

Nominations For Filmland's Top Movie Awards Listed

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD — Academy Award nominations this year have a strong British flavor, and several Oscars may be their cup of tea.

Nominees for top awards include Alec Guinness for "The Bridge on the River Kwai"; Charles Laughton, "Witness for the Prosecution"; Deborah Kerr, "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison"; and Elizabeth Taylor, "Raintree County."

In addition, Laughton's wife Elsa Lanchester was among nominees yesterday for best supporting actress for her work in "Witness." Director David Lean was tabbed for "Kwai."

"Sayonara," a movie about a U.S. major's love for a Japanese girl, won the most nominations—10—in results announced by George Seaton, president of the Motion Picture Academy.

"Peyton Place" with nine nominations and "The Bridge on the River Kwai" with eight were next. The other two pictures to place in the movies' chosen five were "12 Angry Men" and "Witness for the Prosecution."

Marlon Brando, perennial contestant and previous winner, was nominated for "Sayonara." The fact that Brando has won before gave the edge to Britain's Guinness for best performance by an actor. Guinness played the resolute British army commander in "Kwai."

The other male star nominees are Anthony Franciosa for "A Hatful of Rain" and Anthony Quinn for "Wild Is the Wind." Lana Turner, long a sex symbol in the movies, was nominated for "Peyton Place," wherein she played the mother of a teen-age daughter for the first time.

The other two feminine nominees were Joanne Woodward for "The Three Faces of Eve" and Anna Magnani for "Wild Is the Wind."

The televised Oscar award ceremonies will be March 26.

Two Teachers To Attend Meet

Klamath Falls instructors Charles B. McLean and Eva Burkhalter will be among 400 Oregon and Washington instructors attending a three-day teaching conference in Portland from February 19-22.

It is one of a series of regional meetings sponsored by the national and state education associations, and the theme will be "Focus on Good Teaching of All Children."

Items to be discussed include conducting teacher-student conferences, discipline, guidance, helping the gifted child at the secondary level, helping the slow learner, meeting the limitations of time, and evaluating and reporting pupil progress.

Special School Established After Integration Order

MORGANFIELD, Ky. (AP)—Push integration of public schools in this section and the Grove Center Academy will flourish, predicts Wright Waller Jr., chairman of the academy school board.

Grove Center Academy was established last September by parents who rebelled against sending their children to the newly integrated Sturgis Consolidated School.

"We'll either stop integration or we'll have more here (at Grove Center) than we can accommodate," Waller said.

Youth Study Need Stressed

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—America's schools must find a way to work with the "hard to reach" children who form the hard core of juvenile delinquency, a leading educator said today.

Dr. Robert J. Havighurst, professor of education at the University of Chicago, said this group includes 5 to 10 per cent of the nation's children in the 14 to 16 age bracket.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the annual convention of secondary high school principals, Havighurst said, "Practically every one of them is the product of a poor family environment. . . Their families have failed them. The school has failed them, and society has failed them."

The most important attack on the problem," he said, "should consist of efforts to improve family life. But this is most difficult task, since it involves improving the same kind of people as the boys and girls we are now talking about. Somehow the vicious circle must be broken. . ."

"Somehow the schools must find the way to work with slow-learning children so that they get as much as possible out of school, and so that they get an experience of accomplishment and reward for constructive work. Otherwise the school has no business keeping such children."

Work with such children should probably begin in the first or second grade, Havighurst said, with teachers especially interested in working with slow children.

One worthwhile idea, he said, was the ungraded primary room, where children aged 6 to 8 may remain in the room for as long as three or four years and then pass on to a regular third or fourth grade when they have the necessary skills.

"Thus," Havighurst told the principals, "slow children are not punished by obvious failure, nor are they promoted to classes where work is beyond their comprehension."

Even so, he said, there are bound to be some pupils reaching eighth or ninth grade with only fourth or fifth grade reading skills. The junior high schools must be prepared with a program for slow learners, geared to their ability level and giving them a reasonable opportunity for growth.

Waller, 34, who operates a farm implement firm, serves in the dual capacity of president of the Union County Citizens Council and chairman of the academy school board.

Waller said some 300 Negro students attending Dunbar High here have little enthusiasm for changing to all-white schools.

Union County has about 15,000 residents, roughly 10 per cent of them Negroes.

Only Sturgis, with 1,033 students has thus far been racially integrated in the county.

It is anticipated that prointegrationists will push for desegregation in Morganfield next fall.

The academy, operated by Principal Paul A. Duet and five teachers, has classes in mathematics, English, history, civics and general science. No languages are required but Duet teaches an elective course in German.

The school will come before the State Board of Education next June for consideration for accreditation.

Czech Reds Mark Event

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Czechoslovakia's Communist rulers today began a weeklong celebration of the 10th anniversary of the Moscow-directed coup that brought them to power.

The climax is scheduled Sunday when the Reds will parade their military might in Prague and hear a speech by President Antonin Novotny, who is also boss of the Communist party.

This is an anniversary which most Czechoslovaks would doubtless like to forget. Rude Pravo, the official newspaper of the Czechoslovak Communist party, complained that the Communist-controlled Czech press is devoting too little space to "the results of February 1948, while the bourgeois press of the West is devoting thousands of pages to what they call the Communist seizure of power in Czechoslovakia."
