Candidate List Takes Shape For California Primary Race

By JAMES C. ANDERSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
SACRAMENTO (AP)—Barring last minute switches, the lineup of candidates seeking the top seven political offices in the state is just about complete.

Between now and March 29, the last day to file official declarations of candidacies, there may be some unexpected switches. But as of this moment, this is the way the June 3 primary election ballot will look:

Governor—Republican: William F. Knowland; Democrat—Edmund G. (Pat) Brown.
U.S. Senator—Republican: Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco, Warren K. Atherton, Stockton attorney and former national commander of the American Legion; Democrat—Congressman Clair Engle of Red Bluff, Tehama County.

C of C Lists Meet Action

DUNSMUIR — Dedication of Dunsmuir's new post office as a postal distribution center was assured William Welch, postmaster, at a meeting of the Dunsmuir Chamber of Commerce last week. The date for this event will be set later.

Ed Scribner was named membership chairman at the meeting. Dom Sirlanni was appointed chairman of a committee to locate available property adjacent to the new freeway to advertise Dunsmuir. Retention of the present sign at the southern approach to Dunsmuir was authorized.

Arrangements were made to allow Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts to use available store windows for the celebration of Scout Month during February.

Inquiry into the roadside rest program was delegated to Dom Sirlanni. Siskiyou County supervisors recommended roadside rests adjacent to Highway 99 free way to the State Legislature three years ago, Sirlanni said, and there is no indication of action yet.

Calm Returns To Prison

DEER LODGE, Mont. (AP)—Calm returned to the Montana State Prison today, but officials took disciplinary action to insure rebellious convicts will return to a normal routine.

"They're being denied all privileges until they're ready to go back to work," Warden Fay O. Burrell said. The indications are the 275 inmates who took part in a 30-hour demonstration were resolved to do that, he said.

Although Burrell denied he knew a reason for the rebellion that developed out of a sitdown strike, a Montana legislator said he learned of dissatisfaction at the prison last week.

Rep. Lloyd E. Barnard (D-Valley), chairman of the Montana Legislative Council's Prison subcommittee, said the convicts told his group last Wednesday that they were unhappy with working conditions. There had been a sit-down strike the day before, Barnard said.

The investigator said inmates had complained of being locked in prison workshops during a working day and that prison officials were themselves at odds. He did not elaborate.

Burrell's administration was criticized by Atty. Gen. Forrest H. Anderson, a Democratic member of the Prison Commission. Burrell is a Republican appointee.

The attorney general charged Burrell "is no more capable of managing the prison now than he was before the riot" last July 30. Burrell said the latest outbreak could be a result of "soft methods" used by Anderson in bringing the riot to an end six months ago.

The convicts were given food in their cells yesterday afternoon, after breakfast Monday. There was no violence during the strike.

AL Concert Plans Listed

DUNSMUIR—The American Legion annual oratorical contest for District 2 will be held in the Dunsmuir High School auditorium at 10:30 a.m. on Friday, February 14. Harry French, district oratorical contest chairman, has announced.

The Constitution of the United States is the traditional speech topic, but high school students participating are given a wide choice of approach. French said. Prizes start at district level and progress to a $4,000 college scholarship for the top speaker in the national finals, he stated.

George Stetter of Redding, district commander, will be present at the contest when high school students chosen as contestants will give both prepared and extemporaneous speeches.

A luncheon given by Epps unit for contestants, judges and sponsors will follow the contest.

Forest Campers Total Revealed
McCLOUD—Campers in the McCLOUD district of the Shasta Trinity national forests camped 1,026 times in the United States Forest Service camps with each camp being occupied for an average of five days during 1957. An estimated 15,000 hunters and fishermen spent 33,000 days in the public camps, and approximately 1,000 campfire permits were issued, according to the McCLOUD ranger district.

Comparison of 1956 use of the camps with 1957 shows less people on vacation and double the number of picnic parties in the area. These figures are for the forest service camps only, and do not include those using private property, officials stated.

TO LEAVE HOSPITAL
Arthur Gerlach, district fishery agent for the game commission in Klamath Falls, is expected to be released this week from Providence Hospital in Portland. He has been there for treatment of injuries received December 10 when the vehicle in which he was riding was sideswiped by a truck on icy pavements.

Report On Red Military Situation Given By Scribe

Editors Note — Does Russia struggle among its army, navy and air force? Who is Eisenhower's opposite number as military chief? What is the chain of command? United Press put those questions to its chief reporter there.

By HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press Staff Correspondent
MOSCOW (UP)—The intense rivalries between the armed forces characteristic of America are virtually non-existent in Russia.

There are two main reasons: 1. There is a truly unified military command. 2. Final absolute power rests in the Communist party.

From the very foundation of the Red Army in 1918, the Communist party has controlled and directed the armed services and has not permitted emergence of a professional soldier class which might claim independent political power.

It was true under Lenin and it is true under Khrushchev. Until Marshal Georgi Zhukov became defense minister, top command of the unified armed services had been held by a soldier whose background actually was heavier in party and government service. And the ease with which Zhukov was removed on charges he had challenged the party's absolute control underlines that Russia's leaders can and intend to keep it that way.

The Soviet Union lacks a constitution commander-in-chief such as the American president. It was only during World War II when Stalin assumed the title, "supreme commander-in-chief," that authority was vested in one man.

Now the command is collective—the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) of the USSR. And due to the parallel state and party structures with ultimate authority in the party, it is the Central Committee of the Communist party which has decisive control of the military.

