

Senator Urges Budget Hike To Keep Ahead Of Russians

CHICAGO (AP) — A keynote of warning that Russia may win a commanding military lead over the United States within 10 years opened a strategy conference of top business, government and military specialists Monday.

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) urged a five-point drive, including a defense budget increase of "between four and five billion dollars" to keep the U.S. ahead of a Soviet military and economic upsurge.

In a prepared address at the opening session of the Fourth National Military-Industrial Conference — a three-day meeting of 65 leaders in the armed forces, commerce and industry, science and engineering, education, labor and government — he said:

"If events proceed on their present course we will become a second class military and political power, while the Soviets become the dominant nation of the world."

"A projection of the present trends shows our defense expenditures, relative to those of the Soviet Union, becoming smaller and smaller each year."

Jackson is a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

He said the 1959 budget now before Congress, called "the first present age budget," provides an increase of only 900 million dollars since the Sputnik launching and calls for military procurement curtailment offsetting increased expenditure for the missile program.

Jackson's program for the U.S. race with Russia had these other proposals:

"We should make it a goal of national policy to increase substantially the rate of our industrial growth and technological development."

"We should initiate a vast new domestic program to educate more and better trained talent to fill the mounting number of critical jobs."

"We should promptly establish a national new projects laboratory under civilian direction and responsible to the office of the President."

Jackson said the 1959 budget, taking into account salary and price increases "actually means a reduction both in armed strength and procurement."

Gasoline Men Seek Truce

SACRAMENTO (UP) — Gasoline price wars are forcing the filling station business to the brink of "economic ruin," according to service station operators who have asked Gov. Goodwin J. Knight to put a stop to price-cutting.

The California Federation of Service Stations voted Sunday to ask Knight to intervene because the industry was "helpless" to stop the "cancerous" growth of the wars.

In a telegram to Knight signed by Federation President Philip Maloney, Oxnard, the organization said the gasoline market was "depressed" throughout the state.

"We feel your office can take the necessary action to stabilize the gasoline market," the wire read.

In the highly competitive East Bay area of Northern California, regular gasoline prices have dropped below 20 cents a gallon. Prices are almost as low in several other sections of the state.

The federation represents all dealer associations in the state and a total of 23,000 individual stations.

The filling station men also voted to support a bill now before Congress which would curb price wars.

Her manager said she undoubtedly will miss all performances.

CIGAR

CLEVELAND (AP) — While three thugs slugged and robbed a drugstore operator of $300, a fourth member of the gang sold a cigar to an unexpected customer.

Edward Chakoff, 36, owner of the Purity Drugstore, told police he was held on the floor behind a counter while the fourth thug sold a cigar to a customer, told him the cash register was broken and asked him to return later and pay the 15 cents.

The eighth annual meeting of the Klamath Soil Conservation District will be held Thursday evening in the Midland Grange Hall beginning at 8 p.m.
