

Larceny Case Bail Boosted

Cecil Hendricks, Klamath Falls man facing charges of larceny by bailce and check passing with insufficient funds, was remanded to the sheriff under $11,000 bail Monday by Circuit Judge David R. Vandenberg.

Hendricks, the former operator of a Klamath Falls collection agency, was upbraid by the judge "for inexcusable conduct which cost the taxpayers a great deal of money." The judge's action came on the heels of a chamber conference during which Attorney Pete Driscoll, counsel for the defense, asked that he be allowed to withdraw as Hendricks' attorney. Hendricks had been free on bond and had reportedly not contacted his attorney until a few minutes before the jury trial was scheduled to begin.

Judge Vandenberg granted Driscoll's request, recessed the jury which had been called, and reset the hearing date for the case on March 20. Hendricks will be tried on one of the two charges March 17, and the other on March 20. The judge raised the man's bond from $6,000 to $11,000 and reset the case so Hendricks could have time to obtain the services of another attorney.

Surgery Said Best Ulcer Aid

LOS ANGELES — Surgery, says a Mississippi doctor, can save ulcer patients from becoming "gastronomic cripples."

Dr. Lawrence W. Long told a news conference yesterday that many medical schools still recommend surgery for gastric ulcer only if the patient is over 45 and if the ulcer has bled twice.

In contrast, Long would recommend surgery at the outset.

"I think it is time for the surgeon to take the ball from the internist," he said.

"Too often the ulcer patient has been treated protractedly by medication, diet and other nonsurgical means. When, over a period of years, this has failed the patient is finally sent to a surgeon."

Use of surgery early in ulcer cases, he said, has become practical because of the great strides the profession has made in general operative techniques. These include the development of antibiotics, the perfection of anesthetics and their administration, and the availability of blood banks.

Long, staff surgeon at the Mississippi Baptist Hospital in Jackson, was here to address the 11th biennial International Congress of the International College of Surgeons. He said surgery for ulcers has reduced deaths from stomach cancer because of early detection. Many supposed ulcers turn out to be cancers when the surgeon sees them, he said.

Complete removal of both motor and sensory pathways to and from the heart constitutes a new surgical attack upon the pain of angina pectoris, the congress was told by Dr. Louis T. Palumbo, chief of the surgical service at Veterans Administration Center, Des Moines, Iowa.

Angina pectoris is a combination of symptoms associated with coronary heart disease. It is characterized by intense chest pains which frequently extend to the left shoulder and arm.

The operation, said Palumbo, is simpler and easier to perform than any other thus far employed. Removal of sensory and motor pathways "insures complete or near complete relief of disabling pain due to angina and it also eliminates the undesirable action of the motor nerves which supply and control the blood vessels to the heart muscle," he said.

A KLAMATH FALLS MAN, Cecil Enman, at the piano, now a private first class at Fort Lewis, Washington, has organized a band, The Hi-Five, and plays for special affairs in the community. Enman, a graduate of the Henley High School, organized a band while majoring in music at the University of Oregon, Eugene for campus appearances. Playing with him at the drums, is another Klamath Falls man, Dick Douglas, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Douglas, 1919 Erie Street. Enman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Lih, Route 1, Box 628.

Tule Woman Files For Post

TULELAKE — Mrs. Eleanor Waits, co-owner with a son, Elmer Waits Jr., of the Waits Plumbing business, Tulelake, is a candidate for the office of city clerk. Her name will be on the official ballot for the April 8 election.

She is a native of Oregon and came to Tulelake in 1935, soon after the townsite was laid out. She has had many years of experience as a bookkeeper and is familiar with office procedure. She has had no previous political experience.

She is a property owner and taxpayer in Siskiyou County, was affiliated with her husband prior to his death in the business she is now in; is a member of the Presbyterian Church, a charter member and past president of the Tulelake Business and Professional Women's Club; a member and officer of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, No. 8700 and has served in official capacities in Women of the Moose. She is interested in civic work for the advancement of Tulelake.

Mrs. Waits is the mother of three children, Elmer Jr., Tulelake, Mrs. Betty Motschenbacher, stationed in Alaska with her Air Force husband, and Mrs. Margaret Prince, Tulelake.

Watermelon Sought For Cancer Victim

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Seven-year-old Audrey Hocking, dying of cancer, asked for a piece of watermelon at Rhode Island Hospital last night and set off an intensive search for it.

Radio and TV stations broadcast appeals and wholesale fruit houses in Boston and New York were searched in vain.

The little girl has been in the hospital three weeks.

Missing Bank Cashier Found

FAYETTEVILLE, W.Va. — One evening last summer, bank cashier W. G. Potter of nearby Mount Hope told his wife he was going for a walk. He didn't come back.

Next day, the Mount Hope Bank's vault was found locked with a timing device set for 72 hours later. When it was opened, $41,504 was gone.

