

Rocket Blast Hurts Student

PORTLAND (AP)—A Portland State College student suffered serious burns and his parents' home was badly damaged by fire Monday when a rocket with which he was experimenting exploded.

Allister MacPherson, 20, said he purchased the government surplus rocket in Olympia, Wash., and was attempting to remove the propellant when it blew up.

He planned to use the empty rocket for a demonstration in a talk on rocketry before a local organization.

MacPherson recently appeared on a Portland television program to stress rocket safety.

Two Refugees Get Jail Term

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—Two young men who fled Hungary in 1956 during an anti-Soviet revolt were sentenced yesterday to five years in Elmira Reformatory as burglars.

"Ignoring the kindness of this government and the people of the United States," Dutchell County Judge John R. Schwartz said, "you passed up the opportunities given to you to come, quite frankly, thieves and burglars."

Sandor Fejler, 18, a former student at Bard College, Annandale, N.Y., and Tibor Kepes, 23, an electrician, both had entered pleas of guilty in connection with two burglaries of a Hyde Park, N.Y., residence last year.

Gang Admits Attacking Girl

CHICAGO (AP)—Five teen-age Negro boys have admitted, police said, slaying and raping an 11-year-old white girl on an impulse to "go out and get a girl" in a racially mixed South Side neighborhood.

The five were seized yesterday after an intensive search by police since Feb. 4, when Carol Foss, a Girl Scout, was attacked near her home.

Police said the five admitted orally that they seized the girl, clad in a scout uniform, and dragged her down a stairwell, where they beat and assaulted her. Previously police said it had not been determined whether the girl had been raped.

The Foss girl identified the five in a police lineup as her assailants, and in so doing cleared three other Negro youths she previously implicated.

The five, held for further questioning, were identified as Ronald Valentine, 18, James Clay, 18, Bennie Walker, 13, Ronald Clark, 13, and Cleo Parker, 13. Police said Clay was named by his companions as the one who had suggested they "go out and get a girl."

A gang of boys dragged Carol down a basement stairwell, ripped off her scout uniform, beat her with their fists and gouged her, apparently with a broken bottle. She was hospitalized for several days.

Dulles Marks 70th Birthday

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles celebrated his 70th birthday on the job today.

Dulles confirmed that he feels fine although it is only a little more than a year since he underwent surgery for removal of an intestinal cancer.

Mrs. Dulles, giving some personal glimpses of the secretary in an interview, said he has no thought of retirement.

She predicted the secretary will run into even more criticism than usual this year, because it is an election year, but she said neither of them reads what the critics have to say.

Besides, she added, Dulles "knows more than they do."

The secretary of state "never gets bored—he always has something to do." He takes work home every weekend.

Despite his work load, Mrs. Dulles says, her husband is "certainly warmhearted" and if he gives the impression of being impersonal in his diplomatic role "he's concentrating on something."

He goes for tweeds when off the diplomatic circuit, is a baseball and bridge fan and when he wants to relax he looks for a detective story.

NAVAL MANEUVERS ON

MANILA (AP)—The greatest concentration of naval might in 14 years moved toward the Philippines today for massive missile age amphibious maneuvers against the island of Luzon.

Some 109 American and Filipino warships, carrying 80,000 men, moved southward from Japan and Okinawa, in "Operation Strongback," fighting off "enemy" submarine and air "attacks" as they advanced.

Psychiatrists To Spend Time In Salt Water Tank

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Two psychiatrists from here plan to spend Friday and Saturday in salt water in an attempt to link their reactions to treatment of mental illness.

Dr. Jay T. Shurley and Dr. Louis J. West will participate in an experiment at the National Institute of Mental Health in Bethesda, Md. They hope to find out what happens in the absence of outside sensations.

West, head of the University of Oklahoma Medical School psychiatry department, and Shurley, chief psychiatrist at the Veterans Administration hospital here, will observe each other's reactions in an experiment conducted by Dr.

