

Baltimore's Mayor Emerges As Candidate

By LOUIS G. PANOS
BALTIMORE (AP) — Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, for 32 years a storm center Maryland politics, emerged from a seven-way scramble today as the state's Democratic candidate for U.S. Senate.

The victory of the colorful 54-year-old Baltimore mayor set up a November contest between him and Republican Sen. J. Glenn Beall, who was renominated to a second term over token opposition.

D'Alesandro won by a wide margin over his closest opponent, George P. Mahoney, the paving contractor who was the Democratic senatorial nominee in 1952 and 1956.

Unofficial returns from 1,335 of the state's 1,337 polling places gave D'Alesandro 124,500 votes.

Interstate Lumber Freight Reductions Denied By ICC

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission has suspended lumber freight reductions planned by railroads between Oregon and California.

The ICC's rate division ordered the suspension Tuesday until Dec. 29 so it can investigate the reductions.

Southern Pacific and other western railroads had planned to put the new rates into effect Tuesday night. They would have cut the cost of shipping large quantities of lumber between certain points in Oregon and California.

The commission's Board of Suspension refused last Friday to block the decreases, but the commission overruled that board Tuesday on an appeal filed by various shippers, truckers and transportation groups in the two states.

The SP and the other railroads had told the commission the rates changes were necessary to meet competition from truckers.

After the ICC ordered the suspension, the Southern Oregon Conservation and Tree Farm Association and the Willamette Valley Lumbermen's Association, both of Oregon, joined in motions for reconsideration. The ICC rejected them.

Dog Poisoner On Loose

Dog owners are warned that a "poisoner" appears to be on the loose again.

Mrs. Peggy Van Pelt, 2022 Vine Street, reports that a family pet, a 7½-year-old boxer, was fenced in the backyard at their business, the Sewing Center on East Main Street, but was poisoned sometime Tuesday morning.

She reports that the dog was apparently all right early in the morning after they opened their business, but within 30 minutes he was dead apparently from poison.

A veterinarian speculated that from the dog's actions, he had probably died of strychnine poisoning.

Mrs. Van Pelt reports that her young daughter, only 2½, was with the dog in the backyard much of the time and could easily have consumed some of the poison. However, the child apparently had not done so.

She urged anyone who might have seen persons around the backyard to let them know, and also all dog owners in the area to keep a special watch on their pets.

Negro College Need Cited

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — All Negro universities are still needed in this country no matter what the Supreme Court says, a distinguished Negro educator says.

"In such Deep South states as Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina there is almost a total lack of communication between the races," Dr. F. D. Patterson explained. "The private Negro colleges are often the only places in a community where the leaders of both races can meet together in an effort to ease tensions. The states have no control over what goes on at the private campuses."

The 56-year-old former president of Tuskegee Institute in Alabama is here to spark the United Negro College Fund appeal for 2½ million dollars.

Red Radio Tells Of Space Ports

LONDON (AP) — Soviet scientists have proved in theory that they can send up floating space stations to serve as takeoff points for further travel through the heavens, Moscow radio said today.

The broadcast said the scientists believe such satellites can be put in orbit more than 21,000 miles up. It gave this account:

The stations will zoom through space at about 6,300 miles per hour, but since they will move in the same direction as the earth and glide it once every 24 hours they will appear motionless. Thus flights to the cosmic platforms can be made at any time from any spot on earth.

LOS ANGELES (UP) — Railroads may not lower their rates for shipments of lumber because a reduction would cause unfair competition between railroads and trucking firms, the California Public Utilities Commission has ruled.

Railroad requests for a rate reduction were turned down Tuesday after the commission heard arguments on the proposal from the California Chamber of Commerce and the California Lumber Truckers Assn.

A public hearing will be held Sept. 18 to make a final decision on the matter, a commission spokesman said.

Doctor Says To Speak Softly

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — People who constantly talk themselves hoarse are more likely to develop cancer of the voice box than those who speak softly, a Los Angeles surgeon says.