Nikita Khrushchev holds no formal military post whatsoever. But as party chief responsible for the conduct of all Soviet affairs, he naturally exercises considerable authority in military affairs.

The top man in the military establishment now is Marshal Rodion Malinovsky who replaced Zhukov as defense minister. Malinovsky is responsible to Premier Bulganin who, in turn, is responsible to the Supreme Soviet—and the Communist party.

Much of Russia's missile research was done by the "Academy of Artillery Sciences" as well as the air force and naval scientific research institutes.

Names of the top research directors have not been made public. (If Russia does have one supreme missile chief, Shapiro does not know or could not file the fact.)

The military budget is submitted by the defense minister to the equivalent of the cabinet which in turn submits it to the Supreme Soviet. But budgets are first approved by the party.

Malinovsky runs the defense establishment from a rebuilt six-story palace which was formerly a czarist military academy. Located five minutes' walk from the Kremlin, the Bolsheviks renovated and enlarged it but it is still small compared to the Pentagon.

Diplomatic Lag Reported
WASHINGTON (AP)—New York food broker Paul W. Sayres said today U.S. diplomatic activity in India "compares most unfavorably with that of the Soviets."

And, he added, U.S.-Indian relations—in diplomatic, economic and social areas—"have deteriorated dangerously."

Sayres, who said he went to India at his own expense to investigate food shortages and problems, quoted an unidentified high official of the U.S. Embassy in India as telling him: "In your talks with the Indian officials, you must always remember that you treat them like 12-year-old children."

Local Juvenile Office Reports 1,033 Cases Handled In 1957

Juvenile officer Francis Mathews today released statistics regarding his office during the past year. He said that a total of 1,033 cases were handled by the juvenile department of which 619 were delinquency and dependency cases. The remaining 414 were traffic violators.

Mathews explained that the dependency cases are those for which the cause or blame is laid directly to the home and not the juvenile, as differentiated from a delinquency case. He said that these 1,033 cases, which involved 725 juveniles, reflect a drop of 108 cases as compared to 1956.

Mathews said the 619 delinquency cases include 20 auto thefts, 26 for burglary or illegal entry, 98 in other types of theft, which he said included shoplifting, hubcap theft and gas theft.

He added there were 23 juveniles involved in truancy, 85 run away from home and were either reported here or apprehended here. Eighteen juveniles were termed ungovernable, 21 sex offenders, five who inflicted personal injury, 51 for carelessness or mischief and 165 involved in other forms of delinquent behavior.

On the dependency side of the ledger, Mathews said that 77 juveniles were victims of lack of adequate care or support, 16 received abusive or cruel treatment, five were in conditions injurious to morals and eight were involved in special proceedings. He said these were mental or adoption proceedings.

There were seven boys and three girls committed to public institutions for delinquent children and one to the Oregon State Hospital and three to private institutions.

In 1957, according to Mathews figures, there were 191 children held in the juvenile home for a total of 3,150 child care days. During that time, 12,913 meals were served, he said.

Party Slated By Lodges
YREKA—Knights of Pythias and Aurora Temple No. 53, Pythian Sisters, will stage a party in honor of C. L. Churchill of Montague, who has been a member of the Knights for 50 years.

Plans for the party were made during the meeting of the Pythian Sisters held recently which was presided over by Helena Schlueter, most excellent chief. The party will take place on January 29, and will feature a polka dinner and program. Bill Swigart of Montague is general chairman for the affair, with Mrs. Doris Robinson in charge of the entertainment.

During the business session two new officers were elected and installed. Mrs. Jeanne was chosen as secretary, and Mrs. Irene Willenbrink was elected as a three year trustee. The new officers were installed by Mrs. Marie Johnson, installing officer of the organization.

The evening's entertainment was the showing of slides of Hawaii taken by Mrs. Mae Howard and Mrs. Helena Schlueter, both of whom had made trips there last year. In keeping with the program theme, "A Knight in Hawaii," the tables in the dining room, where refreshments were served, were decorated with leis, monkey trees and other decor of the tropics. The refreshment committee members were garbed in grass skirts and Hawaiian hats. Serving were Mrs. Ruth Armstrong, Mrs. Ruth Barnett, Mrs. Alta Conroy and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Schlueter.

Square Dancers Hold Program
YREKA — Approximately 100 square dancers participated in the alumni dance, recently held at the Hawkinsville Hall, by the Circle-N-Square Dance Club, which was given in honor of former members of the club.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Williamson of Marysville were guests. An intermediate class in square dancing was started on Friday evening, January 24, with Chick Harrison as instructor. An invitation to attend the new class was extended to present members of the beginner's class, and also to any other persons wishing a brush-up course.

Future plans of the group are for a dance to be held on February 1, with Doug Decker of Medford as guest caller. Also planned was a Valentine Day dance and potluck dinner to be held on February 15 with Art Schuck as caller.

Moose Aid Needy Family
CHICAGO (AP)—Life began anew today for a widowed mother and her nine children. They moved into Mooseheart, a community 37 miles west of Chicago operated by the Loyal Order of Moose.

Mrs. Opal Moon, 37, and her children will remain at the Child City until each child has graduated from high school. The youngest is 18 months old, the eldest 16 years. A Moose spokesman said the organization will spend more than $100,000 caring for the family by the time the youngest child leaves high school.

Mrs. Moon, a resident of Seattle, arrived with her offspring yesterday. She was widowed July 9, 1957, when her husband Benjamin died of heart seizure at Sitka, Alaska, where he had gone to establish himself in business. He left no insurance or estate.

The father was a member of the Moose.
