamentals ... and more fundamentals.

The Beavers meet the University of Washington in Seattle this weekend and Oregon State coaches are taking out some "fundamental" insurance that lightning won't strike twice against their club. OSC was upset last week by UCLA, 26-7.

BERKELEY, Calif. (UP) — California quarterback Joe Kapp was back directing the Bears' first string Wednesday after being sidelined with injuries.

The practice was devoted largely to going over new plays designed especially for Oregon. The Bears and Ducks meet Saturday in Eugene.

SEATTLE (UP) — Washington football coach Jim Owens won't be unhappy to see a little Seattle rain Saturday.

The Huskies meet defending Pacific Coast Conference champion Oregon State and Owens claims a soggy field would hurt the Beavers' strong offense more than it would hurt Washington's.

Owens conducted Wednesday's practice, with work on both offense and defense, indoors.

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Southern California continued to concentrate on defenses against Washington State's passing attack Thursday, but reports out of the Trojan camp were not encouraging for SC fans.

Reports were that Bob Crockett, a stand-in for the Cougars' sharp-shooting Bob Newman, was completing far too many passes.

Coach Don Clark experimented Wednesday with two new backfield combinations, hoping to find one that would work.

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Coach Henry (Red) Sanders was recovering from an attack of influenza Thursday as his UCLA Bruins drilled under coaching assistants.

The practice program called for more work on ways to stop Stanford's passing game Saturday at Palo Alto. The Bruins spent much time Wednesday on their aerial offense and defense.

HANDLEY FILES SUIT

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Lee (Jeep) Handley, ex-Pittsburgh Pirate third-baseman, has filed a counter-suit for damages in federal court here in connection with a motorboat collision last Sept. 21 at Deep Creek, Md.

Panthers Seek Comeback Against Touted Irish Team

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Can a team once tabbed the "Comeback Kids" actually come back after being stripped of national ranking and No. 1 Lambert trophy standing in the East?

The answer will unfold Saturday at South Bend, Ind., when Pitt's defeated Panthers meet unbeaten Notre Dame, a team that is proving they do come back.

Following a crushing 29-13 defeat by Army last weekend, the Panthers became targets of criticism from hometown fans and alumni. Pitt backers felt the team "had it" this year. That is, the Panthers had the stuff to record a fine season.

The connotation of the phrase "had it" now is changed. With a 3-2 record at the season's midpoint, the big question now is: "Has Pitt had it?"

End coach Ernie Hefferle, for one, feels Pitt still is to be reckoned with.

"I believe the boys have a chance to beat the Irish," Hefferle told a football club luncheon. "But they'll have to start cracking in there and show some fire. They played too much touch football against the Army."

But even Hefferle's optimism failed to quiet charges of "no imagination" being hurled at the team and head coach Johnny Michelosen.

Michelosen was criticized for leaving his first team in too long against Army, which rolled to 23 points in the second half. Pitt's starting line did not get a substitute until late in the third period.

When Michelosen became head coach three seasons ago, his squads were known for their strong second half showing. The "Comeback Kids" title became appropriate. But in losses this season to Army and Oklahoma, the Panthers sputtered out in the final 30 minutes.

Physically, Pitt will be in top shape for the Notre Dame game. Several flu cases have been cured and injuries to key backs have healed.

But how about the mental wounds? Before the season started and because of Notre Dame's "worst in history" showing last year, the Panthers were figured a shoo-in. Come Saturday, the Irish will be six and one-half point favorites.

Pitt will have to beat odds, beat the Irish and beat its own disappointment.
