Firm Held Up In Portland
 PORTLAND (AP)—The Hollywood district branch office of the Local Loan Co. was held up late Monday afternoon by a well-dressed gunman, who fled with an undisclosed amount of cash.
 The robber wore natty slacks, an Ivy League cap, a cream-colored sports coat and sun glasses.
 Miss Jean Houseman, a cashier in the second floor office of the loan company, said he walked in and handed her a note reading: "This is a holdup. Give me your cash." She said he then pulled back his coat, revealing the butt of a gun in a holster.
 She opened a drawer and handed him the cash. After taking it he took back the note and walked out. So well executed was the holdup that customers and other cashiers were unaware of what was going on until the man had left.

Chinese Faces Deportation
 DAVENPORT, Iowa (AP)—"They want me to leave. Why?" In an almost incomprehensible voice Harry Lee, a 72-year-old nearly blind retired Chinese cook, repeated, "I don't know why."
 Lee has been living in this country one month short of 40 years. Now he faces deportation to Red China.
 The U. S. Immigration Service has given Lee 30 days in which to produce sworn affidavits that he has not left this country since 1924. Lee said this will be difficult because in 40 years, he has lived in various cities and most of his old friends are dead.
 Lee entered New York City as a stowaway in 1918. Nearly 24 years later he registered with the Chinese consulate in New York. He said he has filed alien reports for more than 10 years.
 He came to this area in 1944 as a cook and restaurant operator. Now nearly blind from cataracts, he receives $90 a month social security.
 Lee's attorney Harry Ferguson quoted an immigration official as saying "Lee's files were checked during 'a slow period.'"

Alabama Voters Go To Poll To Decide 'Thorny' Issue
 BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Attention centers on charges of Ku Klux Klan support and the thorny issue of Democratic party loyalty today as Alabamians vote in a runoff primary election.
 Seventeen members of the State Democratic Executive Committee will be elected on the same ballot. A long list of 55 committeemen named in the first primary May 6, they will decide whether to retain the controversial party loyalty oath which, in presidential elections, now binds Alabama to the national party.
 Runoff candidates for the nomination for governor are Atty. Gen. John Patterson, 36, who led the first primary field, and 38-year-old Circuit Judge George Wallace.
 Patterson is the son of the late A. L. Patterson, an anti-vice crusader.
 Charges that Patterson is campaigning with the support of the Klan have been made by the Montgomery Advertiser, a daily newspaper; the Greensboro Watchman, a weekly; and Wallace. All said the attorney general has been associated in the campaign with Grand Dragon Robert Shelton.
 Patterson acknowledged that he was acquainted with Shelton, but said he did not know he was a leader in the Klan.
 States righters, who are pledged to repeal the loyalty oath, are struggling with national party loyalists for state committee control. In last month's primary, the states righters won 32 seats and the loyalists 23. To gain control of the 72-member committee, the states righters must win only five of the remaining 17 seats today.
 The loyalty oath requires that before anyone can run in Democratic primaries, he must pledge allegiance to the national party.

George Osgood Klinkus Weds Pretty Sophomore
 LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A formal military wedding on the Jordan High School campus has united George Osgood Klinkus and a pretty sophomore coed.
 George, probably the best known student in the school, wore a mask. The ceremony concluded, the young couple marched under a bridge of crossed sabers in the best military tradition.
 There was no honeymoon. There never will be. Actually, George Osgood Klinkus doesn't exist. He's a living gag on the Jordan campus.
 He was enrolled more than a year ago. The administration may not like him, and certain faculty members have fallen prey to the conspiracy involved, but George is officially tolerated in the interest of student morale.
 George has taken some of the standardized examinations. What really happened? A student filled out an extra exam paper for George. Sometimes, ironically enough, George's test grade was better than his proxy's.
 The nonexistent George has a complete set of records in the office of the registrar. Once he was expelled for smoking. It was hard to convince some teachers that George really doesn't exist. They had seen his name on the absence rolls from time to time.
 Some teacher had to go along with the gag at the start, of course. She helped with the enrollment. A joke is a joke, even in the serious pursuit of knowledge, and Principal Milton Sager says this joke hasn't gotten out of hand.
 "George Osgood Klinkus isn't going to be graduated with this senior class," Sager said. "There have been sly rumors to that effect. This joke always has been within bounds and it will stay within them. It has caused some teachers some trouble, but I don't think anyone has taken this thing seriously."
 When the high school paper came off the presses last week it announced that George had been suspended. It said he was "indefinitely absent — TBM." It explained he was to be married. The ROTC unit stood by as Bob Bragole, post chaplain, recited the vows for George and 15-year-old Ann Methelsen, who was attired in a beautiful white formal gown, with bridal veil. The witnesses couldn't keep from laughing because of George's grotesque mask and because he wore so many medals that his ROTC uniform sagged.
 Says Principal Sager: "I'd be happy to attend George Osgood Klinkus' funeral."