John C. Lilly, physiologist at the institute.

West says some mentally ill persons have symptoms like those of normal persons cut off from all stimulation to the senses.

The doctors will alternate being submerged in a tank filled with salt water. They will be nude and the water will be heated to body temperature. A mask, designed for a minimum of pressure, permits breathing.

"There are no sounds, no sights," Dr. West said. "You feel nothing. It is the most completely cut off you can be unless you are floating in space."

West said one subject in a previous study "experienced vivid visual hallucinations and strange bodily sensations that were difficult to describe. Apparently there was a very strong hunger for some sensation. We don't know how long this can be tolerated. This is one of the things we want to find out."

Mayor Vetoes Gift Of Auto

NEW YORK (AP)—The Rev. Dr. John Ellis Large, a Protestant Episcopal clergyman, will be keeping his "nimble, daring and gallant little car" after all.

Until he heard from City Hall yesterday, the rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest had thought his offer to give his Renault Dauphine to the city for Mayor Robert F. Wagner's use had been accepted.

Wagner had appealed to American car manufacturers to build smaller cars as a means of lessening traffic congestion. Dr. Large noted with interest that the mayor continued to ride in an official Cadillac limousine, more than 19 feet long.

Dr. Large wrote the mayor, offering his "petite" French car. The clergyman also wrote a column for the back of his church's program, saying: "If the mayor chooses to lumber about the streets of this car-saturated city in an elephantine land cruiser, that's his business. But despite the crocodile tears and the piteous hand wringing, he thereby establishes himself as a member in good standing of that popular school whose motto is 'Don't do as I do; just do as I say.'"

Two weeks ago, Dr. Large heard from City Hall. Stanley H. Lowell, an assistant to the mayor, accepted the car.

Dr. Large replied, proposing that attorneys for the mayor and the clergyman arrange details for transferring the car.

Yesterday, Lowell said he thought the correspondence was all a joke. The rector was not amused, nor was the mayor.

Wagner said, "We don't accept cars or gifts from anybody." Dr. Large said he was serious when he made his offer. As for Lowell, his chuckles grew thinner with each passing hour.

Without elaborating, the defense chief said much of the discussion centered on ways of streamlining the Pentagon and the military services "to get more rapid decisions." The proposal of some critics for designation of a single chief of staff, he added, was "not under predominant consideration."

McElroy said recommendations for reorganization of the defense establishment will be submitted to Eisenhower "late in March."

Income Tax Tips

Editor's Note: Tax savings possible for home owners are treated in this article prepared by the Tax Information Committee of the Oregon Association of Public Accountants in cooperation with the National Society of Public Accountants and presented as a public service.

Are you a home owner or in the process of buying? Is so, this is the time of year that you have the edge on your rent-paying friends since many expenses involved in home ownership can be deducted in computing income taxes.

Because details often slip from memory and since proof will be needed if the return is challenged, now is a good time to start a file of canceled checks and other necessary papers for next year.

For most home owners, the biggest deduction will be the amount of interest paid on the mortgage during 1957. Other major allowable items are property taxes and casualty losses.

Naturally, ordinary costs of running and maintaining the household are not deductible. So don't claim redecoration items, light bills, insurance and other personal expenses.

Home purchasers in the early stages of a mortgage will find it especially important to check out their deductible costs. For about the first quarter of the life of the mortgage, interest payments exceed the amount of the principal every month. Then, as the home owner builds up equity over the years, the amount of his income tax savings from interest dwindles accordingly.

On a $16,000 mortgage financed at 5 per cent for 30 years, the annual interest during the first few years will average $800.

Some banks itemize each payment to show amount of interest, principal, taxes or other charges. If the amount of interest is not itemized, ask the bank for a statement showing it.

Don't forget to include any interest paid on home repair loans or (renters, take note, too) on furniture and home appliances purchased on credit.

