Martha Joan Loosley Is Fall Bride Of Robert E. Driesner On October 5 In Fort Klamath Methodist Church

FORT KLAMATH — The Fort Klamath Community Methodist Church was the setting for a large fall wedding at 3 p.m. Saturday, October 5, when Martha Joan Loosley became the bride of Robert E. Driesner. She is the daughter of Mrs. Raymond S. Loosley and the late Raymond S. Loosley of Fort Klamath, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Driesner of Milwaukie, Oregon.

The impressive double-ring candlelight service was read by the Rev. Herbert Butt, pastor of Hillcrest Church, Portland, before a background of chrysanthemums, acorns and wheat in vivid autumn colors. Pews were marked with wide white satin ribbon combined with small bouquets of chrysanthemums, acorns and wheat in the prevailing floral church decor.

Organist was Mrs. A. C. Smith, Portland, who played the traditional Lohengrin wedding marches and accompanied Mr. David L. Harte, Corvallis, who sang three hymns during the service, concluding with "Abraham's Prayer."

Escorting his niece to the altar was her paternal uncle, Forrester W. Loosley, Susanville, California, who gave her in marriage. For her wedding, Martha Joan wore the bridal gown of her cousin, Mrs. Sam Sacco, Eureka, which she wore at her own wedding 10 years ago. The dress of rich ivory slipper satin was designed with a floor length skirt, sweetheart neckline and lace edged chapel train. The fingertip veil was secured by a close fitting cap of white satin and smoked pearls. The bride's bouquet was of chrysanthemums, acorns and wheat, and she carried a white Bible on which rested a single white orchid.

Matron of honor was a sister of the bride, Mrs. Hollis Kizer, of Fort Klamath, and bridesmaids were Mrs. E. C. Watkins and Flora Bertrand, both of Portland. All three attendants were gowned in identical princess style frocks of opera red faille with matching accessories, and corsages of fall flowers in keeping with the prevailing floral theme.

Candlelighters were twin nieces of the bride, Rose Marie and Rosa Lee Hughes, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hughes of Pendleton. They wore dresses of yellow taffeta, made in identical princess style, and each girl wore a headband of red and yellow carnations.

Ushers were Maurice Dube and Don Levein, both of Corvallis. E. C. (Ted) Watkins of Portland attended the bridegroom as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Loosley wore a sheath gown of teal blue crepe, with accessories of dusty rose and a white orchid corsage. The mother of the bridegroom chose a frock of rose-beige lace, with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Carrying out the age-old custom of brides, the new Mrs. Driesner wore an 1885 Indian-head penny in her shoe for "something old." The gift from her bridegroom, a pearl necklace and matching earrings, were worn as "something new," and her cousin's bridal gown was the "something borrowed." A blue garter completed her ensemble.

The bride was a graduate of Clifton High School, class of BARTON ADAMS, well-known local man, and his bride, the former Suzanne Blythe Klein of Winnetka, Illinois, leave the wedding reception in the Winnetka Womens Club for their honeymoon trip.

Barton Adams Claims Illinois Girl As Bride In Winnetka, Ill., Church

A September wedding of interest to many friends in this locale took place in Winnetka, Illinois, when Suzanne Blythe Klein and Barton Adams exchanged marriage vows in the Winnetka Congregational Church.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Frederick Klein of Winnetka, was given in marriage by her uncle, Thomas Owen.

She wore a ballerina length dress of Alencon lace and fine pleated tulle designed with princess bodice and full bell-shaped skirt. A Juliet cap of Alencon lace encrusted with seed pearls held her fingertip silk illusion veil, and she carried a shower of stephanotis and white orchids.

Maid of honor, Gail Buchanan of New York City, wore a princess gown of green peau de soie.

Paul Adams served his brother as best man, and guests were seated by Kenneth Simpson, cousin of the bride from Brookline, Massachusetts, and Charles Norland of Klamath Falls.

At the reception in the Winnetka Womens Club, the bride's mother received in a gown of sapphire blue peau de soie and a feathered hat. The bridegroom's mother Mrs. F. Cecil Adams, Klamath Falls, was dressed in champagne colored ribbon lace; and his grandmother, Mrs. Harold Tonseth, also of Klamath Falls, wore a two-piece crepe dress with lace bodice.

After the honeymoon, the pair returned to Palo Alto, California, where they will live for the present, moving to San Francisco after the Christmas holidays, where the bridegroom will continue his work as a second-year Stanford medical student. He is the son of Mrs. Frederick Cecil Adams, 1968 Del Moro, and the late Dr. Frederick Cecil Adams.

Both the bride and bridegroom received M. A. degrees from Stanford University in June. The bride is a member of Phi Beta Kappa scholastic honor society, and the bridegroom a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

SHE WAS SUZANNE BLYTHE KLEIN before her September wedding to Barton Adams in Winnetka, Illinois. She is the daughter of Mrs. Arthur Frederick Klein, Winnetka, where the marriage took place in the Congregational Church.

Barton is the son of Mrs. Frederick Cecil Adams of this city, and the nuptial news is of interest to a host of local friends.
