Fate Of Water Proposals Pondered By Legislators

By JERRY REYNOLDS

SACRAMENTO, (UP) — The Legislature today entered a 24-hour period of decision on the California water problem.

"The whole thing will probably be settled within the next 24 hours," said one cow county senator.

"We should have some decision in the next 24 or 36 hours," was another opinion. This one came from Sen. Hugh M. Burns (D-Fresno), the Senate president pro tempore and kingpin who leads the way on many such issues.

If it is not made known before, the decision on the fate of water in the 1958 session was expected to become known Thursday when the Senate Finance Committee meets.

Actually, the only water issue officially before the Legislature is a six million dollar appropriation in Gov. Goodwin J. Knight's 1958-59 budget for continued studies on the Feather River Project.

However, Knight himself has asked the Legislature to add another 72 million dollars to the budget for preliminary work on several units of the FRP.

And behind the scenes, the water experts of the Legislature still are trying to reach some common ground on which to build a constitutional amendment on water rights.

Assemblyman Glenn E. Coolidge (R-Felton), chairman of the assembly Ways and Means Committee, took his committee into its first 1958 night session Tuesday night in an attempt to finish work on the budget by Friday morning. He said he would not set Knight's 72 million dollar FRP proposal for hearing because it would snarl the budget in committee.

On the Senate side, James J. McBride (D-Ventura), chairman of the Finance Committee, set the 72 million appropriation amendment for hearing Thursday morning. He said "I believe the committee will keep the FRP money out of the budget like they did in the Assembly."

However, Burns said he felt a faster solution to the water problem could be gained by inserting the sum in the budget.

He said he would back such a move in McBride's committee Thursday and also would back the addition of a two million dollar amendment for a study of the Eel River and possible aqueduct routes from there to Southern California.

The start on the Eel was expected to remove northern doubts about continuing water project construction and salve San Joaquin Valley fears that all the water will be shipped right by them to Southern California.

McBride said if his committee doesn't have trouble with the FRP appropriation, he expected to have the budget on the floor of the Senate by next Wednesday or Thursday.

Parking Meter Action Slated

DUNSMUIR—The city's parking meters are being patrolled again and the city council has recommended the overtime parking fine be upped from 50 cents to $1.

Parking meter revenues had dropped by 50 per cent in the last few months and overtime fines were practically nonexistent. The city council approved the hiring of J. M. Kinsey as an additional officer bringing the police force to five men for the first time since April, 1957. Police Chief Lee Clark says this will allow for enforcement of parking regulations and alleviate some of the work load on the officers.

Saturday free parking will be retained and the merchants have been authorized to hood the meters on that day.

In other business the council noted storm damage at $21,500 and authorized John Petty, superintendent of public works, to work with Harold Beale, civil defense director, to seek federal aid to repair washed out streets and sewers. The U.S. Army engineers will be asked to survey river channel damage.

Herbert Miles, district engineer for the division of highways, told the council that the state will blacktop snow removal alleyways on the west side of Dunsmuir and reconstruct Highway 99 through town (Florence Avenue) to the satisfaction of the council before turning it over to the city upon completion of the freeway bypass.

Miles heard Reg Thom and other property owners complain about the freeway access plan at the city's northern limit claiming near isolation of a two block commercial area. Miles suggested the property owners work directly with the highway department.

The Klamath Falls, Oregon Technical Institute and Suburban fire departments prevented the flames from spreading to other buildings in a high wind. The loss was partially covered by insurance. The fire is believed to have started from a brooder.

Saturday Sports Events In Grade Schools Studied

By JOHN GUERNSEY

The Saturday sports programs sponsored by the city elementary and junior high schools were subject to some criticism Tuesday evening during the school budget board sessions.

At one point, Art Dye, budget member, said it should definitely be ascertained whether there is sufficient participation in the Saturday programs to warrant the expense. He said he has been told that in some cases the Saturday programs are little more than "glorified baby-sitting programs" for the parents and at the expense of the schools.

The item came to the table when the joint budget boards of the city schools considered a requested salary increase for the elementary coaches working with the after school and Saturday programs. The coaches requested a special time hourly wage increase from $2 to $2.50. The total request would have cost the combined districts approximately $1,842 additional per year.

