

In somber setting of a darkened theater in Paris, Gene Kelly and newcomer Taina Elg do ballet-like dance.

Weather," has discovered a new kind of partner—girls.

It must have been a pleasant discovery because in his latest film Kelly flips some bright gymnastics with not one, not two, but three of these lovely creatures.

The story is set in Paris and is called—not inappropriately—"Les Girls," although les girls are Finnish, English, and American.

The versatile Irishman does a pas de deux with ballerina Taina Elg, a bit of spoof with comedienne Kay Kendall, and a bar-room ball with spitzzy Mitzi Gaynor. A diplomat as well as an actor - dancer - choreographer - producer - director, Kelly says, "I loved all three." From these pictures, it sounds reasonable.
