

A HALLOWEEN COSTUME PARTY — On October 31 — what else? As can easily happen on Halloween, not everyone present in the group above is visible. The picture was taken at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wynne, 1830 Lawrence, and their son, Steven, was host. He and his guests are all classmates at Mrs. Art L. Moore's kindergarten on Newcastle.

IMPS, PIXIES, GOBLINS AND ANGELS — No matter what costume he wears — at a certain age a boy — any very young boy — is a complex combination of everything between cherub and demon — seraph and Satan — He's not a baby — but he's not big. He's just a little boy. There are three of them in the picture. Compact and complete adult-buffers. And much more mysterious than Halloween.

The afternoon soiree at 1830 Lawrence was arranged by the young host's mother, Mrs. Floyd Wynne, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Bob Dirschl. — Photo by Kettler

CHILOQUIN BIRTHDAY DINNER

Lester (Butch) Barnes was taken completely by surprise when his wife, Carol, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Barnes, gave a buffet chicken dinner October 17 to celebrate his birthday.

Following the dinner was an evening of games planned by Mrs. Wayne Niehaus, all the prizes being candy suckers of all descriptions from the smallest to the very largest.

Attending were Mike Ravizza, Don Garrison, Gail Manning, Louise Niehaus, Munson Sandoval, Meta Collins, Karen Wilson, Richard and Manuel Ochoa, Barbara Adamo, Janet Clark, Bruce Parazo, Claudia and Louise Heglund, Mrs. Niehaus, the hosts and the guest of honor.

WEED LADIES GOLF CLUB

Halloween motifs highlighted the decor, and lighted pumpkins created the atmosphere for the "Hard Times" party staged at the Weed Golf Clubhouse Saturday night, October 26. The event opened the new round of social events planned by the Weed Ladies Golf Club for members of the club.

Dancing and games made up the evening entertainment for the many couples attending in their variety of hard time costumes. The Halloween theme was repeated in the table decor for the midnight buffet which climaxed the party festivities.

Committee for the evening was Mrs. Al Shipman, Mrs. Mary Young, Mrs. Mort Kaer, Josie Scallise, Mrs. C. A. Nicholas and Betty Study.

Lavender And White Floral Decor For Pedersen-Kotthoff Nuptials own wedding in December 1955. She also wore a blue garter and a penny in her shoe.

Mrs. George Kingsbury, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. She wore a waltz length frock of light green net over taffeta, and carried a bouquet of lavender spider mums with matching bows and streamers.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Bill Green and Verla Kotthoff, also a sister of the bride, wore lavender gowns identical in style to the matron of honor's, and carried bouquets of light green mums. All the attendants wore lavender floral headresses.

The bridegroom chose for his best man, Johnny O'Keefe of Tulelake. Charles Swafford, Klamath Falls, served as usher.

The mother of the bride, Mrs. Butterworth, wore a navy blue afternoon dress with matching accessories and a corsage of red garnet roses. The senior Mrs. Pedersen was attired in a light brown suit ensemble with brown accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Special guests attending the wedding ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Kotthoff, the bride's grandparents, with whom she made her home in Merrill.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church social room. Presiding at the punch bowls were Mrs. Russell Wells, aunt of the bridegroom, and Janet Drager, cousin of the bride. The three-tiered ornately decorated wedding cake was served by Mrs. Doyle Haskins, cousin of the bride; guests were registered by Margie Qualls; and attending the gift table was Arlene Johnson.

Assisting about the reception room were Mrs. L. A. Drager, the bride's aunt, and Mrs. Willard McCulloch.

For her going away ensemble, the bride wore a brown suit with avocado accessories and the orchid from her wedding bouquet. Following a brief honeymoon trip, the young couple is now at home, 825 Grant Street, Klamath Falls.

The new Mrs. Pedersen attended school at Merrill High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of Tulelake High School and attended Chico State College.

Out-of-town guests attending the Pedersen-Kotthoff nuptials were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Warberg and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wells, all of Twin Falls, Idaho and aunts and uncles of the bridegroom; Mr. A. E. Adamson, Nampa, Idaho, uncle of the bridegroom; Mrs. Paul Kotthoff, Medford, stepmother of the bride; P. F. Butterworth, Portland, stepfather of the bride; and Mrs. Anna Truax, of Eugene, the bride's great aunt.

Ideal costume for a mature autumn bride would be a silver lace sheath worn with matching jacket collared in mink or chin-chilla.

FESTIVE AND INFORMAL this Thanksgiving buffet table is centered with a wicker basket set on a pale green felt runner and filled with fruit, berries and vegetables. The prim Pilgrim couple on the children's table (inset) brings the spirit of Thanksgiving to their festive board and makes it "something special" for them to remember. The numbers could designate favors or prizes.

A SEPARATE THANKSGIVING TABLE IS PRACTICAL AND FUN FOR CHILDREN IF DECOR IS FESTIVE AND GAY

By KAY SHERWOOD
 NEA Staff Writer

Festive simplicity is the watchword of the modern hostess planning her Thanksgiving celebration. The nostalgic picture of the elaborate feast with all the kinfolk gathered around the banquet table just doesn't jibe with modern living.

In the first place, who has a banquet table or the space to put it? With families widely scattered, the gathering together to give thanks today often includes close friends and their children.

The spirit of the occasion is as graciously expressed in a simple setting with a menu planned in consideration of the hostess-cook's time, and the determination of the weight-watchers in most households.

One old-fashioned custom to which I subscribe, however, is the separate table for the youngsters. Appoint one of the older children hostess for the table and she can help serve plates, check up on milk drinkers and suggest games to be played while the adults linger over coffee.

Add a festive air with a few decorations. This year on their table I'm using a Pilgrim couple made from milk cartons and paper. These can be made anytime by you or the older children. All you do is tape black paper around a milk carton to form the body; cut out arms from black paper and hands from pink paper and tape onto body. Pink paper around a cardboard tube and decorated with paint makes the face. Ruffled collars and cuffs are cut from white paper baking cups; a strip of tissue paper makes the lady's cape. The

LANGELL VALLEY

BRIDE HONORED

Mrs. Bob Colwell, recent bride, was guest of honor at a coffee given by Mrs. Louis Randall and Mrs. Martin Giff at the Randall home in Langell Valley the afternoon of October 30. Autumn colors predominated in the decorations and refreshments for the lovely affair attended by 40 women from Swan Lake, Bonanza and Langell Valley.

Bertha Atwood of Portland and Bob Colwell were united in marriage at an 11:30 a.m. ceremony October 19 in the St. Frances Cabrini Catholic Church in Bonanza with the Rev. George Murphy of Klamath Falls performing the ceremony. Their attendants were the bride's son Gary Atwood and the bridegroom's daughter Margaret Colwell.

Ever wondered why that bulky vase that came at Christmas seems a misfit in your home? It is probably out of proportion to your decor. A room with fine-textured fabrics and furniture with delicate lines takes delicate glass and dainty pottery accessories.

Wise grocery shopping is tricky. For example, price per pound can be misleading when comparing two foods. To get a true comparison of costs of two foods you have to compare costs per serving.

The woman who puts time and real thought into the selection of clothes will be well dressed even if her budget is limited. It's thinking out each purchase in advance that's important.
