State Police Hurt In Crash

Two state police officers were injured Sunday evening when the vehicle in which they were riding was struck on South Sixth Street by a northbound machine driven by Lloyd Seelye, 18, of Klamath Falls.

The injured patrolmen who are reported resting comfortably at the Klamath Valley Hospital are Billy Joe Melton and Leland Moeller. Also taken to the hospital by Peace Ambulance was Edward L. Jacobs, 16, of Klamath Falls. He was thrown out of the Seelye car and suffered head lacerations. Seelye was reportedly uninjured in the impact.

The state police report that the patrol car, driven by Officer Melton, was moving south on South Sixth Street when two northbound cars were seen drag-racing at a high rate of speed. The officers attempted a U-turn to pursue the drag racers. At that point the patrol car was struck by the Seelye machine which was proceeding north on South Sixth. Officer Melton was thrown out of the police car by the crash.

Investigation of the accident is continuing, the state police office said.

Two Die In Hunt Mishaps

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A 14-year-old boy and a 61-year-old man were shot and killed over the weekend in Oregon hunting accidents.

Gunshot wounds now have taken six lives in the state's fall hunting season. Ten hunters have died of heart attacks.

The first weekend gunshot victim was Bruce C. Rolston, 14, of Tillamook.

He was killed near the coastal town on a duck-hunting trip with his 12-year-old brother, Eugene.

Police said Eugene slipped and fell and his gun discharged. The charge caught Bruce in the chest.

The other fatality occurred on Sunday near Mullino, when Lewis Ira Dickinson, 61, Portland, was hit in the head with a rifle bullet and killed outright.

Coroner Leslie Peake said that Ray Alford York, who lives near Mullino, told him he fired at a movement that he thought was made by an animal.

The two men were on a cougar hunt.

Three To Speak To Convention

New Chief Takes Over In Turkey As Tensions Gain

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP)—Adnan Menderes won a new term as Turkey's prime minister today while this pro-Western nation faced its gravest foreign crisis since World War II.

Official returns from yesterday's parliamentary election gave Menderes' Democrat party 397 seats in the National Assembly. The People's Republican party, led by former President Ismet Inonu, won 178 and the small Freedom and Nation parties four each.

Twenty-seven contests still were undecided.

The government did not release any nationwide voting figures, but it appeared the Democrats got slightly less than 50 per cent of the total vote of about 10 million.

When the fourth postwar Parliament convenes Nov. 1 Menderes will have a reduced but still firm majority in the 610-member Assembly. In the last elections, three years ago, the Democrats won 488 of 542 seats, although defections later cut the government total to 450.

The only effect the election was expected to have on the Turkish-Syrian border crisis was to give Turkish leaders more time to deal with it. Since the campaigning began, the Turks have paid little heed to the Syrian charges of Turkish plans to attack and Soviet threats to intervene if fighting broke out.

Turkey denied the charges and said troop reinforcements along the Syrian border were there on defensive maneuvers. Foreign journalists visiting the border area found the army in defensive positions placed well back of the actual demarcation line.

Campaigning politicians hardly mentioned the grave foreign crisis. Both major parties support Turkey's alliances with NATO and the Baghdad Pact.

The campaign centered instead of Menderes' full-speed-ahead program for economic development, Turkey's serious shortage of consumer goods and the government's restrictions on civil liberties.

A major surprise of the election was the Democrats' easy victory in Istanbul, which appeared during the campaign to be favoring the opposition. The final tally gave the Democrats nearly an 80-60-vote margin.

The election gave Menderes 57, the prospect of four more years in office to complete his programs. He came to power in 1950 in a major political upset of Inonu's forces.

Hauptman Move Told

CHEMULT — Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hauptman, operators of The Wheel, have moved into the William Taylor house at the south end of Chemult.

It has been determined by Hauptman and insurance adjustors that the Hauptman home is a total loss by reason of a loaded produce truck crashing into it a short time ago. The semi truck and trailer said to be driven by Ben Sadoss, went out of control and crashed into the Hauptmans' bedroom about 3:30 a.m. The impact knocked in the wall at the head of the bed in which they were sleeping. Both were treated for shock and bruises.

A good share of the load in the truck was raisins, witnesses said.

Weather In Oregon Good

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Low clouds and fog east of the Cascades will continue Tuesday, the Weather Bureau said Monday, but Western Oregon is expected to have generally fair weather.

A blanket of fog in the northwestern section of the state early Monday gave way to bright sunshine. East of the mountains, clouds persisted.

The Weather Bureau said two storms had formed in the Pacific and were moving toward the coast. Rain is not expected until next weekend, however.

Low temperature readings in the 24-hour period ending early Monday included 27 at Baker, 31 at Bend, 3 at Lakeview and Eugene, and 37 at Salem and Medford.

Red Cross Group Meets, Plans School Activities

Teacher-sponsors and parent-sponsors of the Junior Red Cross met at Red Cross headquarters October 23 to plan the school program for the current year. Mrs. C. R. Canine, chairman, outlined program suggestions for elementary school participation.

Gary Robertson, assistant school superintendent, discussed the program as an integral part of the school curriculum. Mrs. Bertha Hultman, Roosevelt, and Mrs. Polly Merrill, Pelican, explained the organization of school councils and participation of students in program planning. It was recommended that the furnishing of comfort kits for disturbed and unfortunate children in the community at the local juvenile home be continued in the coming school year.

Additional programs may be activated according to the interest of the schools enrolled. Specific requests for certain salvage materials and holiday decorations for Camp White were discussed and explained by Mrs. Canine. Mrs. H. E. Moore, hospital representative for the local Red Cross chapter, invited Junior Red Cross members to put on the program for the meeting of the hospital council serving Camp White. The meeting will be held November 20 in Klamath Falls, with representatives of Red Cross chapters in Lakeview, Yreka, Medford and Grants Pass to be invited.

Teacher sponsors appointed by schools: Mrs. Emily Priest, Conger; Mrs. Marguerite Parker, Fairview; Mrs. Polly Merrill, Pelican; Mrs. Peggy Thomas and Mrs. Loretta Ferrell, Mills; Mrs. Verna Dean Long, Fremont elementary; Mrs. Ora Reading, Riverside; Mrs. Bertha Hultman, Roosevelt; Fremont Junior High and Sacred Heart Academy grade and high schools, and Merrill elementary are also enrolled schools but teacher sponsors will be announced later.

Police Check Local Thefts

City police are working with the following theft and vandalism reports received during the weekend: Ramon L. Williamson of 1319 Nimitz Street had four hubcaps stolen from a vehicle.

The seat covers were ripped away and the antenna and the side mirror damaged on the vehicle belonging to Paul Black of 3949 Shasta Way.

Two hubcaps were stolen from a car belonging to D. Jeschke of 2855 Radcliffe.

Four hubs were stolen from the machine belonging to Dale Niederer of 808 1/2 Mt. Whitney Street.

Police also apprehended two boys, ages 10 and 12, who had shot the front windows and some of the back windows out of the residence at 430 North First Street. The youths were placed in the hands of juvenile authorities.
