

Orpheum, Season 1916-17.

JOSIE O'MEERS

The Dainty Wire Artist.

ED BROTHERHOOD, cast as "Mr. Wingate," a lawyer, in the Kiwanis Club show Thursday, Friday and Saturday, is assistant manager of Klamath County Chamber of Commerce.

He came here via Hawaii and Portland — but he originally came from New York. And he also stems from three generations of show people.

He is pictured above in his "Lo and Behold!" role as a lawyer—reading the last will and testament of eccentric author, Milo Alcott — a document that sets the comedy off to three acts of witty dialogue and surprise situations.

The Orpheum Theater lobby bill board at the left holds five pictures of Ed Brotherhood's mother. She and her two sisters were the first women wire artists to come to this country from Europe. They were billed as the O'Meers Sisters — and later his mother was on the Orpheum Circuit in solo act as Josie O'Meers.

Ed's father played opposite Pearl White in the flickers — "Perils of Pauline," etc. So although a professional career on the stage for Brotherhood got sidetracked somehow—he's happy to be an amateur in the local production.

After Saturday Lawyer Wingate will return to home, his wife, Harriette, and 12-year-old daughter, Gail as plain Ed Brotherhood.

FIRST NIGHT OF "LO AND BEHOLD!" 8 P.M. TOMORROW AT MILLS SCHOOL

Ed Brotherhood, assistant manager of the Klamath County Chamber of Commerce, will play the role of "Mr. Wingate," a lawyer, in the Klamath Falls Kiwanis Club production of John Patrick's scintillating three-act comedy, "Lo And Behold!" in Mills School Auditorium November 14-15-16.

All members of the cast, the director, and behind-the-scenes workers are local citizens who have contributed many hours in pre-performance preparation—and will have added many more before the curtain falls on the final show Saturday night.

Tickets are 90 cents and are available through any local Kiwanis member. All proceeds will go toward the further development of Kiwanis new nine acre "Kit Carson" Recreation Park area. A sizable number of local business firms, the city, the state and other clubs are already interested participants in the project—and the purchase of a ticket to the show is a pleasant way for you to help as an individual.

Klamath Kiwanians who were key figures instrumental in the initial planning of the Kit Carson park project are Don Sloan, local realtor, past Kiwanis Club park director, who served as chairman for two years before his resignation last June; Ed Niles, manager of McCollum Lumber Company, who succeeded Sloan as park director; Bob Bonney, city of Klamath Falls recreational director; and John Howard, local architect. The goal of Kiwanis Club and others associated with the development plan is "a place for children to play."

When the work is completed and the area is deeded to the city—it will "indeed" be a precious playground—at the rate money, materials and labor are being channeled into the acreage it will be worth about $100,000.

LANGELL VALLEY — One hundred friends from Dairy, Klamath Falls, Malin, Bonanza and Langell Valley went to the home of just-weds Mr. and Mrs. Bob Colwell November 5, at 8 p.m. to give them a surprise charivari.

The no-host party was arranged under the direction of Mrs. Lloyd Gift.

She painted a dried juniper branch with silver and each member of the group attached dollars to the "tree," for the Colwell's to buy a gift for their home. Mrs. Martin Gift was in charge of the tree and guest book.

Mrs. Charles Steber served the cider, Mrs. Lester Leavitt, coffee, and Mrs. Lloyd Gift, doughnuts and cookies.

A social evening followed the charivari.
