Survey Shows, Mile For Mile, Men Crumple More Fenders

By JEANNE SMITH
Dodge Safety Consultant

That women have fewer accidents than men is a fact long known and accepted—even by male drivers!

However, most men believe that this is only because women drive fewer miles. But now, from a man who knows his drivers, comes proof that this is not the only reason.

Here are the facts! Dr. A. R. Lauer, head of the Iowa State College driver training laboratory says: "Most men prefer to believe that women are involved in fewer accidents because they don't drive as frequently. But we have made comparisons on a mileage basis which show that, mile for mile, men drivers have two and one-half times more traffic accidents than women."

Dr. Lauer, who has been delving into highway accidents and ways to reduce them for 25 years, also believes that women are better equipped emotionally for the task of teaching teenagers to drive.

In both field and laboratory tests, also reports Dr. Lauer, women show more of the patience and understanding necessary to teach young drivers the safe rules of the road.

"There is definitely an advantage in favor of the quiet, non-aggressive approach when it comes to traffic driving," he says.

"Easy does it" is one of the trademarks of the good driver and the "Casper Milquetoast" or introvert has never been pictured having his car towed in for repairs.

The extrovert or "show off" type, who wants to attract attention, is a far greater highway menace, Dr. Lauer believes. As a class, younger male drivers have a greater percentage of "show offs," and a proportionately higher accident rate, he says.

A two-year study by Dr. Lauer of driver fatalities per 100 million miles shows that male drivers between 15 and 19 and from ages 25 to 29 have the highest rate. Women boast a consistently better record throughout the age ranges with the exception of ages 25 to 29 where there is only a slight difference and from ages 35 to 39 where they have a slightly poorer record than men.

The over-all driving record of women is two and a half times better than that of men, Dr. Lauer stresses—a talking point which all of us gals should remember!

Unmade beds all over the house disturb a neat housewife's composure. But on laundering day, this is sometimes necessary when mattress pads are being washed and dried. Now all-nylon pads come along to soothe the housewife. They are said to air-dry in three hours.

Most diets lack enough milk or milk products. This energy food can be taken many ways. To get extra mineral nourishment, though, in a straight glass of milk experts say to mix a thick double milk drink. Do this by adding four tablespoons of dry milk to a cup of fluid milk. This steps up the milk value of your diet.

Paris shows what few of us will be wearing: trench coats made of mink. But it's an interesting idea for less expensive furs, too.

Local Couple Returns From Bamberg, Germany

Recently returned to Klamath Falls are Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Badorek, who are now settled in their civilian quarters, 1930 Erie, after a period of U.S. Army life in Bamberg, Germany.

Walt, a 1935 graduate of University of Oregon, (where his wife was also a student) was in ROTC on the Eugene campus, and entered the Army as a 2nd Lieutenant. He was discharged November 1, as a 1st Lieutenant. In Germany, he was a platoon leader in the 85th Infantry and was in Headquarters S-3. He coached the 85th track team and was voted all-around athlete by both German and American official sports observers in that area.

The Badoreks sailed from Germany on October 5 aboard an Army ship with about 3,000 other troop and Army personnel passengers. The trip was unexpectedly pleasant according to Walt and Jean Badorek. The food was especially good, the crew excellent, and social life on the boat was comparable to that offered on trans-ocean liners. Jean particularly enjoyed singing with the ship dance orchestra.

Recalling her role as an Army wife in Germany, she said that their quarters at Bamberg were modern, brand new and far superior to what she had pictured. She thoroughly enjoyed her year there—Lieut. Badorek was stationed in Germany for one-and-one-half years.

Jean Badorek, known here as a talented young pianist and singer, continued in her field of music and taught piano to beginner and advanced pupils. Her students included children from U.S. Army families and several Army wives. She was vocal soloist on various occasions at the base chapel, and sang with the dance band at the officers' club.

She said that she found shopping at Bamberg stores and markets off the base much simpler after a capsule course in German. Since his return, Walt has been associated with his father, William Badorek, in the family operation of South 54th Street Auto Wrecking Company. Jean is the daughter of Mrs. F. Cecil Adams, 1968 DelMore.

Secretary of State Hatfield To Wed Portland Girl in 1958

Chaperoning a University function was the first date four years ago for Antoinette Kuzmanich (Coo's man'ich—rhymes with rich) and Secretary of State Mark Hatfield last week end. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Kuzmanich, Portland, who made the formal announcement Nov. 9.

The couple was seen together frequently on legislative occasions in the 1953 session. In 1954, Miss Kuzmanich was a member of a Student-International Travel Association group of 15 which toured eleven European countries under the direction of the secretary, then a state representative. Miss Kuzmanich then took two years of graduate study at Stanford University.

A vivacious personality, Miss Kuzmanich has flashing dark eyes, black hair, wears a trim dress size, enjoys cooking, and is an enthusiastic sports fan dating back to the days her uncle, John Leovich, was a football and baseball star for the Oregon State College Beavers and later played professionally.

During her student days at the University of Oregon and as a member of the faculty at Grant High School in Portland and Portland State College she has attended football and basketball games whenever possible.

She loves the outdoors, yet is at complete ease at the most fashionable tea. Both can look forward to a heavy schedule of travel, banquets and social occasions. The secretary is in great demand as a speaker before a wide variety of organizations.

Where the couple will live after their summer wedding hasn't been determined but they have done some house-looking in Salem, where he is required by the constitution to reside. Their tastes are remarkably similar and they hope to find "an older house with lots of room which we can fix up." They both treasure antique furnishings.

The couple has chosen turquoise blue, Florentine Wedgewood china pattern. The ring Miss Kuzmanich wears is plain diamond, one carat, high tiffany, six prong with a gold band.

She will complete the school year as counselor for women at Lakeview Clipper Club.

Tuesday evening, November 5, marked the annual Thanksgiving dinner for the Clipper Club at the Presbyterian Christian Education Building in Lakeview. Miniature turkeys, pumpkins, pine cones and candles were arranged with fall flowers for the table decorations by Ed and Evelyn Bratton and Ed and Pauline Lukl. Chefs for the evening were Walter and Jean Leemann, Walter and Ben Pilgrim, and Bob and Joan Bennett.

Welcomed as new members were Jay and June Sorseth and Larry and Marlene Turner.

Manners MAKE FRIENDS

If the understanding is that a lunch or dinner is to be Dutch treat, don't try to grab for the check. That just complicates what should be an uncomplicated arrangement. If you are with persons who are accustomed to going Dutch treat, your grab for the check may seem like showing off.

If you are invited to a party running from six until eight o'clock, don't wait until a few minutes before eight to arrive. The hostess wouldn't have set out the party if that was when she wanted it to begin.
