

Fish, Game Expert Claims Penguin Is Dumb, Dirty

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter

WILKES STATION, Antarctica (AP)—At least one expert doesn't think the penguin is the cutest, most lovable bird in the antarctic.

The penguin is dumb, primitive, noisy and at times unspeakably dirty, says Carl Eklund of the U.S. Fish and Wild Life Service station at Atlanta, Ga., who has just completed a term as leader of the Wilkes International Geophysical Year station.

For Eklund, the real glamor bird of the frozen continent is the south polar skua, a gull-like creature that lives on the ice, preys on the penguin, and is related to the jaeger, an eagle-like fighting bird.

Old explorers denounced the skua in strong terms, mainly because it preys on the penguins and discharges its droppings from the air at intruders, with great accuracy. Various antarctic pioneers called the bird callous, greedy, vulturous, disgusting and a pirate of the air.

Eklund contends the skua is a noble bird, the "eagle of the antarctic who fears nothing."

"In eating penguin eggs and baby penguins," Eklund continues, "the skua helps to keep the penguin population within bounds. It takes only the weak young penguins, leaving the stronger ones to perpetuate the breed. This is the old law of natural selection and survival of the fittest."

"The skua is without doubt the cleanest bird on the Antarctic Continent. It bathes more than any other. The penguin spends a lot of time in the water but it is fishing, not bathing. The skua has no parasites, no characteristic disease. It does a better job of defending its nest than any other antarctic bird.

"Skua are smart too. To get penguin eggs they work in pairs. One will divert the attention of the penguin while the other dives in and carries off an egg."
"And the skua can soar like no other bird except the albatross."

'Spaceman' Takes Holiday

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Airman Donald G. Farrell, who soared through simulated space conditions for a week, takes off today in a conventional type of aircraft for a visit with his parents in New York.

Farrell is slated for a round of television appearances and will return to Randolph Air Force Base Feb. 28.

Yesterday, the 23-year-old airman underwent additional physical examinations given by scientists seeking answers to the effects of space flight on man. Farrell emerged Sunday from a sealed cabin at the School of Aviation Medicine, where he spent seven days in isolation.

School officials said he apparently suffered no ill effects on his simulated flight to the moon.

Should blood lenders eat before deposits? Yes, but avoid fatty foods, or dairy products. If you are hungry, do eat something before you come to the bloodmobile to lend your blood.

Army Reveals New Missile

CHICAGO (AP)—A new highly mobile surface-to-surface ballistic guided missile with a range of 100 miles and the ability to resist enemy countermeasures has been developed by the Army.

Dr. William H. Martin, civilian director of Army research and development, said the new missile, the Sergeant, is not yet in use, but has been "successfully" tested a number of times.

Martin said the new missile uses a solid fuel, instead of the liquid fuel used by the missile it eventually will replace, the Corporal.

"It has demonstrated a very high degree of reliability," Martin said in an address to the Headline Club, Chicago professional chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalist fraternity.

"It can deliver a nuclear punch deep into enemy lines, and its extremely accurate guidance system is invulnerable to any known enemy countermeasures," he added.

Martin said the 30-foot-long Sergeant has far greater mobility than many other weapons of its type and can be more easily stored and readied for action.

Bicycle Claims Life Of Child

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A bicycle became a death trap for David John Schlachter, 3½.

His mother Mrs. Edward Schlachter found him lying on his back with his head caught between one of the bike's fenders and the frame. He had strangled. The bike belongs to a 6-year-old brother.
