Police Report Secret Work

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A tale of undercover police work unfolded yesterday in the trial of 35 men charged with conspiracy to ship arms and ammunition to Cuban rebels.

One government witness, a former police officer, testified he delivered by truck a mysterious shipment to a group of men at a nearby beach on the Gulf of Mexico.

Another said he posed as a crew member on a converted fishing vessel on which the group was apprehended after a sea chase last March.

Testimony got under way before a jury of 11 men and a woman after all 35 pleaded innocent. Antonio del Conde, Mexico City, whom the government claims conspired to move arms to Cuban rebel leader Fidel Castro, pleaded guilty and will be sentenced later.

The defendants sat in a row as the trial got under way before Judge James V. Allred. An interpreter translated for the defendants, most of whom have difficulty with English.

Court recessed for the night after Immigration Patrol Inspector George W. Nefford said he posed as a member of the crew of the vessel on which the men were arrested, the Orion.

Former police officer Alfonso A. Teveino, 37, said he met Del Conde last February, and consented to have a "shipment" consigned in his name and sent to Brownsville.

Trevino testified he was in constant contact with U.S. customs agents throughout that time. The government claims Del Conde was contact man for the defendants.

Government agents seized some $20,000 worth of small arms and ammunition on the fishing vessel.

Conviction could mean up to 10 years in prison or $10,000 fines or both for each defendant.

Farm Work Shows Hike

SACRAMENTO (UP) — Farm employment jumped 19 per cent cording to Edward F. Hayes, chief of the California Department of Agriculture's Farm Placement Service.

Hayes told the Board of Agriculture Monday that farm employment reached 457,000 during the week ending May 10, an increase of 73,700 from the April level.

Hayes said there were unfilled jobs for 6,600 more workers. He said the shortage was mostly concentrated in the Central Coast and San Joaquin Valley counties.

However, despite the sharp increase in farm employment, 21,000 fewer persons were working on farms May 10 than were employed the corresponding week last year.

"Although demand for farm workers is rising now," Hayes said, "a sharply increased need is anticipated when sugar beets and tomatoes are ready for thinning and hoeing and when cotton chopping gets underway."

Students Vow Quiet Funeral

PANAMA (AP)—Students promised an orderly funeral today for a high school youth fatally injured in demonstrations against Panama's education minister.

President Ernesto de la Guardia Jr. blamed the clash yesterday between the students and National Guardsmen on political opponents who he said used the youths as a shock force against his government. He agreed to meet tomorrow with student leaders to discuss their demand for removal of three guard commanders.

Sixty-two persons were injured in the clash at Panama City's largest high school — 42 students, 18 guardsmen and two bystanders. Four students and five guardsmen were hospitalized.

Nation's Interest Centers On Pennsylvania Election

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pennsylvania voters, including President Eisenhower, ballot today in a primary election attracting nationwide interest because of Harold E. Stassen's independent bid for the Republican nomination for governor.

Eisenhower, once served by Stassen as an adviser, has not indicated which Republican segment will receive his vote.

After voting, the President will travel by helicopter to Harrisburg and board the presidential plane, Columbine' III, for New York where he delivers a major speech tonight.

Cloudy to sunny skies, but no rain, were forecast.

Stassen, three-time governor of Minnesota, opposes Arthur T. McGonigle, Reading businessman who has the blessing of the GOP organization.

The Democrats have a seasoned campaigner in Mayor David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh, bidding to succeed his running mate, Gov. George M. Leader, who seeks nomination to the U.S. Senate. Lt. Gov. Roy E. Furman, of Waynesburg, is running for the gubernatorial nomination as an independent Democrat.

Winding up his campaign Monday night, Stassen charged "bad politics" has been a detrimental force in Pennsylvania in recent years. He urged Republicans to offset the "controlled vote" of the party.

Stassen reaffirmed his pledge that if elected he would work for more jobs, better school opportunities for children and a fairer tax system.

McGonigle's campaign, already supported by the Pennsylvania Manufacturer's Assn., received a last - minute windfall of $3,000 from Richard K. Mellon, head of the Mellon family interests.

The polls opened at 8 a.m. and close at 9 p.m. e.d.t.

Trujillo Aide Pays Drunk Fine

TORRANCE, Calif. (UP)—Victor Sued, 29, Secretary of Lt. Gen. Rafael Trujillo, Jr. of the Dominican Republic, was fined $262 and sentenced to five days in jail Monday for drunk driving.

Judge John A. Snidler of South Bay Municipal Court said he was inclined to make an example of Sued because of his high position but finally suspended the jail sentence.

Officers arrested Sued Friday on a drunk charge. They said they saw the aide driving erratically from one side of the highway to the other.

Sued's boss, young Trujillo, created a stir in Washington with his rich gifts to actresses Kim Novak, Zsa Zsa Gabor and Joan Collins.
