

LIGHTING WILL BE MOST IMPORTANT to the success of "Lo And Behold!" the Kiwanis Club-sponsored three-act comedy by John Patrick. In the picture, Kristian Gippo, director, and Peggy (Mrs. Stafford) Thomas, prompter, check the backstage control panel. Gary Robertson, who, as Milo Alcott, author, plays the leading role, is shown as he waits for his cue during a recent rehearsal. The laugh-packed comedy was first staged by Burgess Meredith and presented by the Theatre Guild in 1951. (See story.)

Kiwanis Club Stages Show To Raise Funds For Park Project

You can support a very important and worthwhile civic project this month and treat yourself to a big evening of entertainment besides. And for very little money. A ticket to the Klamath Falls Kiwanis Club presentation of John Patrick's clever three-act comedy "Lo And Behold!" will help maintain and improve the new Kiwanis Park on Kit Carson Way, "a place for children to play" and will also admit you to Mills Auditorium for a laugh-packed stage show featuring a talented cast of local actors.

This comedy, first staged by Burgess Meredith and presented by the Theatre Guild in December 1951, has to do with a Nobel Prize winner who has lived for many years on a meager, unpalatable diet to favor an ailing heart. This very lack of much heart has made the philosophy of his books coldly cynical.

After signing a will that leaves a third of his estate to his young doctor, a third to perpetuate his house as a sanctuary for his spirit and the final third to Harvard

Law School to insure that the terms of his odd testament will be carried out, he eats a sumptuous meal and forthwith dies happily. Instead of the solitude he had expected in his home, he is beset by the spirits of an Indian girl pushed off a cliff by her lover, a Southern belle with a disturbing drawl and a phony liberal attitude, and a frustrated composer. As if these three unwelcome wraiths weren't enough to annoy the soul of an aesthete, the pretty cook (actually a model) who had prepared the fatal dishes, returns to the house and is mistaken for his illegitimate daughter. The author eventually finds peace in furthering a romance between his young doctor-heir and the pseudo-cook.

The action of the play occurs in the library of the author's home—and the treatment of the spirit and living-character parts is similar to that used in the Topper series.

DRESSING the "leading lady" for a Halloween party is fun for this youngster. Witch is to be a target for a ball-throwing game.

POTLUCK DINNER

Mrs. Elsie Trivelpiece was the hostess at a potluck turkey dinner, recently given at her home by the members of the 20-80 Club, in honor of Mrs. Jack Smith, who is visiting here from Tacoma, Wash. Mrs. Smith is a former resident of Yreka and member of the club.

Those attending in addition to the honoree and hostess were Mrs. Lillian Balis, Mrs. Don Favero, Mrs. A. F. Cameron, Mrs. Wilson Grazer, Mrs. Ray Fraga, Mrs. Vergil Nelson, Mrs. Albert Tebbe, all of whom are members of the club. Present as guests were Mrs. John Ley and Mrs. Howard Trivelpiece.

COUPLE HONORED

Honored at their Fort Klamath home by a host of longtime friends, neighbors and relatives on Sunday afternoon, October 21, were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Chase. The occasion marked the celebration of their 45th wedding anniversary.

Wedding cake, coffee and tea were served to the approximately 20 guests who attended the afternoon affair. Special guests were the three Chase grandchildren, Jeanne and Gail Knox and Linda Chase.

The Chase's son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Chase, of Medford, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Knox (Marian Chase), of Merrill, engineered the plans for the gala event.
