

Arizona State Tops Offense

NEW YORK (UP) — Arizona State of Tempe clung to the national college football lead in both total offense and scoring today although defending champion Oklahoma was starting a late-season rush to retain both crowns.

Arizona State's Sun Devils, unbeaten and untied in seven games, actually increased their lead in both vital statistics during a weekend that saw them crush Texas Western, 43-7.

State boosted its scoring average to 36.6 points per game, against 33.0 for second-place Army, and increased its total offense average to 437 yards per game against 412.1 per game for Army.

But Oklahoma, which won both titles for the past two seasons, made impressive strides as it trounced Missouri, 39-14. The Sooners moved up from 10th to fifth in scoring and up to ninth in total offense — perhaps still too far behind in both to catch up in the time remaining.

However, the Sooners racked up 424 yards rushing against Missouri to drive from seventh to third in rushing yardage, another department they have led for two straight years. Mississippi retains the lead in rushing with 337.8 yards per game to 329.3 for Army and 300.1 for Oklahoma.

Utah, with ace Lee Grosscup doing most of the pitching, now has virtually wrapped up the national title in passing. The Redskins gained 316 yards through the air against Army last Saturday to boost their average to 201.8 yards per game to 174.0 for second-place Holy Cross.

The clash between air-minded Utah and rushing-conscious Army, which was won by Army, 39-33, produced the second wildest ground-gaining game of the year. Together the two teams piled up 840 yards, a sum topped only by the 921 compiled by Colorado and Kansas St. Oct. 19. Utah's 33 points was the second best losing total of the year, topped by Colorado's 24 against Kansas's 35 on Oct. 5.

Utah still is running ahead of the record on percentage of pass completions with an average of .615 compared to the mark of .610 set by California in 1954.

O'Connell Tops LeBaron As NFL Leading Passer

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The Cleveland Browns, content to win the most games with the least fanfare in the statistics columns, finally popped to the front in the National Football League figures by placing Tomny O'Connell first among the passers.

O'Connell took over as the league's leading passer by outting Eddie LeBaron of the Redskins. Rookie Jim Brown muscled himself into second place among the individual rushers.

O'Connell, completing 7 of 11 for 156 yards and two touchdowns against Pittsburgh last weekend, posted an average of 10.04 yards gained for every pass thrown as the Redskins' little star dropped to a 9.27 yard average.

John Unitas, Baltimore (8.18), Lamar McHan, Chicago Cardinals (8.15) and Eddie Brown of the Chicago Bears (7.82) completed the first five.

the leader in individual rushing with 501 yards, retained first position, but the line-busting Brown jumped into second place with a 464 yard total. The two were followed by Hugh McElhenry of San Francisco (452) and Ollie Matson of the Cardinals (436).

Lanky Jack MacLaren of the Pittsburgh Steelers, latching on to seven passes for the second week in a row, took over first place in pass receiving with 31 completions to displace Clyde Conner of San Francisco, the leader for four weeks. Conner had 30 catches. Ray Berry of Baltimore, who caught 12 for 224 yards last week, jumped into third place with a total of 26.

Berry's total yardage of 483 was high, and Jim Mutscheller of Baltimore had the most touchdown receptions with seven.

George Blanda of the Bears continued to lead in scoring with 48 points. Mutscheller shared second place with Matson, who wasn't in the first 10 one week ago. Each has 42 points.

Don Chandler of the Giants ousted Norm Van Brocklin of the Rams as punting leader with a 45.2-yard average, while Joe Scudder of the Redskins remained as leader in punt returns. Don McEllenry of Green Bay retained first place in kickoff returns and Jack Butler of the Steelers held on in first place in pass interceptions with eight.

Big Ten Faculty Demands Realistic Football Views

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UP) — The time has come for Big Ten colleges to scrap their long-held policies on amateurism and admit that amateurism can no longer work in college athletics, a committee of Ohio State University faculty members says.

Western Conference schools, the committee said Tuesday night, must take a "hard and realistic look at this situation and be prepared to accept some realities of the modern age."

The seven-man committee issued a 38-page report, some 17 months in preparation, to the group's parent body, the 78-member faculty council. The council in turn makes recommendations to the university administration.

In its report, the committee said the concept of amateurism has changed because of social and economic developments. Moreover, the report said, "skill in any form is marketable in our society."

As a result of those two circumstances, the committee report

Newman 3rd Best Passer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bobby Newman, Washington State College's passing ace, dropped to third in the nation's collegiate individual total offense race after last Saturday's football games.

Newman, who had been the nation's leader, gained the top spot in passing offense, however, with 75 completions in 140 attempts for a .536 average. He has thrown for 971 yards and nine touchdowns.

In total offense, Newman has gained 1,045 yards in 202 plays in eight games. The total offense leader, Tom Greene of Holy Cross, has gained 1,150 yards in 162 plays in seven games.

Bob Stransky of Colorado is the nation's rushing leader with 861 yards gained in 146 tries at the line.

In Pacific Coast Conference statistics, Newman leads in total offense and passing offense.

The PCC rushing leader is Chuck Shea of Stanford, who has gained 641 yards in 127 carries. Nub Beamer of Oregon State is second with 589 yards and Oregon's Jim Shanley is third with 581 yards.

Don Ellingsen of Washington State is the leading pass catcher, with 34 receptions, good for 440 yards.

Beamer, Shanley, Jack Fanning of WSC and Don Long of UCLA share the scoring lead with 42 points apiece.

RUTGERS COACH ILL

PRINCETON, N.J. (UP) — End Coach Matthew Bolter will serve as acting head football coach for Rutgers University Saturday against William and Mary College, while head coach John Stegman is in Princeton Hospital for observation for symptoms of pneumonia.

The committee recommended that the director of athletics devise a "workable plan" for financial aid to athletes and either minimize or abolish the job program for athletes.

WSC Passing Attack Rated Third In Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Statistics released by the NCAA Service Bureau showed Wednesday that the Washington State College Cougars have the third best passing attack in collegiate football.

The Cougars have gained 1,339 yards via the airlines in eight games for a per-game average of 167.4 yards. WSC passers have completed 103 of 193 aeriels.

WSC's Bobby Newman is the nation's top passer, with 971 yards gained on 75 completions in 140 tries.

Utah is the top passing squad. The Utes have gained 1,614 yards in eight games for a 201.8 yards per game average. They have completed 110 of 179 aeriels.
