

FEW TEEN-AGERS either blossom into beauties or start attracting boys just like that. It takes care and good grooming to make a beauty and it takes good looks and understanding to attract the boys. This girl is going about it the right way. Knowing that most boys loathe loud make-up she avoids it. She sticks to a touch of tinted liquid make-up (left), light powder and a bit of lipstick for her appearances in public. She applies the liquid make-up from neck to forehead, then buffs it lightly with a tissue. She sees to it (center) that her clothes are neat, clean and pressed. Here, she sorts clothes for the dry cleaner, resisting the temptation to get an extra wearing from a soiled dress. For her date at the local soda shop (right), she looks natural, glowing and fresh. In other words, she looks the way an attractive teen-ager should look.

ON HER WEDDING DAY, this bride will look beautiful through the ceremony and the reception despite the crush of people and the hugs of well-wishers. Her secret lies in the care she takes to keep her make-up both natural and long lasting. She uses the same care with fragrance. First, she uses spray mist in lily-of-the-valley scent to create a cloud of fragrance about her (left). She applies a true-color lipstick (center) that leaves color on the lips even when the lipstick has been removed. And she finishes with perfume, matched in scent to the spray mist. She sprays it on at wrists and throat where it will last longest.

LITTLE MARY ANNE BOLD is just as pretty as her brother Gary is handsome. She will be 3 in August, and Gary was 8 in March. Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Bold and all of their grandparents, Mrs. Christine McCormick, Mrs. Ernest Puddy and K. I. Bold, are residents of Bonanza. —Photo by Ferebee

THE OLD STRAW SKIMMER COMES 'SAILING BACK

NEW YORK (NEA)—It's straw hat time again. And the big news among the raffia set is the surprising revival of the straw skimmer, or sailor. This is the flat straw without which Maurice Chevalier would look like just another Frenchman.

The rebirth of the skimmer is surprising because it comes in an era when, otherwise, men are going for more comfortable hats (crushable, lightweight, cooler weaves) and nobody ever said the skimmer was a gem of comfort.

Two possible reasons for the revival. First is the usual cyclical trends in fashion—what goes out must come back, sometime. Second is the fact that the skimmer fits in well with certain other aspects of fashion—both with the chemise the women are reluctantly donning and with the Ivy Look in men's clothes.

There are some differences between the skimmers of the '20s and the new '58 models. Dobbs' pet new skimmer, the Fore-and-Aft, has a bit of a taper to the brim. "Business note: this job is already sold out, by the manufacturer to the retailers."

Thomas Berg's skimmer has an extremely narrow brim—1 1/2 inches—and colorful, interchangeable bands. The skimmers of the old days were usually banded in black and the brim was wide enough to land airplanes.

Men are seemingly finding the usual straw a touch too informal for some occasions, and there's an air of dressiness to the skimmer that somehow appeals to them. In the last two years, there have been slightly more skimmer sales and the advance orders for this season are relatively large.

There are still plenty of the regular straws, of course, in all kinds

HIGHEST TIDES

Highest tides in the world occur in Nova Scotia's Bay of Fundy, 170-mile-long pocket of ocean northeast of Maine. Tides at the head of the bay may rise and fall as much as 53 feet and involve more than 100 billion tons of water.

SAFEGUARD

The United States bought the Virgin Islands from Denmark for 25 million dollars during World War I as a safeguard against German occupation.

GOOD RESOLUTION for the entire year centers around a streamlined figure. This girl uses a folded terry towel as a massage strap to tighten up flabby flesh. She lathered her legs with soapsuds before starting.

VANCOUVER SETS FESTIVAL

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Vancouver is joining the summertime festival procession with a 10-feature program of music, dance and drama next summer. Features are to include presentation of a play "The World of the Wonderful Dark," by Lester Sinclair, the miming of Marcel Marceau and Mozart's opera "Don Giovanni."

The festival, from July 19 to August 15, is under patronage of Vincent Massey, governor general of Canada.

SCRAP

A finished surface can be protected while being nailed by using a scrap piece from a Masonite "Peg-Board" panel. After the nail has been started, drop the piece of perforated hardboard over it. A misdirected hammer blow then will strike the shield instead of the finished surface.

AMERICAN TRAVELERS

Fifty-three per cent of the Americans who travel abroad are women, and the largest number are under 30, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.