Joe Mercer, board member, said he had talked with some of the participating coaches, and that they felt the Saturday athletic programs for grade schoolers should be abandoned due to a lack of participation.

Mercer said it just might be that the schools are over - extending themselves to provide non school hour recreation for the students, and that the parents should perhaps take more responsibility when providing entertainment and recreation for the children when they are away from school.

School Superintendent Arnold Gralapp suggested that all the elementary coaches and athletic personnel be on hand at any discussion about whether to continue the programs. A definite date for such a discussion was not set.

The board voted not to increase the hourly rates for instructors taking part in the Saturday programs.

Similarly, the music teachers' request for an outside activity hourly wage increase was turned down by the boards. The teachers had requested that the hourly rates for outside activity be increased from $2 to $3, at an approximate $666 cost to the school districts.

The outside time cited by the music teachers encompasses such activity as accompanying the musical groups during evening programs, working with the band and other musical units when they travel out of town, and special instruction for some of the groups.

With reference to the outside music activity, some of the board members reiterated their stand that perhaps the schools are obligating themselves to account for too much of the students' time during the outside school hours.

The school districts paid $1,332 for 666 hours of music department outside activity time during the 1956-57 school year. In turning down the raise request, the boards approved Wyatt Padgett's motion that the overtime rate remain the same, and that the number of extra activity hours be confined to 500 during the forthcoming school year.

In other action the boards:

1. Approved a 20 cent per hour wage increase for janitors and bus drivers. The raise will cost the school districts approximately $1,267 during the coming year. The new increase, based on a 44-hour week, will raise the monthly salary for combination janitors - bus drivers from $353 to $388, and will increase the hourly rate for out of town driving trips from approximately $1.92 to $2.

2. Increased the hourly rate for clerical help by approximately 5.5 per cent. The increase will cost the combined school districts approximately $2,666. Excluding the 5.5 per cent increase, the current rates for elementary clerical workers range between $1 to $1.47 per hour, the high school and special clerical costs are between $1.07 and $1.63 per hour, and the payroll and advanced stenographic rates range between $1.09 and $1.96 per hour depending on experience.

3. Raised the hourly rates for school cooks and assistant cooks by 10 cents per hour. The new rates will be $1.60 per hour for cooks and $1.35 per hour for helpers. The combined costs to the school districts will be approximately $2,880.

4. Raised the annual salary for school maintenance superintendent, John Glubrecht, from $6,040 to $6,500, and specified that the salary will be open for further consideration during the next budget hearing.

5. Increased the annual salary for the cafeteria superintendent, Mrs. Hattie Barnstable, from $4,716 to $4,975.

6. Approved the raising of Clerk Harold Ashley's annual salary from $7,500 to $8,000 if the school boards elect to effect the increase after July 1.

7. Tentatively approved the inclusion of $14,000 in the school budgets for the purchase of one new school bus.

The joint school and budget boards have scheduled further meetings this week in an attempt to wrap up the budget studies by March 17.

Ranger Sees Timber Gain

LAKEVIEW—A definite upturn for the next five or 10 years in the planned future timber harvest on the Silver Lake District of the Fremont National Forest is reported by Richard J. Brookins, ranger for that district.

A gradual shift in the timber cutting program from the Paisley district northerly to the Silver Lake ranger district will result in a considerable increase in the planned cut on the latter district for the next few years. For the past five years the cut has averaged less than five million board feet per year. Present plans call for this volume to be increased to an average of 18 million board feet of ponderosa pine annually for the following five years. Added to this will be 13 million board feet of lodgepole pine that will be removed by the Johns-Manville pulp operation each year. The total cut on the district will amount to about 31 million board feet.

The increased volume will be removed from the large block of virgin timber lying south of Silver Lake between Hager and Yamsey mountains. This area comprises roughly 80,000 acres. It is anticipated that the sales will be made in a variety of sizes suitable for supplying the existing industrial plants. In addition to selling the above amounts of green timber, plans call for an aggressive salvage program designed for the removal and use of all possible dead and dying timber.

Ranger Brookins anticipates that the district timber sales force will be increased by both foresters and engineers to handle the additional work load that will result. This work, in addition to sales preparation and administration, will consist of surveying and designing several miles of high standard access roads which will be required for operator construction. Many more miles of existing roads will be improved.
