

PCC Meeting Ends; Some Rules Changed

the spring workouts over a 36-day area.

A conference member taking part in a nationally televised grid game gets half the fee. It has retained 30 per cent of this in the past and whacked up the rest with other conference members. Under a new rule the competing team will keep 40 per cent. In a game telecast regionally, the team will retain 70 per cent instead of 50.

It was explained that teams needed greater protection against losses in attendance at televised games.

There was a slight tightening of scholastic requirements for athletes, effective in the fall. To remain eligible a player must pass in 26 semester hours or 39 quarter hours in off seasons. Previously the minimums were 24 or 36. And a new rule will require a sophomore to exhibit a 1.75 grade point freshman average to be eligible for varsity competition, improve this to 1.9 the second year and to 2.0 the third year.

Detz Tosses Guards' Win

Frank Detz hurled a one-hit shutout Tuesday night to highlight the Men's Softball League action at Conner Field as the National Guard whipped the Air Force Jets 3-0.

In the other game, Market Basket spoiled Hal's Sport Shop's league debut with a 6-1 victory.

Detz struck out 10 Jets and allowed only an infield single off the bat of John Carswell to spoil his bid for a no-hitter. Kenny Young banged out two hits in three trips for the winners, one a first-inning home run.

Hal's opened its league play, but found the pitching of Mitch Hannon too tough. Market Basket only picked up five hits but bunched them with fielding errors for the win. Jerry Nygren of Hal's scored his team's only run with a homer in the bottom of the sixth.

Folley Manager Has Troubles With Bouts

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The problems of nursing a heavyweight boxing contender into a title shot are getting so complex that Mr. Bill Swift, who manages a lad named Zora Folley, must be near a nervous break-down.

Swift can't find a place to take his lad for a "warm-up" to stay in shape for the day when he can get a crack at champion Floyd Patterson without somebody attempting to "rob" his boy in one way or another.

I'm inclined to agree with the Arizona gentleman that there is "something rotten—not in Denmark—but with the business of boxing."

FIRST COMPLAINT

When Swift and Folley came to San Francisco a couple of months ago for a big fight with Eddie Machen, Folley did everything except mop up the floor with the California boxer for the first five rounds. The two men were fairly even the rest of the way—but the bout was called a draw by the two judges and the referee. The referee actually voted for Machen on "aggressiveness"—although all agreed that Folley chased his man around the ring pretty good.

"I was warned about the treatment we'd get in San Francisco," said Swift later. "But I didn't believe it. I'll never come back here again."

So Mr. Swift takes his boy to Las Vegas to tackle an unranked lad named Art Swiden of Pittsburgh.

Swift not only had trouble with the officials in the gambling capital, but he had the opposition manager take a swing at him. As a matter of fact, there may have been more action around the ring than there was in it.

SECOND COMPLAINT

"I never saw such a fight," said the usually mild-mannered Swift. "I'm never going to leave Phoenix again."

Sweet William probably said that in a moment of pique. It's a cinch that Cus D'Amato isn't going to defend his crown—if he ever does put it on the line against a professional.

So Swift and Folley probably will wind up in Louisville, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Chicago or New York or some other place in the "grades" of the East or Midwest where they know tricks we country lads in the West never heard of.
