Budget Heads Race Deadline To Cut Government Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government budget makers are racing a Dec. 15 deadline trying to implement President Eisenhower's call for a rollback in nonessential spending so that more money may be poured into the search for new weapons.

Thus far, an administration official said today, there has been no solid agreement on just where the government can cut its multi-billion-dollar costs.

Eisenhower said in Oklahoma City Wednesday night: "Some programs, while desirable, are not absolutely essential. . . . Savings of the kind we need can come about only through cutting out or deferring entire categories of activities."

Grange Picks New Officers

SUMMER LAKE — Election of officers attracted a record turnout meeting Saturday night. Bill Kimsey was elected master, succeeding Jud Harris who has held the office for the past two years.

Other officers are Dean Cannon, steward; Mr. and Mrs. George Carlson, assistant stewards; Glenn Harvey, gatekeeper; Hattie Fuller, chaplain; Boyd Claggett, overseer; Annabel Kimsey, lecturer; Charlotte Harris, secretary; Rosalie Claggett, treasurer; and Maybelle Foster, musician. Serving on the executive committee are Guy Foster, Jud Harris and Les Elder. The date for installation is tentative as yet.

Where can the cuts or deferrals be made? It's a complex question, calling for many answers. And the answers must be forthcoming soon. For purely technical reasons, the budget for fiscal 1959 — which begins next July 1 — must be in the hands of the printers by Dec. 15 so it can be sent to Congress early in January.

The administration frankly hopes to revise the country's agricultural programs to save some 500 to 600 million dollars. It hopes Congress will pass a postal rate increase that will save the government about that much more.

Beyond that, administration officials see little hope of any really substantial savings—unless the Defense Department itself can come up with a shift of emphasis within the military establishment.

"Maybe it's time to ask ourselves," one official said, "if we really need all those bows and arrows now that we have gunpowder. As we move forward in the field of rocketry and nuclear weapons, do we really need — just for instance — the same amount of field artillery we have considered essential before?"

There has been speculation that military spending may go up about a billion dollars next year, to a total of 39 billions.

The Defense Department's top finance man, Asst. Secretary Wilfred J. McNeil, gave what he said was a guess that the increase "would not be great, percentage-wise." A billion-dollar boost would be an increase of less than 3 percent of the present figure.

McNeil told the National Security Industrial Assn., "I don't see any signs that the basic military policy of the last few years is going to change."

Whatever other cuts are made are not expected to affect the foreign aid program, which ran to 3 1/2 billion dollars this year. The administration feels that foreign aid is an integral part of the defense program.

For the next four weeks, the budget makers will be taking a new and harder look at all areas of federal spending. They hope to chop some off the money being spent on the country's natural resources, and some from the nation's housing, labor and welfare programs.

The question of federal grants to states is under close scrutiny. The administration official said programs which may be sharply slashed or eliminated include federal grants for vocational education, cash assistance to the school lunch program, construction grants for the treatment of polluted water, disaster relief and public assistance grants.

Lodge Master To Be Installed

DUNSMUIR — Nicanor Manalig Jr. will be installed as worshipful master of Dunsmuir Lodge No. 297, AF&AM at ceremonies at the Dunsmuir Masonic Temple on the evening of November 18.

Other officers to be installed are Robert C. Harris, senior warden; Regis F. Jones, junior warden; Chester O. Porter, treasurer; and Alfred A. Smith, secretary.

This 69th installation will begin at 8 o'clock with Percy Lindt, past master of McCloud Lodge No. 130 as master of ceremonies and Ralph Holden, past master of Sisson Lodge No. 310 and inspector of the 106th Masonic district, as installing officer. Members of Masonic orders, Eastern Star, Rainbow Girls and DeMolay and their guests are invited.

British railways have rubber buffers and springs to absorb shock and vibration when they transport fragile cargoes of glass. This precaution reduces breakage.

Tule Student Wins Award

Ronald A. Stephens, son of Bonnie S. Stephens, Tulelake, has been awarded a $500 scholarship grant from the American National Red Cross headquarters in Washington, D.C.

Stephens is in his junior year at Oregon State College, as a physical education major and applied for the scholarship in order to complete his schooling. He is specializing in aquatics, health and social sciences and served as manager of the Malin swimming pool this past year, directing the Red Cross swimming program there.

Prior to that he worked for two summers at the Malin pool as a lifeguard and volunteers time in the swimming program at Oregon State College.

He attended school at Malin when his family lived there, and entered Oregon State and completed one year of schooling before entering military service. He fulfilled his military requirements in the Medical Records Department of the Army at Fort Knox, attending night school at the University of Louisville, then returned to Oregon State to continue work toward his degree.

The National Red Cross makes five scholarships annually available to students in their third or fourth year of college who demonstrate an interest in becoming career Red Cross workers and show promise in the fields in which the organization maintains active programs. Maximum amount of the scholarships is $500. Stephens was nominated for the scholarship by the Klamath Basin Chapter and recommended by Mrs. May Myers, water safety chairman of the local chapter.

Lad Admits Setting Fires

CHICAGO (AP) — A 10-year-old boy, who told police he wants to be a fireman when he grows up, has admitted, police said, setting 40 to 50 fires in the last 18 months.

Police estimated that damage caused by the fires amounted to at least $250,000. They said the boy pointed out the locations of 15 of the blazes, including the site of a fire Dec. 27, 1956, in which Mrs. Anna Kessie, 70, perished in her home.

Police said the fires were on the Northwest Side, in the general neighborhood of the boy's home. He was picked up yesterday after two other boys, 12 and 13, admitted to police they had aided him in setting several fires.

All three boys were turned over to juvenile authorities for further investigation.