When you claim property taxes, be sure to list only the taxes. Many municipalities include in the tax bill special fees for non-deductible expenses such as sewerage and street pavement.

In a casualty loss, the allowable deduction is the difference between the damage and the insurance reimbursement. A casualty is any loss to personal property as a result of fire, storm, flood, earthquake or other unexpected and unusual causes. Be prepared to substitute a before-and-after picture, repair bills and written offers to buy will help support an official appraisal. When large amounts are involved, it may be wise to get expert appraisal immediately after the casualty occurs.

Another important tax benefit that may accrue to the home owner is the capital gains allowance on home sale and purchase. If a home purchased in 1940 for $10,000 is sold for $15,000, the $5,000 "profit" is not taxable provided that the full $15,000 sales price is applied to the purchase of another home within one year. If another home is acquired for $14,000, taxes must be paid on $1,000.

As an alternative, you can start construction of a home within a year and occupy it within 18 months after the sale of your old home. If the new home costs as much as you received for your old one (with allowances for selling and "fixing up" expenses), you are not taxed on the gain. If your new home costs less, the gain is taxable to the extent of the difference. In any event, you must submit pertinent information concerning any sale of your home, whether there is a taxable gain or not.

Deductible home expenses that you claim should be itemized on Page 2 of form 1040, along with other allowable outlays like charity donations and medical expenses.

If you use a portion of your home for business purposes, you may be entitled to additional deductions, such as depreciation and a portion of the operating costs, as business expenses. Consultation with your public accountant will provide further specific information relative to tax problems arising from your home transactions.

Envoy Seeks To End Fight

PARIS (AP)—U.S. envoy Robert Murphy today carried the British-American effort to make peace between France and Tunisia to the Tunisian capital.

Murphy, U.S. deputy undersecretary of state, gave no public indication before taking off for Tunis of how his conciliatory work was progressing. He had spent the past three days conferring in Paris and London. It appeared that so far he was only filling in the details of each government's position.

Informed sources in Tunis said the North African republic will reject U.S.-British good offices and return the dispute to the U.N. Security Council unless Murphy (1) agrees to give priority to the Algerian war and (2) helps speed evacuation of France's 22,000 troops in Tunisia.

Legislators Split On Move To Cut Federal Secrecy

WASHINGTON (AP)—A backstage row broke into the open today over legislation designed to curb secrecy in government.

Rep. Meader (R-Mich.) said he will attempt to change the bill at a closed meeting of the House Government Operations Committee, tentatively scheduled for Thursday. He said his wording would make the measure's meaning clearer.

Rep. Moss (D-Calif.), the bill's author, shot back that Meader's two-word amendment would "completely destroy" the aim of the bill.

The Moss measure would amend a 169-year-old law giving federal department heads authority to make regulations for "custody, use and preservation" of records to say it "does not authorize withholding information from the public."

Meader said he wants to amend that to say withholding information is neither authorized nor prohibited.

The Moss bill, opposed by all 10 federal departments, was unanimously cleared by the three-member Government Information subcommittee headed by Moss. It appeared set for clear sailing when the parent Operations Committee met in secret session last week.

However, Meader said committee action was postponed for a week when a question was raised whether the bill actually might be interpreted as requiring the departments to open up the files. Since then, Meader said, misinformation has been circulated that all four committeemen from Michigan—Representatives Hoffman (R), Knox (R), Griffith (D) and Meader—are against the bill. Meader said the truth is that he is very much in favor of the objective of the bill and has heard no opposition to its purpose.

He said he believes no committee member wants to lay bare secrets like missile blueprints at Huntsville, Ala., while all wish to prevent the 1789 law from wrongful use as a secrecy shield. He said his two-word amendment would clearly declare Congress' intent.

"I reject any such language," Moss said. He called Meader's reference to the Huntsville missiles center "an absolute and uncomprehensible distortion" of the bill's effect because, Moss said, another law already exists which would keep the blueprints secret.