Salesmen, news boys, circus barkers, pitchmen and auctioneers are typical of those who keep their vocal cords under strain, said Dr. Alden H. Miller of the University of Southern California Medical School. He reported on 48 cases of cancer of the larynx to the American Laryngological Assn.

Stassen's Defeat Recalls Situation 10 Years Ago

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The portrait stood on a table in the corner, propped against the wall by some election leaflets.

It was a likeness of Harold Stassen, painted in another day. It stared at the bunting in the Stassen - for-governor headquarters. There was a faraway look around the eyes.

Ten years ago this summer, there was a Stassen-for-president headquarters in Philadelphia. It was jammed with people, struggling through a thicket of camera tripods and battalions of reporters, a tornado of noise and excitement.

Shortly before 1 a.m. today, the headquarters on Chestnut Street in Philadelphia was almost deserted. The room was quiet. A handful of volunteer workers stood talking in low tones. A single movie camera waited.

The hour was early, but even before that Stassen, in effect, had conceded that he was defeated in his bid for the Republican nomination for governor of Pennsylvania.

He spent the early hours of election night in his hotel room. Only his wife, a slight, sweet-faced woman, was with him.

Then, less than three hours after the polls closed, Stassen came to his headquarters in the hotel. A few reporters and photographers were waiting.

"The Philadelphia returns would be difficult to overcome," he said. "He had an air of marble calm."

"That sounds as though you have already thrown in the sponge," a reporter said.

"We will have to wait for returns from other places where counting paper ballots is slow," he said. "But it would be difficult to overcome the returns in Philadelphia."

A starved little smile played around his mouth. He waited, quietly, for more questions. No, he wouldn't comment yet on details. No, he wouldn't talk about his future plans.

"I'm going to the Chestnut Street headquarters now," he said.

There he shook hands, thanked his volunteer workers, answered a few telephone calls, made a re-

Freak Accident Hospitalizes Man

NEW PINE CREEK — Injuries resulting from a freak accident in which the young heifer he was milking trampled him, caused Howard Wells, New Pine Creek, to be admitted to the Lakeview Hospital last week.

Wells was milking the heifer when a cat frightened her. The heifer kicked the stool Wells was sitting on, and Wells fell under the cow. This caused her to be more frightened and she reared and bucked, landing on Wells' neck and chest.

An X-ray examination revealed no broken bones but Wells suffered a laceration under his right ear and his chest was badly bruised.

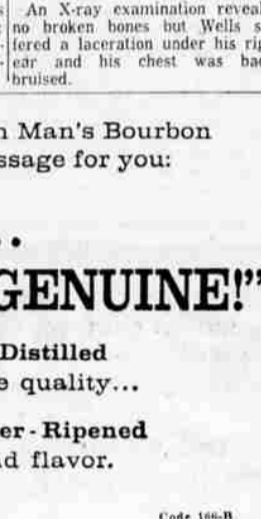

L A Driver Hurries (115 mph) To Testify

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Highway Patrolman Bright Bell sighed heavily after booking Virginia Tyson, 28, Los Angeles, on a charge of reckless driving.

After leading him on a 20-mile chase at speeds up to 115 miles an hour, he said she told him "I'm on my way to San Francisco to testify in the sanity hearing of a friend."

cording for a radio broadcast. Through it all, he seemed cool, totally unruffled.

At the same time, he had the enigmatic expression of a man who knows a secret, something he isn't telling.

In a corner, three of his aides were talking. One of them said: "We're getting clobbered tonight. In November, the party will get clobbered."

"Then, there will be a wholesale housecleaning in the Republican party."

Reports already are current that, should these prophecies come true, Stassen will try to head a reorganized GOP in the state. He wasn't saying.

"I'm going home and go to bed now," he said. "See you in the morning, boys."

The portrait in the corner stared across the years.
