

Soviet Ambassador Leaves U.S. After Five Year Stay

By WARREN ROGERS JR. WASHINGTON (AP)—Georgi Nikolaevich Zarubin, an engineer-turned-diplomat who looks like an ex-heavyweight fighter, leaves Washington today after five years and four months as the Soviet ambassador.

The burly, bearded Zarubin leaves behind an auspicious portent of possibly eased East-West relations. This is the sweeping set of agreements in principle he signed at the State Department to swap about 500 Soviet and American experts in ballet, wrestling, science, education and virtually every field of human endeavor.

Of this agreement, reached in three months of painstaking negotiating, Zarubin said: "I think it is the most important achievement of my five years as ambassador to Washington."

Zarubin will sail for home tomorrow from New York. He is reported in line to become a deputy foreign minister to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. He will be replaced in Washington by Mikhail Menshikov, a trade expert.

He and the wife he married in 1926, Elizaveta Kulkova, are looking forward to a reunion in Moscow with their son Victor. Like his father during the 1920s and 1930s, Victor is an engineer in Moscow.

Zarubin came to Washington with a cloud of suspicion over his head and a reputation as a tough negotiator.

He had been Soviet ambassador to Canada during 1944-48. A Soviet Embassy "spy ring" in Ottawa was exposed by the Royal Mounties in 1945. The investigation cleared Zarubin of all complicity, on the basis of evidence that he knew nothing about the activity and even was barred entrance to certain rooms in the embassy where it was being masterminded. But this did not head off accusations by members of the U.S. Congress and others.

Between Ottawa and Washington, Zarubin served as Soviet ambassador to Great Britain (1946-52). It was there he achieved notice as a strict but friendly negotiator, in unsuccessful talks on Austrian independence and other matters.

Zarubin is 57. He was 17 at the time of the Bolshevik Revolution, so he was educated partly under the czars. He is a high-ranking member of the Soviet party and, while friendly though reserved, he stuck steadfastly to the classic image of the Soviet envoy as he acted with robot precision in carrying out Moscow's dictates.

Reuther Asks Special Agency For Study Of Price Increases

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Walter Reuther urged today that Congress require large corporations to justify their price increases in advance before a special government agency. An independent consumers council would represent the public.

The United Automobile Workers president said that such an agency should not have powers to block the price boosts but should be able to lay all the facts before the public in advance of the effective date for the increases.

Reuther made the proposal at the opening session of a hearing on auto prices before the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee headed by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.).

Auto company presidents are to appear later.

The series of hearings is a part of a broad study of administered prices in major industries which the subcommittee began last year. Administered prices are those set by a company, rather than fluctuating on the basis of supply and demand.

Kefauver said in a statement prepared for the hearing that the automobile industry is the nation's "greatest single direct source of jobs and purchasing power."

He said the subcommittee had been disturbed by a "decline in automobile production and employment... accompanied by an increase in automobile prices."

Reuther's views were contained in a 110-page statement, accompanied by 29 tables, which he said he would offer for the record. He planned to testify extemporaneously.

His statement repeated the UAW's frequently stated views that increased labor costs have not been responsible for increased car prices since the end of World War II and that the profits of the automobile corporations have been exorbitant.

One effect of the public review would be to determine impartially what effect union wage demands may have in forcing price increases, Reuther indicated.

He contended that "price increases imposed by the automobile corporations have been upped $5 for every $1 gained in wage increases" in the last 12 years.

Reuther said the independent consumers council would have authority to intervene on behalf of the public before not only the proposed price agency but also other government agencies whose actions affect the public interest.

The price agency plan to proposed, Reuther said, would apply only to a corporation which controls 20 or 25 per cent of the sales in its industry.

In the auto industry, this would mean that General Motors and Ford certainly would be covered and Chrysler, third-ranking producer, probably would be included.

Adult Study Groups Stated

Gene Stivers, senior instructor of psychology and biological sciences at OTI, will conduct a series of meetings for all Klamath County PTA units about organizing adult study groups for parent education. The first meeting will be Tuesday, February 4, at 3 p.m. in the Roosevelt School.

Stivers, who is the Klamath County Council PTA parent education chairman, said he is starting these meetings because he feels a genuine interest in adult education has resulted from his lectures to PTA units on problems concerning our youth, our inability to deal with these problems in the past, and how we might educate ourselves to deal more successfully with these problems in the future.

Stivers has asked each interested PTA unit to elect two representatives to attend these meetings which will be held on the first Tuesday of each month immediately after the Klamath County Council PTA meetings. The duties of the representatives will be to attend the meetings and to make a report on the discussion and conclusions to their individual units.

If the first sessions prove of value, PTA units may eventually learn to conduct their own individual clinics and solve many of the problems concerning youth in their own specific areas.

Nation Pelted By Snow, Rain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Snow and rain again plagued much of the nation today with the Northeast quarter of the country getting a January dousing for the third straight day.

In the vast area from Minnesota and Iowa eastward, there was light snow. At the eastern edge of the hard weather—the Atlantic Coast—rain fell.

The greater Boston area reported flooding as two rivers—the Neponset and the Charles—went out of their banks. Both were expected to rise two feet over flood stage and the Charles three feet over flood stage.

Stivers has asked each interested PTA unit to elect two representatives to attend these meetings which will be held on the first Tuesday of each month immediately after the Klamath County Council PTA meetings. The duties of the representatives will be to attend the meetings and to make a report on the discussion and conclusions to their individual units.

If the first sessions prove of value, PTA units may eventually learn to conduct their own individual clinics and solve many of the problems concerning youth in their own specific areas.

Poll Shows Hatfield Favor

Fred Heard, Klamath County high school 1950 Republican chairman, announced the results of the public opinion poll concerning the GOP gubernatorial primary race in May.

One hundred Republican voters received postal cards asking who they believed would be more effective, Sig Unander or Mark Hatfield. The final tabulation gave Secretary of State Hatfield 37 votes to State Treasurer Unander's 21 votes. State Senator Harry D. Bavin received one write-in ballot.

Also, the Republican believers were asked who they considered the strongest Democrat aspirant, Gov. Robert D. Holmes, ex-State Senator Lew Wallace or Multnomah County Assessor Wiley Smith. Heard states that these results would not be released to anyone other than Unander and Hatfield until after the primary.

Chairman Heard reported that he had received many calls from people who had not reached a definite decision as to their choice; therefore they were not sending their cards back.

The outcome will be forwarded to the Salem office of the secretary of state and state treasurer.
