Negro Principal Fares Well As Head Of All-White School

SEATTLE (AP) — Principal Harrison Caldwell of the Roxhill School here boasts a unique honor—he gets love notes from his pupils.
The 48-year-old principal is a Negro. His 500 pupils all are white, in classes ranging from kindergarten to 6th grade.
But Caldwell says he never feels alone. One reason is the love notes.
"Dear Mr. Caldwell," wrote one little girl, "I love you."
Her card was embroidered with flowers and a bright-red heart.
Another pupil was leaving the school and this was her farewell to the principal.
"I will miss you. I love you. From Lynda."
"This is democracy in action," says the broad-shouldered man, who believes he is the nation's only Negro principal of an all-white school.

"Roxhill is a living example of how people can get along," he says, adding he never has experienced an unpleasant moment since coming to the school a year ago.
Caldwell came here from Topeka, Kan., where he was director of Negro schools.
"I have always felt right at home," says Caldwell.
"I think the people of the Roxhill area want someone who is interested in the welfare of their children. I don't think they are concerned about the color of his skin."
And Caldwell's subordinates have nothing but praise for him.
"Color never has meant a thing," says Mrs. L. D. Willoughby, a third grade teacher.
"It's an honor and a privilege to be associated with Mr. Caldwell," comments kindergarten teacher Mrs. Charles E. Perkins.
And the school's secretary, Mrs. Floyd Thompson, adds:
"I'm working with a fellow American."

New Threat From Turkey Charged By Syrian Leader

DAMASCUS, Syria (UP)—Acting Foreign Minister Khalil Kallas renewed his complaints against Turkey Tuesday night and said he would take the matter to the United Nations unless Turkey withdrew threatening troop concentrations before Christmas.

He indicated at a two-hour news conference the withdrawal time limit would be fixed for Dec. 15 when the General Assembly is scheduled to adjourn.

Syria has charged that Turkey, with United States support, is planning an attack. Turkey and the United States have denied the charges.

Kallas said Syrian information was that there had been no change in Turkish troops strength along the border and that the Turks were engaged in maneuvers as Turkey has claimed.

Kallas said border violations and shooting affrays had increased since the U.N. debate on the situation and that Turkish troops were carrying out actions "which bring them right up to the border itself."

He also disclosed that first estimates of the cost of the recent Syrian-Soviet economic agreement was two billion Syrian pounds (about 520 million dollars), with less than half to be used for financing machinery, equipment and raw materials.

(A Jerusalem dispatch said Israeli destroyers were now carrying out anti-aircraft and anti-submarine maneuvers in order to train crews to face possible Egyptian and Syrian naval attacks with Soviet equipment.)

(An Amman, Jordan, dispatch said Jordan's radio stations in Jerusalem and Amman had counter-attacked vigorously in the running battle of words with Egypt.)

(Cairo Radio broadcasts have accused King Hussein of Jordan of being a "traitor" to the Arabs for allegedly negotiating with the Israelis, a report denied by both Israel and Jordan. The latest Jordanian broadcast called Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser and his government "agents of the Kremlin" and "cowards and failures.")