Yesterday, near the statehouse in Charleston, State Trooper A. R. Bruce became suspicious of a motorist with bandages on either side of his mouth and wearing cheap, dark glasses. When the man was taken to company headquarters, Lt. W. R. Callaghan identified him as Potter.

The 57-year-old cashier, a trusted bank employe for 35 years, disappeared Aug. 27, 1957. A federal grand jury indicted him last January.

At the Fayette County jail, Potter said he was on his way home to give himself up. Authorities said, however, he had a plane ticket to Chicago dated March 12. He had been living in Denver, Colo., and the Midwest.

Potter had $500 on him when he was picked up. No explanation was offered about the remainder of the money.

A hearing was set for today before Magistrate L. Virgil Lyons.

Home Extension

FRIENDLY NEIGHBORS CRESCENT — The Friendly Neighbors Crescent-Gilchrist unit of Home Extension met in the Crescent Community Club March 6 for a business and social meeting. Mrs. Elton Hight, chairman, announced election of officers will be held next meeting and will be installed at the county festival in April.

Mrs. Luke Barber, social chairman, was in charge of the program and Mrs. Jess Kersten was winner of the evening's prize. Names of secret pals were drawn for the new term. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Orin Bowman, Mrs. Barber and Mrs. Carl Larsen. Twenty members and one guest were present to enjoy the social.

The next meeting will be held March 20 at the home of Mrs. Ernest Hardman, which will be an all-day session on efficient kitchens.

KLAMATH COUNTY By Leah Ferrell The Klamath County Advisory Committee of Home Extension spent a busy day at the March meeting in planning for the annual Homemakers Festival to be held April 30 at the Klamath County Fairgrounds. Ruth Gustavson, home demonstration agent, announced the project training meeting for clothing accessories will be held March 26-28. The second program planning will be held April 15. Present at this meeting in addition to Miss Gustavson were Lou Smith, Christine Thomson, Margaret Loper, Mildred Bickers, Dee Hicks, Marion Randall and Leah Ferrell. The next meeting of the advisory committee will be held April 7.

Penitentiary Inmates Riot

PETROS, Tenn. — Prison guards planned to enter the cells of 300 riotous prisoners at Brushy Mountain State Prison today to survey the damage done in wild demonstrations ended only by the use of tear gas.

Warden Frank Llewellyn said the men rioted for several hours last night and that he had not allowed the guards to enter the cell blocks because he feared the prisoners might seize them as hostages.

Llewellyn said the men burned paper on the floors, scattered plumbing fixtures, smashed electric lights, pounded walls and bars, and yammered from their cells.

The demonstrators were mostly white prisoners. Llewellyn said it was the first riot in this east Tennessee prison's history.

When the lights were turned out "they really tore this place up," Llewellyn said.

"We pulled the guards out of there when it got so bad."

At about the same time, 11 convicts broke out of the Fort Pillow Prison in west Tennessee, scaled a 16-foot wall and scattered through the muddy lowlands.

A guard said they were armed. He was cut on the hand when the men took his keys and broke from the prison. The mass break threw the prison into an uproar. One of the men was captured shortly after the escape and two others several hours later. The others fled to the southwest, toward the wide barrier of the Mississippi River.

LIVING BOMB QUENCHED NAGANO, Japan (UP)—A construction worker who blew up a bar here Monday night rather than pay his bill threatened to transform himself into a living bomb when police tried to arrest him. Yoshito Shigemura clutched a stick of dynamite between his teeth and warned police that if they tried to approach him he would "blow up myself and all of you." Police summoned firemen, who drenched Shigemura, his explosive "cigar" and three more sticks of dynamite in his pockets.

Owl's Death Causes Furor

WAUKEGAN, Ill. — A howl over an owl got a scowl from Mayor Robert Sabonjean yesterday.

The owl, a member of the long-eared species protected from hunters by state law, was shot by policeman John Hoff, 30. The policeman said he was acting in line of duty when he fired his pistol to frighten a flight of about 40 swooping birds away from a children's playground. He thought they were hawks.

One bird, an owl, fell dead.

The mayor agreeing with Hoff's decision. "Now I'm getting these phone calls from bird lovers who want Hoff fired," said Sabonjean. "I wonder whether some bird lovers have any room in their hearts for their fellow man."

Wet Weather Covers U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Wet and cloudy weather covered broad areas of the country today, but there were no severe storms or wintry cold.

Light snow or flurries continued in sections of the Rockies and central part of the nation, with cloudy skies in most areas. The west belt extended from Montana southward through Colorado and eastward through the Mississippi Valley. Falls ranged up to 2 inches in west central Illinois.

More snow flurried across the lower Great Lakes region and light rain sprinkled parts of the lower Mississippi Valley.
