Leopold Seeks New Prison Job To Prepare For Parole

JOLIET, Ill. — Nathan Leopold, one of the nation's most widely known convicts, who was granted a parole yesterday, immediately began planning a change in prison jobs to better prepare him for "a life of service to his fellow man."

Rites Slated For Rancher

Funeral services will be held Saturday, February 22, at 2 p.m. in Lakeview for Loring T. (Boss) Richardson, 60, who died in Pendleton following a long illness. Mr. Richardson ranched for many years in the Bly-Lakeview-Burns areas and was well known as a rodeo rider in the Klamath Basin Roundup. His ranch home at the time of his death was near Burns. He was born in Picard, California, now the town of Dorris, and began his rodeo career at the age of 13. He lived in this area during the 1930s and 1940s.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Thelma Richardson; two daughters, Lorraine and Elaine, all of Burns; his mother, Mrs. Elma Hessig, San Anselmo, California; sisters, Mrs. Agnes Crawford, Chicago, and Mrs. Ethel Chase, Fort Klamath; half brothers, Louis Hessig, Yreka, and Harold Hessig, Hahn, San Anselmo, California; also three grandchildren.

HOUSE FIRE
The County Fire Department extinguished a fire late Thursday afternoon in the home of C. E. Carpenter, Route 3, Box 1056, Wocus. Investigating officers said that the fire started in the living room of the one-story frame house and did considerable damage to the room, floor and walls. OTI's Fire Department was also at the scene, officials said.

Now a clerk in the chief engineer's office at Stateville Prison, Leopold told his attorney that he wanted to be shifted to the prison hospital.

Leopold's parole plea focused on the offer of a $10-a-month job as a laboratory technician in a rural hospital operated by the Church of the Brethren in Castaper, Puerto Rico. Where he'll go will be decided by parole officials. It may take three or four weeks until he actually leaves prison.

"Leopold now wants only this opportunity to serve his fellow man," said his attorney, Elmer Gertz. "He wants to avoid the glare of publicity and continue the rigid routine of hard work to which he dedicated himself in more than 33 years in prison."

Gertz and Ralph Newman, Lincoln scholar and book dealer who is a friend of the Leopold family, were with Leopold before and after he received news of the parole.

Leopold has been in Stateville since Sept. 11, 1924, for his part in the thrill slaying of Bobby Franks, 14, in Chicago. Sent to prison with him for terms of life for murder and 99 years for kidnaping was Richard Loeb, who was slashed to death by another inmate in 1936. Their attorney for the Franks' crime was the late famed attorney, Clarence Darrow, who saved the youths from a death sentence.

The balding, paunchy Leopold, 53, will remain in the prison three or four weeks, officials said, as they check and approve his arrangements for a home and job.

Leopold's parole for five years came on a split vote of the five-man Illinois Parole and Pardon Board. The vote was not announced.

But the board agreed unanimously to parole Roger Touhy, 60, prohibition-era gang leader serving a long term for a kidnaping and a prison break out. Touhy claimed the kidnaping never occurred, a contention that has won considerable support.

Told that the board had given him a definite sentence parole, Leopold said he wanted to remain in section rather than meet with newsmen.

Warden Joseph Ragen honored Leopold's request and distributed a statement Leopold had typed. In it, Leopold expressed gratefulness to his friends, the parole board, the press and "first of all to God."

"I am acutely conscious that more than my own future hangs in the balance. Thousands of prisoners, especially long-term prisoners, look to me to vindicate the rehabilitation theory of imprisonment. I will do my best not to fail in that trust," it concluded.

Gertz said Leopold has a $50,000 trust left him by his father and brother and that income from this trust "will assure that Leopold will never become a public liability."
